MOTION TO PRINT

Senator Biggar moved that the following editorial which appeared in the San Francisco Examiner regarding an address delivered by Prime Minister Winston Churchill, be printed in the Journal:

Motion carried.

Excerpt from San Francisco Examiner March 18, 1945

CHURCHILL SAYS: ENGLAND WILL SPURN TOTALITARIAN SHACKLES ON LIBERTY

Prime Minister Winston Churchill in an address delivered last Thursday in London expressed his deep-seated conviction that Britain will retain after the war her well-established liberties and refuse to accept the fraudulent controls of the totalitarian systems no matter what guise they appear in or what excuse has been given for their imposition.

Cautioning of difficulties ahead, Churchill declared:

"Let there be no mistake about it. It is no easy cheapjack Utopia of airy phrases that lies before us.

"This is no time for windy platitudes. The Conservative party had far better go down telling the truth and acting in accordance with the verities of our position than gain a span of shabbily bought office by easy and fickle froth and chatter.

"Woe betide those public men," Churchill cried, "who seek to slide into power down the slippery slope of vain and profligate undertakings. This is no time for humbug and blandishment, but for grim and stark facts and figures, and action to meet immediate needs.

"It would be very easy for us all to promise or even to give each other presents, bonuses and gratuities in the most enthusiastic manner but if we woke up in the morning and found that the pound sterling ($4) bought only five shillings ($1) worth of goods or services we should have committed the crime of cheating the soldiers and workers of the Country."

"British Fly Flag of Free Enterprise"

He asserted Britain would be able to recover from its exertions of the war "only by a large release from the necessary bonds and controls" imposed by war.

"No restrictions upon well-established British liberties * * * can be tolerated," he said. "Control for control's sake is senseless.

"At the head of our mainmast, we fly the flag of free enterprise.

"You hear all this talk by the stay-at-home leftwing intelligentsia that the Soldiers will hold us guilty if we do not have a new world waiting for them on their return. The brave new world is to be already waiting for them when they disembark at Liverpool, on the Clyde, at Southampton, or Tilbury Docks.

"But that is not what the fighting men are looking forward to.

"They are not looking forward to a new world constructed behind their backs by politicians who seek their votes. Most of them have lived long enough in uncomfortable proximity to another world to be thinking of that. * * *

"They do not regard themselves as a slumbered serf-population chased into battle from a land of misery and want. They love their Country and the scenes of their youth and manhood and they have shown themselves ready to die not only in defense of their material satisfactions but for its honor.

"They wish to see old England or Scotland or Wales or Northern Ireland playing their part in the forefront of all the nations in battles against tyranny. When they are home and settled down and our Country is again a going concern, paying its way and standing on its own in the postwar world, then will be the time for them to settle what form and shape our society should assume. * * *

"No restriction upon well-established British liberties that is not proved indispensable to the prosecution of the war and the transition from war to peace can be tolerated.

"Control for control's sake is senseless. Controls under the pretext of war or its aftermath which are in fact designed to favor the accomplishment of totalitarian systems, however innocently designed, whatever guise they take, whatever liveries they wear, whatever slogans they mouth are a fraud which should be mercilessly exposed to the British public."

"SEC. 4. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health or safety within the meaning of Section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution and shall therefore go into immediate effect. A statement of the facts constituting such necessity is as follows:

The demands of the Legislature upon the time of its members in this critical period when many important measures require full and careful consideration, as well as the absence of many members of the legal profession in the armed services of our Country, render it impossible for lawyer members to protect fully the interests of their clients. In order that these clients be fully protected in their legal rights until the members can return to their practices and safeguard the rights of clients, it is necessary that this act take effect immediately."

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communication was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

FEDERATION OF WESTERN OUTDOOR CLUBS
PORTLAND, OREGON, March 17, 1945

Hon. Lieutenant Governor, President of the Senate
Sacramento, California

MY DEAR SIR: I am writing you regarding a bill that I am informed is now pending in your General Assembly for the purpose of permitting the invasion of that PRIMITIVE AREA, the Mt. San Jacinto State Park near the City of Palm Springs, California, instigated by a winter sports club of that city, whereby a tramway is to be built from Chino Canyon, elevation about 2,700 feet, and to operate to Long Valley at a proximate elevation of 8,500 feet, for skiing and other winter sport purposes if this said bill is enacted into law.

As scarce as our Primitive and WILDERNESS areas are now getting in this United States of ours, it certainly behooves all conservationists and outdoor loving citizens to try and protect that small part that is now left for ourselves to enjoy, before any more inroads are made on these areas, or they will soon cease to exist if a halt is not called.

My thought is the skiiers can and should go to a real skiing area in the High Sierra's where there is lots more room, where they have plenty of facilities prepared for them and this kind of sport by others that know the game. We have eight member clubs in the State of California, representing about 6,500 members. All of our member clubs in your State are opposed to this proposed legislation.

So I appeal to you as a business man, an outdoor man, and a conservationist to please by-pass this bill and leave this beautiful park alone, by desecrating or despoiling its beauty for the mere pleasure of a few young folks, or a few paltry shekels that might be garnered in, in the passage of this bill, instead: We should be above both, in the protection of this area, that is helpless to protect itself, but rather for both ourselves and future generations to enjoy.

With my kindest regards and best wishes for any legislation that you may enact, I beg to remain

Yours very sincerely

ED. J. HUGHES, President

P.S. This letter is for the benefit of your honorable body of California State Senators. H.

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered:

By Senator Hulse:

Senate Resolution No. 70

Relative to the passing of Dr. Burris A. Jenkins, Sr.

WHEREAS, In El Centro on March 13, 1945, Dr. Burris A. Jenkins, Sr., beloved and liberal minister of the Gospel, passed on in death to the Master whom he had served so faithfully in life.

There are many who look back with regard and affection for the benevolence of this man, who, by his faith, tolerance and understanding, gave inspiration and courage to the low of heart and pointed the way toward the better things of life.

Widely known also as an educator, journalist and author, Dr. Jenkins was possessed of a broad academic background—he had degrees from Bethany, Harvard, Kentucky Wesleyan and Rollins. Twice had he held the post of a university president—at the University of Kentucky and the University of Indianapolis. For long, El Centro had been his winter home, and it was there that he returned in November of last year when, with declining years, he resigned as pastor of the Community Church of Kansas City, Missouri.

Surviving him are his wife and three sons, Burris A. Jenkins, Jr., the noted cartoonist for the Hearst newspapers, Lieutenant Commander Logan Jenkins, now stationed with the Navy at San Diego, and Paul A. Jenkins, publisher of the Imperial Valley Press and Morning Star in El Centro. Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, That when the Senate adjourns this day it shall do so out of respect to the memory of Dr. Burris A. Jenkins, Sr., and be it further Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate is directed to convey to the bereaved family of Dr. Burris this expression of our sympathy and tribute.

Resolution read, and adopted by a rising vote of the following Senators:

Senators Biggar, Breed, Brown, Carter, Collier, Crittenden, Cunningham, DeLap, Desmond, Deuel, Dillinger, Dilworth, Donnelly, Dorsey, Fletcher, Gordon, Hatfield, Hulse, Jespersen, Judah, Keating, Kuchel, Mayo, McBride, McCormack, Mixter, Parkman, Powers, Quinn, Rich, Salsman, Seawell, Shelley, Slater, Sutton, Swing, Tenney, Ward, and Weybret—39.

All hearing before a referee shall be conducted as provided in this act and so as to give the licensee, protestant or other interested party a fair and impartial hearing.

When the State Liquor Administrator has made his report on any application or when the referee makes his report and has transmitted to the board his findings and

MOTION TO PRINT

Senator Desmond moved that the following editorial, which appeared in Sacramento Union March 23, 1945, be printed in the Journal:

Motion carried.

Excerpt From Sacramento Union—March 23, 1945

Honest Harold Ickes, the job-grabbing member of President Roosevelt's Cabinet and the so-called "hatchet man" of the Administration, has been laying down the law to California. It isn't entirely the law of Congress' making, but a law embellished with Ickes' own decrees and dictums. He says if California wants to run the Central Valley Project, let it reimburse the Federal Government for all the money spent so far on the project and show itself capable of financing the remainder of the construction.

To hear Ickes talk, one would think that the Central Valley Project was being built with his money and according to rules laid down personally by him. We had, mistakenly it seems, assumed that Congress authorized the project and the taxpayers put up the money. We also had, and again it seems mistakenly, assumed that no Federal project could be carried out except under the rules and regulations laid down by Congress or enacted into law by the people of the United States.

Ickes is all hot and bothered about Central Valley Project because a movement has been started to set up a State commission to help in the future operation of the great system of dams, canals, power houses and other facilities. These will all be situated within California, and the water that will keep them in operation descends on California and actually belongs to the people of this State. They have been irrigating with that water for years, no matter how large or small their ranches may be.

Now, because Uncle Sam has generously assisted California in erecting this great combination irrigation, flood control and power project with money contributed by all the taxpayers of the United States, Ickes insists that the State accept his rules and regulations along with the dams and other public works. Had California foreseen that Ickes some day might be running the Interior Department in so autocratic a manner it might have been more wary about committing itself to a project financed by Uncle Sam but directed by the Reclamation Bureau, a unit of Ickes' department. Ickes not only wants to usurp their water and divert it where he chooses but now he tells the larger ranchers they must reduce their holdings to 160 acres if they expect to get any of it.

Central Valley is different from the Colorado River Project, or the Tennessee Valley one. The California Project is wholly intrastate. The rivers form in California and their waters serve only this State. It is not an interstate project. Nor is it a project designed solely to make fertile a desert country that never before has been irrigated or received water. It is a harnessing project, a holdback to prevent quick flow off of excess seasonal waters. The dams impound the waters for the dry months of the year so that the flow of the streams can be controlled and power can be produced.

Carried away by his enthusiasm over this great project, which was first conceived by the State of California as a general development plan to spread the use of water and control floods, Ickes now acts as if the whole thing was his own pet invention and as if it belonged almost entirely to him. In his usual dictatorial fashion, he is now telling California what it must do, while seeking to take possession of California's own water—the life blood of its existence.

The State and California's people want to join with the Roosevelt Administration in making Central Valley a great and successful project that will benefit the State, the Nation and many millions of California residents in the future. But this doesn't mean that California must surrender all her rights, or that ranchers of the State must dissolve their holdings and give away their lands just because Ickes demands it. Nor does it mean that the State shall be excluded from any voice in whatever authority is set up to administer the project in the future. Mr. Ickes makes a big noise and does a lot of blustering but there is one way to answer him and that with a loud Bronx cheer. If California ever takes over the completion of the Central Valley Project, it will be on terms prescribed by Congress and not by Honest Harold.

(b) The Department of Natural Resources, shall within a reasonable time after the passage of this section, make a survey of the acreage cover valuation and watershed value of all the said land in this State described in subdivision (a) hereof.

(c) The Department of Natural Resources shall contract with any county passing the ordinance mentioned in subdivision (a) of this section, and in said contract shall agree to pay, and shall pay, said county as compensation per acre for the assumption of said responsibility mentioned in subdivision (a) of this section, whatever is expended on the average per acre by the said Department of Natural Resources, in fire prevention and suppression under the authority of Articles 1, 2, 3 and 4 of Chapter 1 of Division 4 of the Public Resources Code, on land of similar cover and watershed value, in all counties of the State in which the said Department of Natural Resources actually performs and exercises the responsibility of fire protection and suppression.

Nothing herein contained shall be construed to deprive the Department of Natural Resources of the power and duty to require that the money paid by said department under said contract to such county shall be expended by said county for fire prevention and suppression in that area the protection of which is assumed by said county under subdivision (a) hereof.

(d) Said county shall also be entitled to any allocation of moneys received by the State of California under the provisions of the Clarke-McNary Act, being a Public Law of the United States of America passed June 7, 1924 (Ch. 348, 43 Stat. 653), which reimbursement may be provided for by any statute of this State."

Motion carried.

PRINTING REPORT IN JOURNAL

Pursuant to the motion by Senator Rich, made on March 22, 1945, the following report of the Legislative Auditor to the Legislative Budget Committee, was ordered printed in the Journal of this date:

REPORT TO THE LEGISLATIVE BUDGET COMMITTEE ON THE 1945-47 BUDGET AND THE BUDGET BILL

By ROLLAND A VANDEGRIFT, Legislative Auditor

Introduction

In order to understand the Budget and the Budget Bill as introduced by the Governor, it is necessary to have a full understanding of the following:

(a) The Constitutional requirements providing for the Executive Budget and the Budget Bill;

(b) The exact basis upon which the Budget was produced; that is, the policies and instructions followed by the Director of Finance in preparing the Budget;

(c) What is the Budget Bill, why does it appear in the particular form in which it was introduced, and why is the total amount therein less than one-third of the aggregate amount of the Budget Document?

Of the above three matters, the third is probably the most important. We will discuss these matters serially in this introduction.

Constitutional Provision for Executive Budget

Although the constitutional section requiring the Executive Budget has previously been quoted in this report, we will again present it here in its entirety so that the Legislature may interpret the Budget in the light of this constitutional requirement. Article IV, Section 34, provides:

> "The Governor shall, within the first 30 days of each regular session of the Legislature and prior to its recess, submit to the Legislature, with an explanatory message, a budget containing a complete plan and itemized statement of all proposed expenditures of the State provided by existing law or recommended by him, and of all its institutions, departments, boards, bureaus, commissions, officers, employees, and other agencies, and of all estimated revenues, for each fiscal year of the ensuing biennial period; together with a comparison, as to each item of revenues and expenditures, with the actual revenues and expenditures for the first fiscal year of the existing biennial period, and the actual and estimated revenues and expenditures for the second fiscal year thereof. If the proposed expenditures for the ensuing biennial period shall exceed the estimated revenues therefor, the Governor shall recommend the sources from which the additional revenue shall be provided."

Budget Does Not Contain All Recommended Expenditures

In the above quotation we have underlined the provision which requires a complete Budget of all proposed expenditures by the State where provided by existing law or recommended by the Governor. Since the first Executive Budget for the Biennium 1923-25 of the late Governor Friend Richardson down to the Budget under consideration for 1945-47, only two Budgets have conformed to this requirement. The 1945-47 Budget, and the appropriation bill accompanying it, do not include all of the proposed expenditures recommended by the Governor at the time the Budget was presented.

The Governor's message to the 1945 Legislature, found in the Journal of January 8, 1945, gives a number of recommendations which would require additional appropriations but which are not included in the Budget Document or in the Budget Bill. Some of these items are in the Budget Document but not in the Budget Bill. For example, the item on pensions in the Budget Message recommends that the increase from $40 to $50 be continued during the next biennium but this is not in the Budget Bill. Also, while there is an increase in the Budget to meet at least a part of the recommendation for the promotion of safety of industrial workers and to speed up compensation claims, there is nothing in the Budget or the Budget Bill to meet the recommendation that there be established in the University of California, with an adequate appropriation therefor, a School of Industrial Relations.

Health Service

There is nothing in the Budget either to pay for the costs of administration or to pay for the benefits of the recommended health service. Neither is there any item in the Budget to pay for the cost of inspecting and licensing hospitals.

This omission from the Budget of the health service is particularly significant for the bill which the Governor has had introduced into the Legislature providing for it also recommends the levy of a new tax for its support. The matter of recommending new taxes or sources of revenue where present tax levies are insufficient is required in the last sentence of Section 34 of Article IV of the Constitution above presented. A rough estimate of the annual cost of the health plan as found in the Governor's bill shows that it will be from $240,000,000 to $300,000,000 a year depending on the scale of benefits allowed. From the pay roll tax proposed, an estimate of the revenue which would be produced would range from $125,000,000 to $150,000,000 per year, leaving a deficit from this source of from $115,000,000 to $150,000,000 per year. If this is to be met from the General Fund, then the Budget figures, particularly the estimated surplus, found in the Governor's Budget must be adjusted accordingly.

Likewise, the tax reduction recommended on the one hand should be considered with the tax increase required for the new expenditure recommended. Full weight, of course, should be given to the fact that one-half of the tax recommended is to be levied upon those who will currently and ultimately become beneficiaries of the prepaid medical service plan.

There is an additional sum, page 417 of the Budget, to carry on a limited clinical service for mental health, but not enough to meet the recommendation "that we should have clinics throughout the State where people undergoing mental strain can be treated and prevented, whenever possible, from mental crack-ups that will add to our hospital responsibility. We can not, of course, establish centers of this kind in every community in the State. It is my belief, however, that five properly located centers containing mobile units for use in surrounding communities would enable the State to make tremendous progress in the advancement of mental hygiene." The Budget proposal for $30,000 the first year and $179,000 the second only opens the door to a vast continuing expenditure for all time to come.

There are some additional moneys allowed in the Budget and the Budget Bill, Item 231 for $200,000, for an expanded program for crippled children.

There is no provision in the Budget or Budget Bill to take care of the Commission on Political and Economic Equality.

There is no recommendation in the Budget to finance the administration of unemployment relief although it was recommended that such an organization be set up. Moreover, there is no provision in the Budget or the Budget Bill for establishing of a reserve of $50,000,000 for unemployment relief, although the Budget Message presents a request for the creation of such a reserve or more, from which specific appropriations may later be made.

There does not appear in the Budget a recommended appropriation to establish in the Department of Military and Veterans' Affairs an organization for centralizing the administration of all services designed to assist returning veterans, as is recommended in the Governor's Message to the Legislature on Page 16, the fourth paragraph, in the following words: "But we must also recognize that it is in our State and communities that veterans will be seeking to make their adjustment. There is need for organized effort in every community and for centralizing the administration of all services designed to assist veterans in their return to civilian life. In order to better accomplish this result, I recommend that the Legislature establish in the Department of Military Affairs a service of that character. By close working arrangements with other State departments, Federal agencies, the armed forces, local government, veterans and other organizations, much can be done under State leadership."

This item does not appear in the Budget or in the Budget Bill despite the fact that this service in a limited way is already set up in the Department of Military and Veterans' Affairs under the director. Funds were provided from the State Emergency Fund by executive order E-1289, dated December 1, 1944, in the sum of $6,717, and a committee has been appointed by the Governor for the purpose of coordinating this activity. An assistant to the Director of Military and Veterans' has been employed at a salary of $350 per month, with clerical assistance to carry on this work.

Also Assembly Bill No. 1049 was introduced in the Legislature on January 25, 1945, prior to the submission of the Governor's Budget, amending Section 53 of the Military and Veterans' Code, creating thereby "The California Veterans Commission" as a division of the Department of Military and Veterans' Affairs, and also adding Article 5 to this section creating a California Veterans Commission of 15 members to serve at the pleasure of the Governor, and providing for an executive secretary and other necessary employees and appropriating $60,000 to support the commission during the Ninety-seventh and Ninety-eighth Fiscal Years.

Clearly this is a recommendation of the Governor and money is being expended during the current biennium for this purpose under the executive order above cited, and yet this item does not show in the Budget either as an expenditure now or proposed for the future. In fact, the Budget does not show any item of expenditure for the current biennium or recommended appropriation for administration of the Department of Military and Veterans' Affairs other than that for the Veterans' Welfare Board, a Division of the Department, page 548 of the Budget, and the administration of the Veterans' Farm and Home Purchase Acts in the appendix beginning on page 804.

In connection with this same Department of Military and Veterans' Affairs, the Veterans' Welfare Board shows for the Veterans' Educational Institute an expenditure for 1943-45, on page 548 of the Budget, in the sum of $158,794.30. However, the Governor does not recommend any proposed expenditure for the 1945-47 Biennium for there is nothing entered for this item for the 1945-47 Biennium, and the column showing increase and decrease carries the entire amount expended for 1943-45 as a decrease. We must presume therefore that the Governor intends to revert the balance of the appropriation made by Chapter 627, Statutes of 1943, which enacted Senate Bill No. 560, appropriating $500,000 for this purpose but which was cut by the Governor under his constitutional power to $300,000.

Although Item 193 of the Budget Bill appropriates $104,445 from the State Park Fund for acquisition of additional Redwood Park areas, in no place in the Budget or in the Appropriation Bill is there provision to meet the recommendation in the Governor's Message for the immediate earmarking of sufficient funds from the existing State surplus to insure the eventual purchases of additional park and beach lands. Although this was not placed in the Budget, a bill appropriating $15,000,000 from the General Fund has been introduced following this recommendation. Clearly this is in effect an addition to the Budget and should be a Budget amendment, particularly since it is an appropriation from the General Fund.

There is no item in the Budget or in the Appropriation Bill to meet another expenditure found in the same message in the following terms: "I recommend to you the creation of a division in State Government to be charged with the responsibility of fostering and encouraging the expansion of recreational programs." Certainly the creation of a division of this sort in as broad terms as presented by the Governor, not only will require an appropriation but must provide proper officers and employees, office space, transportation, and other necessary items. Moreover, it should be coordinated into the existing framework of State Government and the cost thereof should be charged to that particular department and should show as a proposed increased expenditure.

Budget for All Proposed Expenditures Essential

In our opinion all of these proposals which require increased expenditures for the coming biennium should have been definitely calculated by the financial officers of the State as part of their definite responsibility and they should be a part of the entire financial program of the State for the next biennium which the Governor recommends to the Legislature. We are unable to estimate the cost of all of them in their entirety with the information in hand. We have written a letter to the Director of Finance asking for that information. We believe that the sum total should be added to the Budget as presented and included in the Appropriation Bill so that the Legislature may have before it to consider at one time the total of the expenditure program of the State as provided by existing law or recommended by the Governor. This is necessary if the Legislature is to be able to see the whole financial requirements of the State and to review the requested appropriations as a whole and see what effect they have upon the financial structure of the State and the resultant tax requirements and the estimated surplus at the close of the biennium.

It is the opinion of the Legislative Auditor that if the Budget as presented by the Governor, calling for an expenditure of $683,710,643, is approved and all appropriations therefor made by the Legislature, that the three following results will occur:

1. The actual expenditure program as presented in the Budget will be discovered to be considerably in excess of $683,710,643. This excess will bring the expenditure program, within the limits of the Budget itself, to nearly $700,000,000. It can be less than this either by reductions made by the Legislature or by the withholding of expenditures, by delaying some, and by abandoning others by the administration.

2. The actual expenditures for the Biennium 1945-47, if the Governor's Budget is approved in the amount recommended, will of course be exceeded by the amount of the appropriations approved by the Legislature which are in addition to the Budget. Under normal conditions these would run to approximately $20,000,000.

Under the administration of Governor Warren we find that the total of his first Budget as found in the Budget document for 1943-45, page xiii, and on page A-3, Schedule I, is stated at $463,947,005. The actual and estimated expenditures for this Biennium 1943-45 found on page A-3, Schedule I of the 1945-47 Budget, is stated at $587,347,003.04. This is an increase in round numbers of $123,000,000. We wish to point out that this increase contains some abnormal expenditures due to war conditions. The decreases contemplated, however, resulting from the discontinuance of these wartime activities, have already been taken into account in the Governor's Budget for 1945-47.

Only considering normal legislative bills added to the Budget the expenditure program will probably exceed $720,000,000 for 1945-47.

3. If the program of the expenditures as recommended by the Governor in the Budget and the Budget Bill for 1945-47, in his Budget Message, and in his Biennial Message of January 8, 1945, to the Legislature, are all approved, the actual Budget expenditures should turn out to be between $150,000,000 and $185,000,000 more than the Budget total or from $834,000,000 to $884,000,000. This would be in addition to the approximately $150,000,000 per year that might be collected by the recommended pay roll tax to support the health plan program. This expenditure of between $834,000,000 and $884,000,000 for the biennium would include making up the deficit between this pay roll tax collection and the cost of the health program. The actual realization of the deficit may be delayed by not putting the health plan into operation during the biennium and merely creating a reserve to meet its future costs. This would merely be delaying the time when such a deficit must be met unless heavier taxes are proposed than the 3 per cent pay roll tax. Unless this plan is put on the pay-as-you-go basis, it will cut into any established reserves which will not be replaced and eventually the plan will be bankrupt.

This was the experience of other similar health plans when they were first introduced and when premiums collected were not sufficient to pay the cost. It is now the experience of the health plan in Rhode Island provided by the State in 1942 where in this small State they are paying out approximately $400,000 a month and are collecting $300,000. The cost of the benefits and the taxes collected must be synchronized unless the State expects to make up the deficit from other tax sources.

The cost of the numerous other matters recommended by the Governor will make up the additional amounts estimated and this total soon will not only use up the estimated surplus as presented in the Governor's Budget for 1945-47 but will require additional taxes to meet the program.

If in addition to the above, any considerable amount of the large special appropriation items for the assisting of cities and counties, the building of local highways, and providing for a comprehensive state-wide plan for flood control, is made available, then it is certain that these must either be substituted for proposals made by the Governor or that taxes must be materially increased unless a very large deficit is incurred.

The grand total of the expenditures for the 1945-47 biennium under such conditions as above presented combining probable expenditures under one, two, and three could exceed a billion dollars.

Legislature Not Responsible for All Additional Appropriations

In regard to this omission of setting up money in the Budget for matters presented by the Governor in his message, it must be remembered that some proposals are still in a formative stage and the cost thereof could not have been accurately predicted at the time the Budget was presented. However, this is not true of all of them for some can be calculated as close as many items that are in the Budget. All of these recommended items that are approved by the Legislature and made effective will add to the total of the appropriations for the biennium, and as they are the recommendations of the Governor, then they should be a part of the expenditure program of the Administration and a part of the Executive Budget. They should not go into the category of expenditures which too often in the past have been labeled as being added to the Governor's Budget by the Legislature and the responsibility for the increase placed on the Legislature.

Budget Bill Can Be Amended

It may be that the Governor intends to have his Budget Bill amended to include the additional appropriations which he has recommended, for under the Constitution this power is given to the Governor in Article IV, Section 34, in the following words: "The Governor may at any time amend or supplement the Budget and propose amendments to the Budget Bill before or after its enactment, and each such amendment shall be referred in each House to the committee to which the Budget Bill was originally referred."

It might be said that these recommendations for expenditures which the Governor has proposed, and which do not appear in the Budget or in the Budget Bill, were omitted for the reason that they require legislation and the Chief Executive does not wish to be in the position of presenting in his Budget items which anticipate legislation. However, this does not entirely cover the situation for some of the matters do not require legislation but merely additional funds in the several appropriations. Moreover, the Governor has included in his Budget the amount of money necessary to carry the aid to the needy aged for the coming biennium at $50 per month per recipient although this required the enactment of a statute continuing it beyond June 30, 1945. This has already been passed by the Legislature and approved by the Governor but it was not existing law at the time the Budget was presented.

Budget Document Good

In general we must compliment the Governor on the Budget Document. Statistically it is quite complete. Moreover, it contains some essential information conforming to the Part of the constitutional requirement above underlined, and which has not appeared in many prior Budgets. We refer specifically to the section on highways beginning on page 704 and extending to 713 inclusive. We call particular attention to page 713 which sets up a statement of unbudgeted surplus and reserves for postwar highway construction.* This particular tabulation will do more to clarify the financial position of the Division of Highways than any information which has been made available to the Legislature for many sessions.

Explanations Lacking

There is one weakness in the Budget document that will at times become apparent. This is the lack of explanatory material particularly where items are unusual, out of line, new or where changes have been made in organization, terminology or otherwise, from what has appeared in the budget immediately preceding. Such explanations are necessary for the information of the Legislature for the reason that the Budget for the coming biennium is compared with the actual expenditures for the first year of the current biennium and estimated expenditures for the second year of the current biennium. The budgets of many other States contain such explanations and they are considered of great value to the Legislature.

Herewith are listed just a few of such items that very well might have been presented with brief explanations in this Budget with profit to all:

(1) How and why was the Department of Corrections established, the Department of Justice, and what was set up for the previous biennium for comparison?

(2) How did the State get a Department of Public Utilities found in the Governor's Budget on page 684 and extending to page 693?

(3) Who expanded the work of the Department of Institutions to include the out-patient hygiene clinics found on page 417 of the Budget and what will this mean in subsequent Budgets?

(4) How did the legislative county offices for Los Angeles, San Francisco and Alameda, as shown on pages 2 and 3 of the Budget, come into being?

(5) By what means was there established in the Department of

* A bill has been introduced in the Senate to set up the $40,000,000 reserve recommended.

Finance an organization to administer aid to local government found on page 351 of the Budget and what is the Bureau of Liquidation of the Department of Finance set up on page 341?

(6) How did the Board of Control get transferred out of the Department of Finance and get set up for an independent appropriation?

(7) What are the two special survey items for mineral and education found on page 36 of the Budget?

(8) Although there is a brief explanation concerning the establishment of new facilities under the Youth Authority, i.e., Fricot Ranch School, page 148 of the Budget, these are hardly extensive enough to explain how they came into being.

The Budget Document would be much more useful and probably used more if the explanations suggested above, and others covering all changes in the Budget differing from 1943-45, new additions and out-of-line items, were included.

Basis of the Budget, Policies and Instructions of the Governor

To fully understand the Executive Budget for any particular biennium, it is essential to know just what policies and instructions were followed in preparing the Budget. Some definite basis must be established if a satisfactory Budget is to be presented. A review, therefore, of any Budget must be made with full consideration of the policies contained therein and the instructions followed in making it. These are presented briefly in the letter of transmittal from the Director of Finance to His Excellency, Governor Earl Warren, found on page IX of the Budget Document.

It is particularly necessary to have a full understanding at this time for the State is still operating under wartime conditions. Revenue flows into the treasury on the basis of wartime income and spending of the people. On the other hand, certain costs of government are based upon meeting wartime emergencies and certain economies are forced because of the inability to secure personnel, equipment, and supplies. This condition, however, may change quickly and the State may be forced to go from a wartime condition through a transition period to peacetime conditions. Let us see briefly how the budget was made to cover such conditions.

Policies and Instructions Followed

The Director of Finance says in his letter of transmittal to the Governor, "The State Budget for the biennium beginning July 1, 1945 and ending June 30, 1947, was prepared in accordance with your policies and instructions". He also further outlines these policies and instructions as follows:

(a) This finance program is based upon the broad assumption that 1945-47 will be a period of transition from war to peace.

(b) Both revenue and expenditure estimates allow for a gradual return to peacetime economy, allowing, however, for the State's increased population.

(c) War activities of all agencies are set forth separately and distinguished from regular agencies.

(d) Provision is made for the return of regular employees now in the armed forces to positions authorized but vacant. (Note that this does not state that employees in the armed services will take their previous positions although they may have to replace temporary employees.)

(e) Salaries of State employees are continued at existing schedules approved by the Personnel Board, including the emergency adjustments of $20 and $25 per month.

(f) Provision has been made for a uniform number of holidays for all State employees following the legislative resolution to this effect.

(g) Amounts have been budgeted for the purchase of commodities on the basis of existing prices. (We should note in this instance that the possibility of reduced prices with the return of peace has not been considered. The assumption has been made that the price of food and clothing will remain stable during the biennium.)

(h) Amounts have been budgeted for normal building maintenance and minor construction for each State agency.

(i) Urgently needed construction projects have been recommended from the Postwar Emergency Building Fund. These have been coordinated with the plans drawn for postwar building.

(j) It is contended that expenditures recommended have been determined to be essential needs of the State.

(k) Budget requests of operating agencies have been reduced more than $20,700,000 by the elimination of less necessary items.

Policies May Not Have Been Followed Completely

These policies and instructions should be reviewed carefully and coordinated with the Budget Document and Appropriation Bill. If it is found that they have not been followed constantly, then changes should be made and amendments be made to the Budget Bill to bring forth into harmony with these policies and instructions.

Legislature May Approve Different Policies

Should the Legislature set up any different policies, then both the Budget Document and the Appropriation Bill should be changed accordingly. For example, the Legislature may decide that no matter how urgently needed, none of the construction projects shall be undertaken until the close of the war and the cost of building has assumed a more normal condition. If it should do this, the capital outlay items should all be taken from the Budget. Or, it may decide that the Postwar Unemployment Reserve Fund shall be preserved and any building shall come from the surplus. Then the Budget Bill should be changed accordingly.

The Legislature also may determine that positions that are now vacant shall not merely be filled by allowing this to occur automatically when employees now in the armed forces return, but that each position shall be justified in itself. The Legislature may decide that prices of commodities may decline and therefore may wish to set up a special reserve to be kept intact if this does occur.

War May Not End by July 1, 1946

The assumption made that the war will end during the first year of the biennium and that the second year of the biennium will see the return to peacetime conditions, may prove to be an erroneous assumption. The war may not end in its entirety during this first year of the biennium or again it may end before the close of the current biennium. It is necessary, however, to use some assumption if a Budget is to be made and it will be necessary for the Legislature to make some such assumption if it is to pass appropriation measures to provide for the needs of the State. The condition which obtains with the actual ending of hostilities in Europe may be so different than has been assumed, that the only solution will be found in calling the Legislature into special session. This can be done readily and might be more effective than building a budget on the broad assumptions of the Administration as above outlined. For example, the revenue estimates may be found to be far too optimistic and the yield not nearly so large as estimated. If this should occur, the Legislature should be called into session to provide proper remedy.

Legislature May Require Stricter Economy

The Legislative Auditor has called the attention of the Legislature to the fact that with the return to peacetime economy, even as favorable as was enjoyed in 1940-41, the present tax levies of the State will not produce enough revenue to meet State expenditures on the present basis. He has also pointed out that for the period extending from 1929 to 1941, the State did not collect in any one year enough revenue to meet State expenditures. In the last year of Governor Young's administration, the State spent approximately $4,000,000 more than it collected and cut into the then surplus by this sum. By 1933 the State had used its surplus of approximately $30,000,000 and had a deficit of approximately $11,000,000. It is true that this surplus was used largely for capital outlay. From this date until 1941 the State had a deficit which finally reached almost $100,000,000. This deficit arose in spite of the fact that during this period, 1929-1941, the State enacted many new taxes and increased the rates on other established taxes.

The new taxes were:

(1) The sales tax.
(2) The use tax.
(3) The gift tax.
(4) The personal income tax.
(5) The two liquor excise taxes.
(6) The liquor license fees.
(7) The automobile in lieu tax.
(8) The motor vehicle transportation license tax.
(9) The use fuel tax.
(10) The corporate income tax.
(11) The race track tax.
(12) The private car tax.

There also was imposed a pay roll tax, now 2.7 per cent on the employer and one per cent on the employee, for the special purpose of establishing an Unemployment Insurance Fund.

The taxes that were increased were:

(1) The corporation franchise tax.
(2) The inheritance tax.
(3) The bank tax.

The only tax levied in 1933 not levied today by the State is the utility property tax which was returned to the local property tax rolls.

A schedule of the taxes levied and the taxes collected from the several sources from 1901 to 1944 is shown in the table on the following page.

•—These large sums resulted from settlement of certain disputed tax claims in favor of the State.

†—Include taxes on athletic admissions, fertilizer, kelp, commercial feeding stuffs, agricultural minerals, fish packers, salmon, and gross receipts of motor transportation companies.

This State deficit was brought about by the six following conditions:

1. The decline in general prosperity which reduced the income of the people and consequently tax returns.
2. The assumption by the State of more and more costs of Government which previously had been carried by local government. This was particularly true in the assumption of school costs, aid to the needy aged, and the construction of highways, but it also included many other items.
3. The assumption of the obligation of assisting in the relief of needy due to unemployment.
4. The increase in the services of the State government in almost innumerable ways.
5. The increased cost of providing services due primarily to increases in wages and salaries and the granting of more privileges to State employees, including shorter hours, more holidays, more liberal sick leave, longer vacations, pay for overtime, a generous retirement plan, and the normal upgrading of salary scales through the fact that employees have increased years of seniority.
6. The rapid increase in population of the State following the first world war.

If the Legislature considers all of these conditions of the past and applies them to the present, and recognizes that the present flush income of the State results from a wartime economy, and when it disappears, normal revenue will probably not meet normal expenditures much less the increases in government, it may establish more definite economy procedures to meet the decline in revenue and check further increase in the cost of State government.

All of the fiscal officers and technicians of the State, dealing with taxes and revenues, concur in the prediction that revenues of the State will decline with the end of the war. The Governor concurs in this as shown by the statement in his message to the Legislature in the following words:

> "Government will of necessity be more expensive as time passes, and unless every dollar of our present income is spent prudently we will soon be operating on a deficit as we did for 10 consecutive years prior to the war. Any new spending habits set up now must be projected into the future and paid for indefinitely. I, therefore, urge that all requested appropriations, both in and out of the budget, be scrutinized as carefully as though we were not operating on a surplus."

Following the conclusions above stated, including the Governor's suggestion that all requested appropriations, both in and out of the Budget, be scrutinized as carefully as though the State were not operating on a surplus, and with the added conclusion that the establishment of any broader expenditure program now will eventually result in increased taxes concurrent with declining economic ability of the people to support them, undoubtedly means the Legislature must adopt a stricter economy than is found in the Governor's Budget.

Analysis of the Budget and the Budget Bill Follows the Stated Assumptions and Encompasses Budget Committee Principles.

In making our analysis of the Governor's Budget and the Budget Bill which accompanied it, the assumption made by the Director of Finance previously stated* have been accepted but with the following specific interpretations and limitations.

a. We accept the assumption that 1945-47 will be a period of transition from the war to peace, but assume the war will end in the second year of the biennium and revenue and expenditures should be adjusted accordingly.
b. Wartime activities should therefore be carried forward into the first year of the biennium. Conversion to peacetime activities should take place in the second year of the biennium.
c. Wartime activities should be set up separately from normal peacetime activities.
d. We agree that provision should be made for return of regular employees from the armed forces to positions authorized but now vacant, but we do not agree that these positions should all be filled regardless of need.
e. We agree that salaries should be continued at schedules approved by the Personnel Board, if these schedules include proper allowance for the $20-$25 per month wartime bonus.
f. The allowance for uniform number of holidays for all State employees is equitable, but this added benefit should be considered in fixing salaries.
g. Commodities we also believe should be purchased at existing prices and possibly in the second year of the biennium at a lower cost.
h. Building maintenance and minor construction should be done if essential to keep plants up but not if it can be deferred without real loss.
i. We agree that urgently needed construction projects should be built, but we reserve the right to differ on what is urgent—particularly while the war is going on and prices so very high and materials scarce.
j. The contention that all expenditures recommended are essential needs of the State we differ with in many items. These will be detailed in the following analysis on specific items in the Budget.
k. There is general agreement with the Governor's expressed statement that strict economy should be practiced as if we had no surplus. There is a difference of views on what is strict economy. This will be presented in considering individual Budget items for the instructions of the Budget Committee which follow project very different conclusions on many requests for appropriations.

In addition, the instructions and general principles expressed by the Budget Committee and stated in the first part of this report have been followed. These are stated briefly again so that they may be specifically considered. They are:

1. The operation of every department, division, commission, agency, and board of the State should be reviewed with the idea of making effective all possible economies.

* See page 22.

2. Duplication, overlapping, and unnecessary functions should be eliminated.
3. Surplus employees should not be allowed.
4. Extravagant use of supplies, material, and equipment should be reduced.
5. Recognition should still be given to the fact that we are at war and economy of operation should be continued in order to promote the war effort.
6. Positions of State employees engaged in the war effort should still be left vacant where possible.
7. Every energy should still be dedicated to winning the war.
8. State Government activities made necessary by the war effort, and which still contribute to winning the war, should be provided but those that are no longer necessary should be eliminated.
9. State agencies which assumed additional responsibilities as a result of the war should continue to finance them as far as possible out of regular budgeted amounts through curtailing or eliminating other functions not essential to the war.
10. Special items solely devoted to the war effort should be clearly set out and kept distinguishable from regular activities so that they will not appear as permanent activities of the agency concerned and shall end with the end of the war requiring them.
11. No new services of government should be established on the basis of wartime revenues.
12. Personnel employed for wartime activities should not be continued after the war.
13. Prewar positions now vacant should not be refilled unless each and every position can be specifically justified.
14. If a department or agency is operating well during the war with reductions in personnel, they should be able to do so after the war, particularly as postwar employees should be of higher efficiency.
15. Returning military personnel should receive their old positions and duration employees should not be retained through creating new positions.
16. The present building fund should not be used for capital outlay during the biennium except in so much thereof as is absolutely necessary to meet an emergency.
17. No emergency fund should be included for continuing increase in the price of commodities as it is not likely prices will increase further but may recede.
18. The War Disaster Fund should be left as it is until the war is ended and the Legislature can again review it.
19. Fixed motor vehicle valuation for the in lieu tax should be continued.
20. No dormitories should be provided for either at the University of California, the State colleges, or special schools.

In short, the general policies to be followed were expressed by Speaker Lyon in the following words: "The only policy to follow is to practice economy and cut expenditures to the bone. The Legislature should scrutinize the Budget very carefully and resort to economy and cut the Budget down substantially."

What Is the Budget Bill and Why Is It Less Than One-Third of the Amount of the Budget Document?

The constitutional requirement in relation to the Executive Budget found in Section 34 of Article IV of the Constitution provides that the Budget Bill shall be accompanied by an Appropriation bill covering the proposed expenditures to be known as the Budget Bill. It also provides that until the Budget Bill has been finally enacted, no other appropriation bill except emergency bills recommended by the Governor, or appropriation for the expense of the Legislature or pay of the Legislators, shall be passed. The provisions of this section are quoted herewith so that they may be readily available.

The Budget Bill—Prior Passage of Other Appropriation Bills

"The Budget shall be accompanied by an Appropriation Bill covering the proposed expenditures, to be known as the Budget Bill. The Budget Bill shall be introduced immediately into each house of the Legislature by the respective chairman of the committees having to do with appropriations, and shall be subject to all the provisions of Section 15 of this article. The Governor may at any time amend or supplement the Budget and propose amendments to the Budget Bill before or after its enactment, and each such amendment shall be referred in each house to the committee to which the Budget Bill was originally referred. Until the Budget Bill has been finally enacted, neither house shall place upon final passage any other appropriation bill, except emergency bills, recommended by the Governor, or appropriations for the salaries, mileage and expenses of the Senate and Assembly. No bill making an appropriation of money, except the Budget Bill, shall contain more than one item of appropriation, and that for one single and certain purpose to be therein expressed."

The Budget Bill for the 1945-47 biennium is Assembly Bill No. 500 in the Assembly, and Senate Bill No. 294 in the Senate. These bills are identical. In general they conform to the constitutional provision but they require explanation in order to answer certain obvious questions that arise as soon as the Budget and the Budget Bills are considered together and in conjunction with the constitutional requirements for an Executive Budget. These questions that arise continuously are as follows:

(1) Why does the Budget Bill appear in the particular form in which it is presented?

(2) How can a document of such small size (thirty and one-quarter bill-size pages) enact into law a financial plan for the State which requires 830 pages, each twice the size of the Budget Bill pages, to present it?

(3) Does the Budget Bill in any way enact into law the Budget Document or is the Budget Bill all that is passed by the Legislature and actually becomes law?

(4) Is everything in the Budget Document found in the Budget Bill which is before the Legislature? If not, why not?

(5) If particular items in the Budget Bill are enacted into law, does that mean that the department or agency concerned will have this money to spend as they please, or must they spend it under the plan shown in the Governor's Budget Document?

(6) What if an item appears in the Governor's Budget and does not appear in the Budget Bill?

(7) Why is the total of the Budget Bill less than one-third of the total of all items in the Budget Document?

(8) Why is it that there is no provision in the Budget Bill for emergency funds for any of the special funds but there is such provision for the General Fund?

(9) What is the actual effect of the Budget Document and the Budget Bill?

(10) Finally, does the Legislature have authority to determine exactly how money will be expended or can it only act on the items presented in the Budget Bill?

There are undoubtedly more questions that might logically be asked in this connection. However, an answer to these will go a long way to produce a better understanding of the Executive Budget and Budget Bill which the Legislature enacts and the resultant control of appropriations.

Why Does the Budget Bill Appear in the Particular Form in Which It Is Presented?

The Budget Bill, under the provisions of the Constitution, is the only bill that may contain more than one item of appropriation. This explains why it is different from other appropriation bills which may contain only one item of appropriation and that for one fixed and certain purpose. This does not explain otherwise why the particular form is used. The explanation lies simply in the fact that this is the established page size for all bills and the form which has developed since the Executive Budget was required by the constitutional amendment passed November 7, 1922, making effective the Executive Budget. The form has varied but little since the first Budget Act.

Form Can Be Changed

It could appear in a much different form. It has appeared in somewhat different form through dividing or classifying appropriations under the different items into specific schedules. This was used in 1941-43. The schedule was made up of three items:

(a) Salaries and wages;
(b) Operating expense;
(c) Equipment.

Sections 13, 13.5 and 13.6 were placed in the Budget Bill to provide for budgetary control and to require that the members of the Legislature be informed of transfers between the several items in the schedule. These sections are presented herewith to indicate what additional legislative control has been established in the past.

"SEC. 13. In providing that certain appropriations in Section 2 of this act are to be expended in accordance with a schedule set forth after each such appropriation item, it is the intent of the Legislature to limit thereby the amount of money to be expended from each such appropriation item for certain specified purposes, such as, "Salaries and wages," "Operating expenses," or "Equipment," using in that connection the same terms as used in the detailed budget of the officer, department, division, bureau or other agency to whom the appropriation is made, as contained in that document entitled "State of California Budget for the Biennium July 1, 1943, to June 30, 1945, Ninety-third and Ninety-fourth Fiscal Years," submitted by the Governor to the Legislature at the Fifty-fourth Session, except, however, that the terms "Materials and supplies," and "Service and expense," as used in that document, are combined under the designation "Operating expenses" for the purposes of this act. Each such schedule in this act is a restriction or limitation upon the expenditure of the respective appropriation made by this act, does not itself appropriate any money and is not itself an item of appropriation.

As used in such schedules:—

"Salaries and wages" shall include all expenditures for pay of officers and employees of the State but does not include compensation of independent contractors rendering personal services to the State under contract.

"Operating expenses" shall include all expenditures for purchase of materials, supplies (including expendable equipment,) services (other than personal services of State officers and employees), and all other proper expenses (other than the acquisition and replacement of nonexpendable tangible property).

"Equipment" shall include all expenditures for the acquisition or replacement of nonexpendable tangible property.

For the purpose of further interpreting the meaning of the words, terms and phrases used in such schedules, reference is hereby made to the aforementioned Budget Document and the appropriate portions thereof.

SEC. 13.5. The State Board of Control may, upon recommendation of the Director of Finance pursuant to a request by the officer, department, division, bureau, board, commission, or other agency to whom an appropriation is made herein, authorize the augmentation of the amount available for expenditure for a purpose designated in any schedule set forth for such appropriation in Section 2 by transfer from any of the other designated purposes within the same schedule.

No authorization given by the State Board of Control pursuant to this section in respect to any augmentation of the amount available for expenditure for any purpose is valid unless given with the unanimous consent of the State Board of Control expressed in the form of a resolution which shall set forth the reasons and necessity for the authorization and shall be entered upon the minutes of the board.

The State Board of Control shall submit to each member of the Legislature not later than the fifteenth day of each month a report on all authorizations given pursuant to this section during the preceding month. The report shall contain such information regarding each authorization as shall be sufficient to apprise the members of the Legislature as to the reasons and necessity therefor.

SEC. 13.6. The Director of Finance may, upon request of the officer, department, division, bureau, board, commission, or other agency to whom an appropriation is made herein, authorize the augmentation of the amount available for expenditure for a purpose designated in any schedule set forth for such appropriation in Section 2 hereof in the amount of any funds which he estimates will be received by said officer, department, division, bureau, board, commission, or other agency during the Ninety-third and Ninety-fourth Fiscal years from any other officer, department, division, bureau, or other agency of this State, from any county, city and county or city, or any agency thereof, from the Federal Government, or any agency thereof, from any appropriation made by the Legislature at the Fifty-fourth Session, or from any other source which he determines has not been taken into consideration in said schedule, or is in excess of the amount so taken into consideration."

The Governor, in his Budget Message, on page vii of the 1945-47 Budget, states that he does not believe that it would unduly hamper the administration of the State Government if the Legislature desired to limit spending for each agency within the following categories:

1. Salaries and wages;
2. Operating expenses;
3. Equipment;
4. Capital outlay.

Since capital outlay has always been set up as a separate expenditure item for the several departments and agencies, and already is so designated in the Budget Bill for 1945-47, this particular item should not be included in the Governor's suggestion but only the same three that appeared in the Budget Bill for 1941-43.

Limitations Can Be Placed on Expenditures

The Legislature has also, in times past, placed certain prohibitions on certain items of appropriation providing that no money appropriated shall be spent for a particular purpose. An example is found in the Budget Bill for 1941-43 on page 23, under Item No. 96, which reads as follows:

> "No money appropriated by this act is available for expenditure for the salary of a Confidential Representative, Division of Labor Statistics and Law Enforcement, Department of Industrial Relations."

Similar prohibitions are found in Items Nos. 97, 98, and 100. In the Budget for the current biennium, Chapter 62, Statutes of 1943, on page 9, under Item No. 100, a similar prohibition is found.

As a result of including the schedules dividing appropriations, and the limitations above mentioned, the Budget Bill for 1941-43 contains 64½ pages in comparison with 27 for 1943-45, and 31¼ as introduced for 1945-47.

Line Item Budget

The Legislature can enact in the Budget Bill as many limitations and as much detailed specification for the expenditure of money as it wishes. The extreme in such control would be enacting a line item Budget. At the present time this would be difficult to administer for the reason that the accounting system of the State is not geared to functioning such a control. If it should be enacted into law it would be necessary to expand the accounting system and to increase the staff and equipment of both the Controller and the Department of Finance and concentrate on this task. The Department of Finance would have to exercise, in the first instance a strict budgetary control. At the present time control is exercised through the quarterly and annual budgets, and the approval by the Department of Finance of transfers, establishment of new positions, and any expenditures for any items other than regularly approved Budget items.

The Controller determines the legality of expenditures on the basis of the appropriation act where these are contained in the Budget Bill, and in other instances on the basis of the appropriation, be it either by constitutional provision or continuing legislation. If the line item Budget was adopted, the Controller would have to set this up specifically on his books and check every payment so as to see that it did fall within these specific appropriations. He would have to expand his accounting set-up tremendously, likewise his system of controls and his total staff. It is doubtful if he could carry this into effect at once or if at all under the present labor conditions.

Making the Budget Document the Control

Any intermediate steps in fixing appropriations beyond the item appropriation in the present Budget Bill and the line item Budget, would require additional accounting and auditing staff in both the Department of Finance and the Controller's office. The establishment of schedules within the items of appropriation as above mentioned, since it has been already tried for one biennium, could be reestablished and a definite estimate made of its cost.

The next intermediate step beyond dividing the lump sum appropriations by the schedule suggested would be to give the Governor's Budget, as added to or amended by legislative appropriations, full effect at law and to require the Department of Finance to follow this Budget with each item considered as an appropriation in setting up its fiscal year budgets. The objection that this would not allow enough elasticity to meet the requirements for adjustments and transfers could be met by giving authority to some established body or establishing some new body to consider and approve transfers, adjustments, and Emergency Fund allotments, both for the General Fund and the special funds. This proposal is found in one of the Budget Committee bills, Senate Bill No. 824 of the 1943 Session which has been previously discussed in the Budget Committee Report.

It has been noted that the Governor objected to this procedure in 1943. He has modified his views somewhat since then. He brings his views on this matter up to date in his Budget Message on page vii in the following words:

> "For many years the advisability of installing a "line item" Budget has been discused and the proposal still has its advocates. I, too, am of the "belief that the expenditures of State money should be in accordance with the wishes of the Legislature and that the general purpose for which, and the amounts in which, it is spent should be fully respected by the Governor and other State officers. This I have sincerely endeavored to do. If we were operating under an annual Budget I believe the controls could reasonably be more strict than at the present time, but it is my opinion that it would be wholly impractical to have a "line item" Budget when estimates of expenditures must be projected in the Budget for a period of two and one-half years, and especially in these uncertain times.

However, after operating under your current biennial Budget, I am of the opinion that it would not unduly hamper the administration of the State Government if the Legislature desired to limit spending for each agency within the following categories:

1. Salaries and wages;
2. Operating expenses;
3. Equipment;
4. Capital outlay.

If the Legislature desires to incorporate such limitations in the Budget I shall be happy to acquiesce."

Governor Through Director of Finance Has Exercised Budgetary Control and Sought Legislative Intent

The Legislative Auditor has observed the functioning of the Budget for 1943-45 and reports that budgetary control was exercised by the Governor's Finance Officer, the Director of Finance, in close harmony with the views of the Legislature. There have been fewer variations from the expressed wish of the Legislature as found in appropriations and in the records of the Ways and Means Committee of the Assembly as previously reported than has been the case with most previous Budgets. In many instances the Department of Finance, in exercising budgetary control, even where an appointee of the Governor was endeavoring to secure additional allotment of funds, has taken every means of determining what was the legislative intent when it made an appropriation and on determining this intent, the Director of Finance has turned down many requests which would have resulted in the expenditure of additional large sums of money and in this he has been supported generally by the Governor. There have been some exceptions where allotments have been made from funds that could have been saved if a stricter interpretation of appropriations had been followed. There are also some instances where allotments were made from the Emergency Fund for purposes not set up in either the Budget Document or the Budget Act.

Legislature Can Make Budget Bill Its Own

To sum up, the Legislature can make the Budget Bill its own, with the exception of some rather small constitutional limitations. The fact that few changes have been made in the appropriation procedure by previous Legislatures does not mean that the power to control appropriations and to direct appropriations very definitely and specifically does not repose in the legislative body. In fact, the several cases that have reached the Supreme Court very definitely hold that the Legislature controls the purse strings, even as respects many so-called constitutional appropriations. The appropriations that are to the greatest degree exempt from legislative control are those for the Public School System, but even here the Legislature can exercise more control than they have in previous years.

How Can a Document of Such Small Size as the Budget Bill Enact Into Law a Financial Plan for the State Which Requires 830 Large Size Pages to Present?

Budget Bill Not a Financial Plan

The fact is that the Budget Bill does not enact into law a financial plan for the State. It only appropriates lump sum items for the several departments and agencies of the State where a biennial appropriation is required in order to provide financial support for such agencies. It does not include all of the departments or agencies and for some of them it only includes a fraction of their budget which is presented in the Budget Document. For example, one will look in vain under the Department of Public Works, page 20 of the Budget Bill, Items Nos. 234 to 242, inclusive, to find any item for the Division of Highways. The Legislature, however, has full authority to make appropriations and to place such limitations on them as they desire for the Division of Highways. If you will look in the Governor's Budget under Public Works, pages 694 to 727, you will find that pages 704 to 713, inclusive, are devoted to highways and the expenditure program totals $61,697,247 for the 1945-47 biennium, and an additional reserve to be set up for $40,000,000 for the postwar highway program. This sum, $101,697,247 alone is equal to half of the amount for all other services of the government found in the Budget Bill.

A similar situation is true for the Department of Employment. The only appropriation item found on this, is on page 9 of the Budget Bill, Assembly Bill No. 500, Item No. 105, in the sum of $312,380 to match Federal funds. In the Governor's Budget, the Department of Employment makes up the section from pages 286 to 297, inclusive, and provides for the expenditure of $8,361,645 for administration alone, an increase of over three and a half million from the current biennium. This does not take into account in either place the proposed expenditure from the Unemployment Reserve Fund which now is in excess of $699,000,000, and which is supported by a pay roll tax of 2.7 per cent on the employer and 1 per cent on the employee. From this fund, the Governor has recommended in his biennial address, on page 7, an increase in benefits from 23 and a fraction weeks to a maximum of 26 weeks, and a reduction in the waiting period from two weeks to one week. The Governor also recommends the inclusion of certain classes of workers not now covered, all of which will require more pay roll taxes and larger expenditures and will require the enactment of bills by the Legislature. This further increases the fixed charges of California State Government.

No legislator should be confused and think that the Budget Bill enacts into law the full financial plan of the State for the biennium covered. As now set up, it only provides for lump sum appropriations. No other budgetary control is enacted than what appears in the Budget Bill. Budgetary control by the Department of Finance already exists under other statutes.

Does the Budget Bill in Any Way Enact Into Law the Budget Document?

The Budget Bill does not enact into law the Budget Document in any way. The Budget Document is merely the source of the estimates for the preparation of the Budget Bill which itself contains appropriations of only one-third of the Budget Document. The Budget Document itself has no effect at law. It can literally be thrown into the wastebasket once it is presented by the Governor, and there is no requirement in the law that anything in it be followed or observed. Only the lump sum appropriations with such limitations thereon and divisions thereof as are enacted into law in the Budget Bill must be followed.

Is Everything in the Budget Document Found in the Budget Bill?

The answer is "no". Only approximately one-third of the total financial plan of the Budget Document is found in the Budget Bill appropriations. The other items in the Budget Document are provided for by constitutional provisions or other statutes setting up requirements for expenditures or continuing appropriations. Other matters could be presented in the Budget Bill if the Governor so directed that they be placed therein, or if they are amended into the Budget Bill. If they are amended into the Budget Bill then this operates to set up such controls as are therein contained.

If Particular Items in the Budget Bill Are Enacted Into Law, Does That Mean That the Agency Concerned Will Be Allotted This Money to Spend as They Please or Must They Spend It Under the Plan Shown in the Governor's Budget?

The answer is "no" to both parts of the question but this must be explained. After money is appropriated for an individual department or agency, the department or agency generally believes that they will have this sum of money to spend. Some of them believe that they can spend it as they determine, and some of them, particularly appointees of the Governor, feel that they at least will be allowed to spend it under the plan shown in the Governor's Budget Document. Neither of these conditions is true.

After an appropriation is made, then under existing law, annual budgets are prepared and approved by the Department of Finance. They may or may not follow the plan shown in the Governor's Budget, and even if they do, they can be changed by the Department of Finance when the department feels that such is required. In other words, the appropriation made by the Legislature provides the limit, except that General Fund agencies may receive supplementary money from the emergency item in the Budget Bill, and special fund agencies may receive supplementary funds under deficiency allotments as provided in Section 661 of the Political Code. The General Fund emergency item is limited while the special fund deficiencies may include all the money available in any particular special fund. Sometimes this is many times what the Legislature has appropriated. The Legislature can place a limit on most special fund balances and provide that Section 661 of the Political Code shall not operate beyond these limits. During the past biennium the financial plan set up in the Governor's Budget Document has been followed quite closely.

What If an Item Appears in the Governor's Budget and Does Not Appear in the Budget Bill?

If an item appears in the Governor's Budget which is included in a Constitutional appropriation or in a continuing appropriation made by statute, the expenditure can be made if it does not appear in the Budget Bill. In fact, the expenditure could be made if it did not appear either in the Governor's Budget or in the Budget Bill. The Governor's Budget has no legal effect whatever on expenditures. If this was a special fund item requiring an appropriation, and it did appear in the Governor's Budget but did not appear in the Budget Bill, a deficiency under Section 661 of the Political Code could be allowed if it could be shown that there was provision at law for the expenditure but no appropriation had been made or an insufficient appropriation had been made.

If, however, no appropriation was made in the Budget Bill for a General Fund item and there was no limitation in the Budget Bill prohibiting it, the Director of Finance could allow money from the Emergency Fund if the expenditure was provided for under authority of some agency of the State. He could not, however, allow any expenditure of money from the Emergency Fund where no appropriation had been made or where there was no authority at law to perform the services to be paid for. For example, recently the Director of Finance was asked to allow an allotment of funds from the Emergency Fund for flood control work in a specified place. No appropriation had been made for this and apparently there was no authority at law to carry on such work. However, there was authority to allow the Division of Water Resources to make a survey of the underground waters and other waters in this watershed. No appropriation had been made for this purpose but money was allowed from the emergency fund to make such a survey which is really preliminary to the control of flood waters.

Why Is the Total of the Budget Bill Less Than One-Third of the Total of All Items in the Budget Document?

Budget Bill Less Than 30 Per Cent of Budget

The grand total of all items in the Appropriation Bill for 1945-47 is $202,003,999. The grand total of all items in the Governor's Budget is $683,710,643. In other words, the Appropriation Bill is 29.54 per cent of the total of the Governor's Budget. This situation provokes more questions than any other. The answers to the previous questions in part answers this question. Without here discussing the matter as to whether or not certain items that are omitted should be included in the Governor's Budget which would materially increase the figure above quoted, (which is found in the Governor's Budget on page iii, and in Schedule I, page A-3, and Schedule II-B on pages A-10 and A-11, and throughout the Budget where the total is given) we will give in general the reasons why the great difference between the Budget and the Budget Bill exists. Subsequently we will point out where our estimates differ from the Governor's figures.

The Budget Bill for 1945-47 only includes those items requiring an appropriation by the Fifty-sixth Session of the Legislature in order to carry into effect the proposals found in the Governor's Budget. In fact, it does not include all of these, for it does not include the amount required to continue paying the State's share of aid to the needy aged beyond July 1, 1945, for the extra $10 over the $40 per month last set up in continuing legislation. This, however, has now been changed by legislative enactment approved by the Governor in the January 1945 part of this Fifty-sixth Session. This then now becomes an automatic and continuing appropriation, controllable, however, by the Legislature and remains such until changed. The amount required for this is included in the Governor's Budget.

Neither is there included in the Budget Bill the Postwar Highway Building Fund of $40,000,000 set up on page 713 of the Governor's Budget. Neither is this total included in the Governor's Budget total nor in any law providing for such a reserve fund. Under existing law this money could be spent during the biennium for it is automatically appropriated. It can only be set up in a reserve fund as this is determined by the Legislature. A special bill to do this has already been introduced into the Legislature. It does not appear in the Budget Bill but it can be placed there as an amendment.

These are the reasons why the Budget Bill is less than one-third of the total of all items in the Budget Document. It can be materially increased at any time the Legislature wishes to exercise greater control over appropriations.

The following tabulation presents clearly the comparisons between the amounts to be appropriated by the Budget Bill and those proposed for expenditures in the Governor's Budget for 1945-47.

Why Is There No Provision in the Budget Bill for Emergency Funds for Any of the Special Funds but There Is Such Provision for the General Fund?

This has already been partially explained above. If there was no Emergency Fund for General Fund expenditures, there would be no way of providing money where appropriations were insufficient due to emergencies, or where no appropriation had been made where the law provided for some service or action on the part of the State.

No emergency fund is required for special funds because Section 661 of the Political Code, as above explained, provides for allowing deficiencies for each such fund. It was explained that the Legislature could change Section 661 if it desired, and could set up emergency funds for special funds either in their entirety or for certain specified ones.

* Includes an item for Postwar Construction Program, $13,266,842, which is set up in the Governor's Budget as a reserve fund.

In effect the Department of Finance through exercising budgetary control uses the balances in special funds as emergency funds when desired.

What Is the Actual Effect of the Budget Document and the Budget Bill?

The Budget Document has no force at law. It merely has a moral effect since it is used as the estimate for drawing the Budget Bill. The Budget Bill has the full force of law in all of its items and parts, the same as if they were individual appropriations.

Does the Legislature Have Authority to Determine Exactly How Money Will Be Spent or Can It Only Act on Items Provided in the Budget Bill?

This has been answered in several of the questions above. It may be summed up by saying that the Budget Bill is merely the recommendation of the Chief Executive for appropriations to make the Budget document effective. The Legislature receives it and it becomes its property the same as any other bill. It can change it, modify it, or completely remake it as it sees fit. The Governor, on the other hand, may at any time amend or supplement both the Budget Document and the Budget Bill before or after its enactment and each amendment in each house must be referred to the committee to which the Budget Bill was originally referred. Once introduced into the Legislature, such amendments also become the property of the Legislature.

There are, however, two additional powers in relation to the Appropriation Bill in the Governor. The Governor can veto the act in its entirety as any other bill and send it back for reconsideration. This in practice, however, is almost futile for the Constitutional limitation on State appropriations from the General Fund are such that they now require originally a two-thirds vote to approve any State Budget. The Governor, however, under Article IV, Section 34, of the Constitution may reduce or eliminate any one or more items of an appropriation while approving other portions of the Appropriation Bill. He can not, however, add to an appropriation.

There is reserved to the people the right to referend any item of appropriation in the Budget Act other than for the usual current expenses of the State. We find no record of this ever having been done. There is individually no determination as to what items in the Budget would fall outside of the class of appropriations other than for the usual current expenses of the State.

The Legislature, as the division of government that controls appropriations not otherwise determined by the Constitution, has far greater powers over the purse strings of the State than have ever generally been exercised. Much of the authority to control appropriations has been abandoned by the Legislature itself by setting up continuing legislation but this power to control appropriations can be recaptured any time the Legislature as a body so determines.

NOTE:—The following sections present an analysis of the Governor's Budget Message, the Revenue Estimates, the Budget as a whole and the Budget items in the Appropriation Bill.)

ANALYSIS OF THE GOVERNOR'S BUDGET MESSAGE 1945-47 BIENNIUM

Introduction

Following is an analysis of the Governor's Budget Message found on pages iii to viii, inclusive, of the 1945-47 Budget Document.

In considering the Governor's Budget in this section of our report, we are using the figure for the total as he gives it at $683,710,643 and also we are using the Budget figures for actual and estimated expenditures for 1943-45 in the sum of $587,347,003. These amounts are found on Schedule 1, page A-3 and throughout the Governor's Budget.

We call attention to the fact that in our opinion these figures should be adjusted for certain large items included in the Budget which are charged as expenditures for 1943-45 which can not be spent until 1945-47. These amounts total $9,745,670 so that the final total Budget should be adjusted by at least this amount. This will reduce the actual and estimated expenditures for 1943-45 to $577,601,333 and will increase the total of the Budget for 1945-47 to $693,456,313. These corrections are shown in a table following under the subheading "Total Budget." The result of these adjustments will be of course to change the entire Budget picture as presented by the Governor and will change the percentages showing the allocation of budget items throughout the Budget.

These adjustments are inside of the Governor's Budget. They do not affect the estimated surplus as of June 30, 1947. Subsequently items will be presented which are in addition to the Governor's Budget.

Budget Does Not Present Governor's Spending Program

In presenting this Budget the Governor states that it is in accordance with the Constitution and with the needs of the State, and it represents his estimate of expenditures for the biennium. We have already pointed out that in our opinion it does not comply completely with the constitutional provision requiring the Executive Budget for it does not include all of the recommendations that the Governor makes for State expenditures for the biennium, nor does it include the new taxes that he has recommended for the prepaid health program or how the deficit on this will be made up or the tax source therefor, nor does it include all the expenditures provided by law which may be made under existing appropriations.

Furthermore, if all of the recommendations for State expenditures made by the Governor were included in the Budget, the entire budget picture would be changed as follows:

1. The total of the Budget would appear much larger.
2. The final surplus would be much smaller and possibly a deficit would be shown—depending on how far the Governor recommends to go in the several items.
3. If recommendations actually should be as large as they appear tax reduction is not possible but increased taxes in addition to the pay roll tax for the health plan should be made.
4. The fixed charges of the State would be materially increased.
5. Other departmental budgets will be found to be too small if the recommendations for added taxes and new services and agencies of the State are established, i.e., if 400 or 500 or 600 or more new State employees are to be employed and serviced to collect more taxes and administer the health plan, a division of recreation, buy parks, expand labor relations, inspect and license all hospitals, service veterans, etc., the Personnel Board will require more money and more personnel to service these—The Employees Retirement Board will likewise need more money and help—and more money into the Retirement Fund—the Controller and the Department of Finance will need more money for auditors, etc. So the pyramiding of costs goes on, with each new service added existing services must be expanded.

6. The war effort will be cut into by the new personnel required.
7. Possibly tax reduction could not be available if all of the expenditure proposals were placed on a sound financial basis, not estimated on swollen wartime revenues but on a long range peacetime income with taxes the people can carry without undue sacrifice in their personal life.

Some of the details of this was presented in our introduction and will be further explained in subsequent parts of this report.

The Total Budget

It is stated that the total of the Budget is $683,710,643,[1] but in other places the term "expenditures for the Biennium 1945-47" is used. This is a confusion of terms for the Budget Document is based upon an estimate of expenditures which does not include all of the expenditures either recommended by the Governor or which under existing law can be made. There is no doubt in our mind but what the actual expenditures for this biennium will greatly exceed the Budget estimate. It will exceed it by over $200,000,000 if all the recommendations for expenditures made by the Governor in his Budget and in his Budget Message to the Legislature are made effective and on a pay-as-you-go basis.

The Governor states that his Budget recommendation is greater by $96,363,640 [2] than the actual and estimated expenditures for the 1943-45 Biennium. We would like to support our conclusion that the actual expenditure program for the 1945-47 Biennium will greatly exceed the Budget by reviewing the recent financial planning of the State. We wish to point out that the Governor's Budget for 1943-45, as found in the Budget Document for that biennium totaled $463,947,005, which he then stated was approximately $100,000,000 less than the expenditure for the prior Biennium 1939-41. However, the actual and estimated expenditures for 1943-45, found on page A-3, Schedule 1, of the Budget for 1945-47, is placed at $587,347,003. This is $123,399,998 more than the Budget figure and in place of it being $100,000,000 less than the expenditures for 1939-41 it turns out to be a little over $23,000,000 in excess. Moreover, if all of the expenditures are made which are estimated for the 1943-45 biennium, as set up in this Budget, the expenditures will run in excess of the figures stated.

Savings for 1944-45 Fiscal Year Possible

We do not agree that all of these expenditures will be made during the biennium. In our opinion many of them should be reduced and controlled as the estimates of expenditures for the second year of the biennium are frequently just the balances remaining in appropriations for the several agencies. We believe this will be done by the Director of Finance. From these regular operations of the agencies of the State a modest saving can be made.

[1] On page 877 we have shown that the adjusted total of the Budget should be $693,456,313.
[2] The Budget would actually be greater by $106,109,310.

Expenditure Charged to 1943-45 Should Be Charged to 1945-47 Budget

There is a large group of expenditures set up in the Budget to be expended in 1943-45, or by June 30, 1945, that can not be spent or properly obligated by that date other than on paper.

These expenditure estimates are for capital outlay—the construction of Rector Canyon Dam $1,370,670—page 334 of the Budget—and the acquisition of sites for the purposes set forth in the tabulation below, and found on page 763 of the Budget in the sum of $4,000,000 and the allocation for plans and sites for local governments for postwar works found on page 793 of the Budget in the sum of $4,375,000.

Totals for Biennium		$4,701,000		$900,000

In our opinion, $4,000,000 of the $4,701,000 estimated items for sites for State buildings, plus the Rector Canyon Dam allotment of $1,370,670 and $4,375,000 alloted for local government plans and sites in the Budget to be spent in 1944-45 or the current biennium—will be carried over to 1945-46.

This will make the 1943-45 expenditures $9,745,670 less, or $577,601,333 and 1945-47 Governor's Budget as presented larger by this amount—or $693,456,313.

Rector Canyon Dam can not be built until priorities are secured. Out of above items for sites for State building it will be physically impossible to buy the sites proposed under the statute providing the required procedure and do a good job for the State in the time remaining in the present biennium. Since the constitutionality of the statute providing for the allocation to local governments for plans and sites for postwar works is before the Supreme Court to determine its constitutionality, it appears apparent that no money will be spent from this allocation before the close of this biennium.

From These Appropriations It May Be Possible to Secure the Following Results:

1943-45 Expenditure	San Francisco State College Site	$50,000
	Santa Barbara U. C. Branch Site	26,000
	One new mental institution site	400,000
	One other site	225,000
	Total approximately	$701,000
	Total appropriated	$4,701,000
Carry-Over 1945-47	Balance to carry over to 1945-47	$4,000,000
	From Rector Canyon Dam appropriation	1,370,670
	From the appropriation to assist local government	4,375,000
	Total to carry over to 1945-47	$9,745,670

These adjustments of course affect every part of the Budget in the amount of the total 1945-47 Budget, the amount and percentage increase, the ratio of controllable to uncontrollable expenditures, amount of capital outlay, subventions, etc. We are not making these adjustments now for the reason that other items of the Governor's expenditure and tax program should be also considered in the Budget which will cause even more drastic adjustments.

Largest State Budget

The Governor plainly states that this is the largest Budget since the admission of California to the Union, and further claims the same might be said almost without exception for every budget presented since 1850, and illustrates this fact by quoting not the budgets but the expenditures of the State from 1905-07 to 1935-37 in ten year intervals. He compares with these expenditures his Budget estimates for 1945-47. This is not a valid comparison. Like things are not being compared. We believe that the Legislature should have before it, as near as can be presented, the actual facts of the situation, so that when it approves an appropriation it will know how the whole financial structure of the State is affected.

No Executive Budget Prior to 1923

First of all, there was no Executive Budget before the constitutional amendment approved by the people November 7, 1922, brought it into effect. The first Executive Budget was that of Governor Friend W. Richardson for the biennium 1923-25. He states in his Budget Message that his total Budget was $78,974,628 (page III of his Budget Document). On page V of his Budget Document he states that the Budget for 1921-23 was $91,000,000, thus he claimed a reduction in Budgets. But here again we find the Governor making unlike comparisons for the $91,000,000 was the actual and estimated expenditures. However, the budget does show a decrease below the expenditures of the previous biennium. The actual expenditures for 1923-25 turned out to be $141,-468,805.

The budget estimate for 1925-27, as found on page 1 of Governor Richardson's budget message, was $103,430,275. This was $38,000,000 below the expenditures of the previous biennium, but the expenditures turned out to be $163,155,082 for this period, as stated by Governor Warren in his message, page iii, or some $60,000,000 more than the budget for the period.

Budgets Not on Comparable Basis

We also call attention to the fact that a comparison of budgets with actual expenditures for prior years is not a valid comparison unless we know that all of the expenditures made on a comparable basis are included. An examination of the several budgets from 1923-25 to current date will show that they are not comparable in that they do not all contain all the expenditures for the State. For example, the budget message in 1945-47 budget states that the expenditures for the biennium 1925-27 amounted to $163,155,032. Previous official reports of the State of California placed this expenditure at $174,425,044.

Budgets Have Been Reduced Below Previous Budget

An examination of the Budget for 1933-35, page XXII, shows the total of the Budget recommended by the Governor to be $258,655,163, while the actual and estimated expenditures of the previous biennium were $283,159,040, or a decrease of approximately 9 per cent. This reduction in Budgets is contrary to the statement in the 1945-47 Budget as was that for 1923-25. The actual and estimated expenditures for 1933-35 as shown in the Budget for the following biennium, however, turned out to be $340,883,323. This increase of almost $60,000,000 over the Budget was due to the assumption of added school costs by the State which accompanied the adoption of the Sales Tax under the so-called Riley-Stewart Plan. This added cost was however opposed by the fiscal officers of the Governor.

Expenditures Will Exceed Budget for 1945-47

We wish to point out that the actual expenditures and accrued liabilities for 1945-47 will exceed the Budget by a very large sum, probably as much as $200,000,000, unless the Legislatures holds down expenditures, both those presented in the Budget Document and in special appropriation bills, as the Governor recommends in his biennial message in the following words:

> "I, therefore, urge that all requested appropriations, both in and out of the Budget, be scrutinized as carefully as though we were not operating on a surplus." (Biennial Address, page 14.)

The facts are that unless we do this there will be a deficit or material tax increases above the payroll tax recommended will be required.

Reasons for Tremendous Increase in the Cost of State Government

The Governor gives the following reasons for the increase in the cost of State government:

1. The continuous growth of the State.
2. The demands of the people for additional governmental services.
3. The continuous increase in the cost of living.
4. The assumption by the State of obligations formerly considered the financial responsibility of local government.

Cost of Government Grown Much Faster Than Population

While the population of the State of California has grown more rapidly than that of any other State in the Union, and this has had a decided effect upon the increase in the cost of State Government, it has in no way been comparable with this increase. An analysis and a comparison of the population growth of the State with the increased cost of State Government not only shows that there has been a startling upswing in the cost of government, but, what is more significant, the per capita cost of State Government has increased almost two and one-half times as fast as population. If State government expenditure had only increased at the rate of population growth it would have gone up 78.6 Budget. The following table, showing the increase in population and per cent from 1923-25 to 1945-47. This would have been an increase of $103,044,799, and the cost for 1945-47 would be $234,054,175 in place of the Budget of $683,710,643, or just a little over one-third of the the increase in the cost of State Government for the Biennial Period 1923-25 to 1945-47, reveals the following striking comparisons.

1. During this period the population of the State increased 78.6 per cent but State expenditures, including subventions to local government, increased 421.7 per cent. At the same time, per capita expenditures increased from $27.94 for the biennium 1923-25 to $81.65 for the 1945-47 biennium, as calculated on the Governor's Budget, or an increase of $53.71, or a percentage increase of 192.2.
2. The appropriations made by the State as subventions to local government demonstrated the most startling increase, this being 563.5 per cent, while the per capita expenditures of the State showed an increase from $13.40 for 1923-25 to $49.78 for 1945-47, a per capita increase of 271.5 per cent.
3. The State expenditures actually for State purposes showed the smallest percentage of increase, this amounting to 291.1 per cent. The per capita cost increased from $14.54 to $31.86, or an increase of 119.1 per cent.

We wish to again point out the fact that these comparisons are not entirely valid, for they are comparing the actual expenditures for the Biennium of 1923-25 with the budgeted items for 1945-47.

The second half of our table, Part B, makes the same comparisons but adds $100,000,000 for expenditures for State purposes. In this comparison the percentage in the per capita increase for subventions remains the same. The striking increase, therefore, occurs in the State expenditures for State purposes. The adjusted figure now shows an increase in amount, for the period under discussion, of 437.7 per cent, while the per capita cost increases from $14.54 to $43.81, or an increase of 200.8 per cent. We wish to emphasize that Part B of this table is added for the purpose of indicating what will happen should the Governor's Budget figure be exceeded by as much as $100,000,000, and if this was all for State purposes. We have already pointed out that under the Governor's recommendation, his Budget will have to be exceeded by a very large sum, and that all of his recommendations are for State purposes. There are, of course, bills in the Legislature which would increase the Budget by more than $100,000,000 by increasing the State's subventions to local government.

It is clear from these figures that population growth can not be given as the major cause for the tremendous increase in the cost of State Government. While it is important and contributes to the pyramiding cost of government, the other reasons previously listed are the actual cause of pyramiding cost, built upon an increasing population base. The cost of government works like compound interest.

The significance of this situation, coupled with a sudden population increase due to wartime effect, and the establishment of new State expenditures based upon wartime swollen revenue, is in particular pertinent in light of the statement recently made by the Director of Finance which promises a further increase in the cost of government with the end of the war at the same time that he predicts a drop in revenue. His statement is as follows: "If both Germany and Japan were to collapse immediately, the ensuing two years (1945-47) would be a time of distinct readjustments with a substantial increase in expenditures and a sharp drop in revenues."

In light of this sobering statement by the Chief Financial Officer of the State, can we increase further the base of State expenditures when we are promised, with the end of the war, a substantial increase in expenditures and a sharp drop in revenue?

The Budget Committee has consistently maintained that expenditures should be held down during the war and the war effort furthered. War expenditures should be eliminated at the end of the war and the surplus preserved now to help meet the time of decreasing revenue and increasing cost of government brought about by reconversion.

A large increase in cost of State Government need not necessarily follow merely because the war has ended. The committee has proposed that each added position and new expenditure shall have to be justified in itself and should not merely be restored because of the fact that it had existed prior to the war.

Majority of People Have Not Demanded Increase in Government

There has been a demand of the people for additional governmental services. These demands frequently, however, have been promoted by interested groups and seldom by a concerted demand by a majority of the people. Too often the average taxpayer has no voice in the matter of government costs but only the organized groups are articulate.

Costs of Government Up With Rise in Living Costs

The third reason given by the Governor for the increased cost of State Government, the continuous increase in the cost of living, requires explanation or one may get a mistaken idea from it. There has not been a continuous increase in the cost of living from the Biennium 1905-07 to the present time. There have been ups and downs and, in fact, the cost of living during this period has been considerably higher than it is at the present time. For a number of years during this period the cost of living was higher than it is at the present moment, and the dollar actually bought much less. A better comparison would be to show what percentage of the income of the people of California was taken for the several bienniums used for comparison for the cost of State Government as compared with the percentage that is now being taken. The per capita tax on the people of California now for all levels of government is approximately $505 for 1944, the Federal burden being by far the larger part.

State Government Has Assumed Local Government Functions

The most significant reason for the increased cost of State Government is the assumption by the State of obligations that were formerly paid for by local government. The larger items assumed were the added cost for elementary schools in 1933 of approximately $80,000,000 a biennium, and the further increase for elementary schools by No. 9 on the ballot in November, 1944, which increased the other fixed obligation for this support by some $33,000,000 for the Biennium 1945-47.

We must also add to this cost for education the assumption by the State of the increased cost for support of the needy aged from $40 to $50 per month, as provided by the 1943 Legislature and just made permanent in January 1945, and of which the State pays one-half. Then there are subventions to local government for streets and highways and many other direct and indirect items.

The Budget Message illustrates this last item by stating that the sum of $416,885,916[1] or 61% of State expenditures, are being paid to cities, counties, and District Governments for the performance of their functions. Furthermore, a schedule is presented showing how these costs have been absorbed by the State from 1905-07 to 1945-47. The schedule is presented herewith:

Payments and Grants to Local Governments

1915-1917	18,685,475
1925-1927	74,589,404
1935-1937	211,312,917
1945-1947	416,885,916[1]

There are those who will disagree with the Governor's statement that these subventions are all for the performance of the functions of county, city, and district government. A special section in the Budget, extending from page 781 to 793, inclusive, covers what is called "Payments and Grants to Counties and Other Units of Local Government." We list herewith the items covered:

Public Schools:

Elementary Schools
High Schools
District Junior Colleges
Vocational Education
Contribution to Teachers' Retirement System
Free Textbooks

Social Welfare and Public Health:

Aid to Needy Aged
Aid to Needy Blind
Aid to Needy Children
Subsidies to Tuberculosis Sanatoria

Highways and Streets:

Apportionments to Counties for County Roads
Plans and Rights of Way for Postwar County Highway Construction
Allocation to Cities for City Streets

Civilian Defense:

Aid to Local Agencies for Civilian Defense Purposes
Workmen's Compensation Benefits for Civilian Defense Workers

[1] This includes the extra $10 per month for the aged, voted in 1943, and is incorrectly included as a continuing appropriation. The 1943 law specifically provided for two years only. The Budget on page 786 indicates this. The inclusion of this results in an overstatement of fixed charges by $30,901,650. The amended total of fixed charges would be $455,090,940 or 66.2 per cent of the Budget instead of $485,792,590 or 71 per cent as indicated in the Budget.

Other Purposes:

Salaries of Superior Court Judges
Apportionment to County Agricultural Fairs
Apportionment of Liquor License Fees
Apportionment of Motor Vehicle License Fees (in lieu tax)

Education

There are those who will argue that public education, since it is provided for in the Constitution, is a State responsibility and not a local. The expenditures for the public schools, however, are controlled and made by local government, and the State, up to the present time, although largely supporting these financially, has not even the authority to make a complete audit to determine if the State is contributing the proper sum of money or more than is required, or if the State is receiving value for money expended.

Free Textbooks

The free textbooks supplied in California are printed in the State Printing Plant and are paid for out of a revolving fund. The revolving fund is reimbursed by an appropriation out of the State treasury. The employees are all State employees and working under civil service law. The texts are selected by a State agency, the paper is bought by a State agency, and what is to be printed is determined by a State agency. It appears that those that contend that this is not a subvention to local government but a State activity have strong arguments to support it.

Teachers' Retirement

Now that the State matches the teachers' retirement payments, and has assumed a State obligation of meeting the deficit in the retirement plan, and no longer is free from all obligation other than the contribution of 5 per cent of the inheritance tax, there is a grave question whether this is now a subvention or a State governmental obligation.

Aid to Needy Aged

There is also a question as to whether the aid to the needy aged can any longer be considered a county obligation rather than that of the State. The State holds the final decision as to whether a recipient will be paid and determines how much, and the county claims they have little or no discretion in the matter.

County Highways and City Streets

It will be noted that under the highways and streets section of the Budget there has been included a wartime subvention for the payment of the cost of plans and rights-of-way for postwar county highways. This should not be considered as a continuous obligation but should end with the war. This is also true of the two items under civilian defense.

Salaries of Superior Court Judges

Under other subventions are included three items which have already been seriously questioned as to whether they constitute a subsidy to local government. The first is the salaries of superior court judges. These courts are considered in every respect State courts. While the judges are elected by counties, a set part of their annual salaries is paid by the State. The judges are transferred from one court to another at the direction of the State Judicial Council. The Judges' Retirement System is supported by the State, on a matching basis, and is managed by the State.

Liquor Licenses

The apportionment of liquor license fees to local government is for the purpose of law enforcement in relation to the liquor business. The license is collected by the State. The costs are incurred through the liquor business which the State licenses, and local government urges that this allocation is only to assist them in enforcing the law which is entirely a State law.

Motor Vehicle License Fee

The apportionment of the motor vehicle licensee fee is open to more serious question for this license fee is an "in lieu" tax levied by the State through the Department of Motor Vehicles in lieu of the old personal property tax on automobiles which was a source of revenue for local government. It was taken over by the State because of the possibility of more equitable enforcement and more economy in the collection of the tax.

Uncontrollable Items

The Budget Message states that a major portion of the Budget, or $485,792,500,[1] is made up of uncontrollable items and that these are fixed and recurring appropriations. Much has been made of this matter in practically every Governor's Budget from first to last. Much more is made of it in California than in other States in the Union. We believe it is time that a very definite analysis be made of this for it is apparent that many legislators as well as State officers and employees are under the impression that neither the Governor nor the Legislature can do anything about the so-called uncontrollable items.

The use of the term "uncontrollable" is not quite accurate. All of these matters are controllable either by the people through Constitutional amendment or by the Legislature. It is true that some of them are required by the Constitution. The Governor states that these amount to $215,273,957, covering school support and provisions for debt payments. We concede that debt payments must be made as a contract obligation.

Legislature Can Control Some Expenditures Called Constitutional

We do not concede that the Legislature can not control a considerable amount of the constitutional requirements for school support. The Legislature can provide that only the constitutional appropriation or allocation need be made and it can provide the method of allocation within the limits of the Constitution. The amounts required by the Constitution for education for elementary and high school purposes are shown in the following Schedule I, using the estimates as set up in the Governor's Budget on pages 781 and 782, inclusive. Those that are prescribed for the same branches of education by continuing legislation but which can be controlled by the Legislature are given in Schedule II.

The Budget on page 786 indicates this. The omission of this from the summary statement of fixed charges is $39,900,000. The amended total of fixed charges would be $455,060,940 or 66.2 per cent of the Budget instead of $485,792,500 or 71 per cent as indicated in the Budget.

2. Total for Normal Comparison	$9,533,019 13	$14,768,711 00	$+5,235,691 87

The Governor states in his Budget Message, page iii, "Of this total, (of uncontrollable items) $215,293,957 arise by reason of the constitutional requirements for school support and provision for debt payments." This is a customary assumption but not quite in keeping with the facts. Reference to page 713 of the Budget will show that the sum required by the Constitution for schools is only:

	$195,250,000	From Schedule I
Required for debt service, page A42	13,490,957
Total	$208,740,957
The fiscal officers apparently added in the excess for schools above the constitutional requirement of	$6,265,000	From Schedule II
found also on page 717, making a total	$215,005,957
And then they must have considered the salaries of State Legislators provided by Section 23 Art. IV of the Constitution as either expenditures for education or debt service for they apparently added in this item from the first item in Schedule VII, page A 42—Budget 1945-47	288,000
	$215,293,957

This sum makes it balance with the figures used in the Governor's Message. The sum of $6,265,000 included as a constitutional requirement should also be included in continuing expenditures required by statute. This will change the amounts as follows:

	Budget message	Corrected
Constitutional	$215,293,957	$209,028,957
Education	201,803,000	195,250,000
Debt service	13,490,957	13,490,957
Salaries—
Legislators		288,000
Grand totals	$215,293,957	$209,028,957
Continuing appropriations	$270,498,633	$276,763,633
Grand total uncontrollable	$485,792,590	$485,792,590

Continuing Appropriations by Statutes

The Governor states that the remaining $270,498,633 represents continuing appropriations embodied in statutes. This can actually all be controlled by the Legislature but has not been for many years. Again there are practical limitations but it might produce large economic and more careful planning and spending if these agencies had to budget as do other departments of the State and justify all of these expenditures. This figure if corrected by the amount of school expenditures that were reported as constitutional but are statutory only would bring it up $6,265,000 or a total of $276,703,633. These continuing appropriations then would be $115,955,705 over that required for 1943-45 using the Governor's Budget figures as a base.

This increase, the Governor explains, is caused (1) by increased enrollment in schools, (2) by the adoption of Proposition No. 9 by the people on the November, 1944, ballot, (3) by the anticipated increase in persons receiving aged aid, (4) by the increase in aid to the blind, and (5) by the increase in aid to children.

The Budget Message is in error as respects the aid to needy aged for this anticipated a change in legislation continuing the aid at $50 per person rather than $40, which under the then existing law would have obtained for the biennium 1945-47.

Governor Can Recommend Legislation to Reduce Expenditures as Well as to Increase Them

We would like to point out that in this whole situation the Legislature can control by statute some $276,765,633 or 56.97 per cent of that which is considered by the Governor as uncontrollable in this Budget. The Budget makers were quite correct in including these items, with the exception of the $10 per capita aid to the needy aged, on the basis of constitutional and statutory requirements. At the same time, if the Governor wishes to continue the increase for the aged and so recommended in this Budget Message and in the Budget, page 786, and included the amount therefor in this Budget, he also by the same logic could have recommended the adjustment or elimination of these continuing appropriations for the Legislature controls them in their entirety of approximately $277,000,000. However, again there are practical limitations preventing any large reductions.

Legislative Control of Expenditures Recommended

We recommend that the Legislature exercise some further control over a number of items that are included as uncontrollable in the Governor's Budget. In particular we recommend that the Legislature provide for a direct and understandable method of appropriating money for high and elementary schools so that there will be appropriated all that is required by the Constitution and no more. This can be done now readily and with no hardship to any school district since under Constitutional Amendment No. 9 passed at November 1944 General Election the elementary schools receive some $33,000,000 more for elementary schools for the biennium than required by the Constitution previously. This will result in a saving to the State treasury of approximately $6,000,000 for 1945-47.

Equalization of Educational Opportunity

At the same time, it will forward the general premise that equal educational opportunity for all children of the State should be one of the benefits that the sovereign secures when it makes such stupendous payments for education.

Auditing of School Expenditures Recommended

We further recommend that the State should require the auditing of State money alloted for education in all its parts and particularly that allocated on the basis of average daily attendance, so as to determine if these allotments are made as required by law and are equitable and based on true figures.

The late Assemblyman Lee Bashore, as a member of the subcommittee of the Joint Committee on Tax Structure of the State, made special inquiry into this subject. The Legislative Auditor cooperated with him in this and the conclusion from this analysis was (1) that such audits should be made by a body independent of the Department of Education which is an interested party in the allocation and expenditure of such funds, and (2) that such audits will save the State treasury many hundreds of thousands of dollars and will give to the school districts of the State a more equitable distribution of funds.

Education Equalization Fund

This study also showed the desirability of equalizing educational opportunity through setting up an equalization fund from State constitutional support for elementary education. This also can be done at this time without reducing the previous support which school districts have had from the State because of the requirement under the 1944 amendment to the Constitution increasing the average daily attendance support for elementary schools by $20. If this is done, it will be an accomplishment of a hope held by those sincerely interested in the education of all the children of the State extending over more than a quarter of a century.

The auditing of expenditures for vocational and adult education, and a determination of the support that the State might equitably be expected to give, will result in the saving of many hundreds of thousands of dollars a year. The abuses found here are particularly flagrant.

Expenditures for Highways

In the $270,498,633 characterized as continuing appropriations in the Budget Message, another inconsistency is found in the treatment of highway funds. Clearly all of these highway funds fall in the category of continuing appropriations and in the light of this, the Governor should logically have included all such revenues, both carry-over balances and accruals during the biennium, for they are all automatically appropriated by continuing legislation. The Governor, however, did not follow this practice consistently but he did include, as is shown on page 713 of the Budget, some $69,366,843 out of available revenues of $109,366,843. This left an estimated balance, on the basis of the revenue estimates used, of $40,000,000. This reserve is eliminated from the category of fixed charges and the subdivision, continuing appropriations, solely by a recommendation of the Governor by merely making the statement that this is to be an estimated reserve for postwar State highway construction. If this reserve had all been allowed to go in as fixed charges, as has been the practice in previous Budgets, the Governor's Budget would have been $40,000,000 larger and the percentage of fixed charges considerably larger.

Recommended That Postwar Highway Reserve Be Created by Statute

It is recommended that this bill already introduced establishing this reserve be enacted into law and that the Legislature definitely control the establishment of this reserve.

It is clear that if the Governor could make such a recommendation, and in making his budget eliminate the sum involved therefrom in this particular category of fixed charges, he could do the same with many of the others and in that sense these so-called fixed charges are subject to budgetary control.

Since the legislative and budgetary control of the expenditures for highways have been a law unto themselves since the establishment of the Executive Budget, a review of the situation is pertinent.

Highway Funds Not Subjected to Budgetary Control

From the time of the reorganization of the State Government into departments under Governor Young down to the present time, the Executive Budgets have practically ignored the Division of Highways insofar as real budgeting has been concerned. Schedules have been set up showing where proposed expenditures are to be made and the amount of the estimates of money available to the division. These have been distributed under the several projects proposed. A comparison of the Budget with the actual work done for any biennium of the period will show a wide discrepancy and will indicate that the Budget has been of little or no value in controlling expenditures for highways.

The financial plan for highways presented in the Governor's Budget has never been carried into the Budget Bill for the reason that the entire receipts have been automatically appropriated by continuing legislation. The same condition prevails for 1945-47.

Budgetary Control by Department of Finance Over Highways Nil

Little or no budgetary control has been exercised by the Department of Finance over the Division of Highways. For some peculiar reason they have been exempt from the normal budgetary control exercised over the other departments and divisions of the State. For example, the Department of Finance has not exercised budgetary control over their expenditures for personnel. There has not been applied to the division the code numbering system for controlling personnel which has been applied to other departments. They give various excuses for this but the real reason is that they do not wish the Department of Finance to in any way control their financial operations.

There is a similar lack of control in relation to their contracts, their purchasing, their accounting, and in the control of their equipment. There appears to be no reason why the financial officers of the State should not exercise the same budgetary control over this division as is applied to other divisions of the State Government.

Large Unexpended Balance in Highway Funds

The lack of complete budgeting and budgetary control, together with the failure of audits of the Department of Finance to show the true condition of the finances of the division, has resulted in the division having an unexpended balance in appropriations over a period of several bienniums. The original balance was not shown in the preparation of subsequent biennial budgets. In this biennium the total accumulation was brought out at the Budget hearing and the entire status is now presented in the Governor's Budget on page 713.

Recommend Legislature Assume Control Over $50,000,000 Highway Fund

This particular page is worthy of special consideration by the Legislature. The Legislature should now assume a very definite control over between forty and fifty million dollars of highway funds as the Governor recommends. As we have previously stated, this sum has already been taken out of the items listed by the Governor under uncontrollable items, as a continuing appropriation as provided by statutes.

Page 713 of the Budget is a new procedure which in itself means nothing except the presentation of the financial status of the Division of Highways which has previously not been available to the Legislature. The setting forth, moreover, of a proposed allocation of highway funds as provided in this page means nothing unless the Legislature takes the Governor at his word and makes this effective by legislation. Page 713 of the budget is presented herewith so that a specific consideration of the matter may be made clear by particular reference.

Page 713 of Budget Explained

We wish to call attention to several items on this page. First, the sum of $36,704,033, made up of five items as listed, is labeled "Total Postwar Reserve." This, in fact, is the total sum of the balances unexpended from previous bienniums, and it was brought to light in the Budget hearing primarily through the investigation of the Legislative Auditor. The next four items make up the estimated revenue for the biennium 1945-47. The total sum is $72,622,810. The three larger sources of revenue are listed as the motor vehicle fuel tax—$60,634,000, the motor vehicle registration fee—$8,283,000, and the use fuel tax—$3,595,000.

Revenue Underestimated

In our opinion the Department of Finance has underestimated these revenues by at least $5,000,000. The Division of Highways has made an estimate of revenue and gets an even smaller amount. We believe that the revenues from these sources available to the Division of Highways for the next biennium will be at least $77,650,000. Page 713 shows that the total of the so-called postwar reserve and estimated revenues will be $109,366,843. We believe that this will be at least $5,000,000 more or $114,366,843.

The next division sets up the proposed expenditures for 1945-47 under the different categories, including the grants to local government. The total is placed at $69,366,843. This is the amount that the administration has agreed can be effectively spent during the next biennium under the budget conditions assumed. It is all that is proposed to be spent according to the Governor's Budget. The remaining amount, or the excess over this sum above stated, is an even $40,000,000. This is found under the fourth division as the estimated surplus to June 30, 1947. This is taken out of the Governor's Budget total, although it is automatically appropriated by law and it is labeled "Estimated Reserve for Postwar State Highway Construction." It is divided into two parts, "Reconditioning, resurfacing, and construction of roads and bridges, State highways, $34,000,000, and for State highways in cities $6,000,000.

Designation of Reserves by Governor No Effect Legally

We call attention to the fact that this whole page is merely informative. It has no control at law. This plan may appear in the Budget Document and some $40,000,000 be set up as Postwar Highway Construction Fund, and yet all of it will still be available for expenditure as the Highway Commission decides, and if the Governor does not exercise any objection it probably will be spent. In other words, the $40,000,000 labeled as postwar State highway construction reserve may be expended during this biennium unless the Legislature sets it up as a reserve, as in fact the Governor has recommended on page vii of his Budget Message. His recommendation is in the following terms:

> "I am of the opinion that a substantial reserve for this purpose should be set aside from the funds saved through deferring construction work since the war began. I, therefore, recommend in this budget that a reserve of $40,000,000 from these highway funds be held in reserve for postwar construction of State highways to provide work in localities of the State where the need for employment may develop."

Recommend Postwar Highway Reserve Fund Be Set Up for Excess

A bill has been introduced in the Legislature to accomplish this purpose and in this amount. We recommend, however, that since in our opinion the revenues for the Division of Highways for the biennium will be in excess of $72,662,000 as estimated in the Budget by at least $5,000,000, the bill setting up the postwar highway reserve should be written so that all moneys in excess of the expenditure program as found on pages 704 and 713 of the Budget, in the sum of $69,366,843, be definitely placed in a postwar State highway construction reserve and not available for expenditure until the biennium following June 30, 1947. This will conform to the Governor's recommendation and will guarantee that this money will be available and will be subject to future appropriation by the Legislature. Further, it will provide a fund for the building of highways to help repair the ravages of wartime traffic and will relieve unemployment during the period of reconversion.

By this action the Legislature also will reassume control over highway expenditures which in the past have been abrogated and the allocation of expenditures has been left to the Highway Commission. The commission has, in effect, appropriated the highway funds and determined where the money should be spent. Unless the Legislature does take some such definite action, there is no guarantee that this reserve fund will be available.

Other So-Called Uncontrollable Items

There are many other items that have long been classified as uncontrollable within the $270,000,000 plus which can be controlled by the Legislature. Some of these have merely been set up in specific funds by statutes and not only can the appropriations therefrom be controlled by the Legislature but the very existence of the funds themselves depends upon legislative determination.

The Legislature should recognize that when a special fund is set up for some purpose, there is always a temptation to spend all the money available whether or not it is needed. This naturally leads to extravagance. Since all of the money is generally appropriated or, in other instances, any surplus in the fund can be allocated by the Department of Finance with the approval of the Governor as a deficiency under the provision of the Political Code, Section 661, the budgets for special funds are generally underestimated. This means that their budgeting is not as adequate as it should be. The financial controls exercised under them is less stringent than where appropriations are definite. What is more significant is the fact that deficiencies in appropriations for such funds are not brought before the Legislature but are made up by allocation by the Director of Finance under Section 661 of the Political Code.

Appropriations From Special Funds Small

Reference to the Appropriation Bill will show that total appropriations from special fund items is relatively small, being only $47,376,808 or 23 per cent of the total in the Budget Bill. The special fund items are a little more than one-third of the budget. However, the special fund items in the appropriation bill total only 6.9 per cent of the Governor's Budget. These amounts and comparisons will be found in a tabulation in a preceding section of this report.

Recommend That the Legislature Assume Control of Special Funds

It is clear that the Legislature has a large opportunity to produce more government for the people with less money by taking control of the appropriation of special funds and insisting on the following procedure:

1. That these funds be as carefully budgeted as general funds.
2. That every service and expense be determined as necessary and desirable.
3. That the same economy and efficiency be secured in special fund operations as in the general fund.
4. That if receipts are substantially larger than are necessary all surplus and reserves, insofar as practicable, be invested so as to earn as much on this public money as is possible.
5. That when it is amply demonstrated that receipts are in excess of what is needed to properly carry on the special fund functions required, that the license, fees or taxes be reduced and the surplus be left in the hands of the rate payer.

Legislature Has Limited the Opportunity for Executive Budgetary Control

By allowing session after session the continuing appropriations embodied in the statutes and continuously adding to them, the Legislature has not only itself abrogated the control of appropriations but it has likewise hamstrung the executive department of government by limiting their field of opportunity for exercising budgetary control and the producing of economy and efficiency in government.

Controllable Expenditures

The Governor points out that there is actually in his Budget $175,631,711 that can be considered as controllable costs for regular activities. This is an increase of $31,421,541. While we may disagree with the exactness of this amount, or the definition which results in determining this amount, we must in general agree with the prinicple involved that the total sum of the Budget for the biennial period which is fully controllable by the Executive is relatively small. The opportunity for economy or for reduction of the cost of government, even where there is strong disposition to produce such results, is definitely limited.

We have already pointed out that the Legislature itself can remedy this situation if it so desires. The items controllable by the Governor for regular activities for the current biennium amounted to $144,210,170, or $31,421,541 less than for the Biennium 1945-47.

During the current biennium expenditures for extraordinary and nonrecurring items have been reduced for the coming biennium to $22,286,342. This is a reduction of approximately $45,000,000. While this is commendable, it does not tell the whole story. Part of the reduction is a bookkeeping reduction. Our figures differ considerably and have the effect of allocating expenditures to the biennium where we believe they will be made. There are three items listed as nonrecurring allocated to 1943-45 Biennium which we believe will fall in 1945-47 as previously presented. These are Budget page 343, Rector Canyon Dam $1,370,670, some $4,000,000 for sites, page 763 of the Budget, and $4,375,000 for local governmental agencies for plans and sites for postwar works, page 793 of the Budget, a total of $9,725,670, we feel sure can not be spent by June 30, 1945; the sites can not be bought for the reasons before given and the act appropriating the other item is before the Supreme Court to decide its constitutionality. If a decision was rendered soon the pressure of the session of the Legislature would make impossible the allocation of any large amount of the funds.

Shifting these three items from 1943-45 to 1945-47 will make the following changes.

The expenditures for 1943-45 will be reduced from	$587,347,003
By	9,745,670
To	$577,601,333
The Budget for 1945-47 will be increased from	$683,710,643
By	9,745,670
To	$693,456,313

Depending on how one interprets the act of 1944, the uncontrollable or the controllable expenditures are increased by $9,745,670. We designate them controllable for the reason the Governor approved the 1943 bills as passed by the Legislature. The amount for 1945-47 for regular activities remains the same $175,631,711.

Nonrecurring are increased from	$22,286,342
By	9,745,670
and the total controllable expenditures increased to	$207,663,723

Much of the reduction on 1945-47 below 1943-45 was due to elimination of wartime agencies and large sums for postwar planning and construction.

The items making up the extraordinary and nonrecurring expenditures according to the Budget 1945-47 are as follows:

Extraordinary and Nonrecurring Items 1945-47 Budget

Purpose	Amount	Budget Page
Sites for State buildings, Items 251, 252, and 253 Budget Bill	$ 900,000	763
Purchase of 1870 and 1873 Bonds, (Stat. 1943)	2,277,500	A-47
Emergency Construction (From Postwar Employment Reserve)	13,266,842	762
Aid Local Govt. Civilian Defense (Chap. 805, Stat. 1943)	342,000	792
Allocation to Local Agencies Plans and Sites Postwar Public Works (Chap. 47, Stat. 1944, 4th Extraordinary Session)	5,500,000	793
Total	$22,286,342

Increase in Controllable Expenditures

The larger increases in the controllable expenditures, the Governor states, are for education, public health, industrial safety, State hospitals and correctional institutions. The Governor lists the principal items as follows:

University of California—For newly established campus at Santa Barbara and new College of Aviation Engineering in Los Angeles, increased enrollment on all campuses and adjustment of teaching staff salaries	$ 4,976,657
Department of Education—For increased enrollment in the six State colleges and four special schools, and expansion of vocational rehabilitation	1,377,095
Department of Public Health—For increased services to raise standards of public health	778,688
Department of Industrial Relations—To improve standards of industrial safety and accident prevention	631,550
Department of Institutions—To reorganize and establish the Department of Mental Hygiene, establish mental clinics, improve standards of care at State hospitals and provide for greater number of patients because of increased population	5,325,197
Corrections—To implement Youth and Adult Authorities, purchase new school facilities now under lease, abolish the "con boss" system, establish diagnostic clinic and prison classifications	3,171,964
Agriculture—For increased protection to plant and livestock industries, meat inspection and enforcement of marketing laws	1,268,830
Forestry—For increased fire suppression allotments and adjustment of salary and working schedule for fire fighters	1,270,669
Emergency Construction—Emergency construction projects to be undertaken from the Postwar Employment Reserve	13,266,842

Education—Santa Barbara, a Branch of University of California

There are several items in this list which deserve particular comment. In the first item, increase for the University of California, there is included as part of the increase the item for the newly established campus at Santa Barbara. This should not have the effect of materially increasing either the total expenditure or the controllable expenditures in the Budget for this is primarily a transfer of the Santa Barbara State College to the University of California. While it adds to the Budget for the University of California, there should be a relatively decreased amount from the Department of Education, Division of State Colleges and Special Schools. This budgeted amount for Santa Barbara is $795,722, which is an increase of $135,812 over 1943-45.

An item for a new College of Aviation Engineering in Los Angeles is new to meet a legislative provision of the 1943 Session. Increased enrollment on all campuses of the University, should be a normal Budget increase. We believe, however, that this can be tempered by deducting from the University of California Budget whatever amount will be paid by the Federal Government under the GI Bill for the education of returning veterans. We recommend that an amendment be placed in the Budget Bill providing for a deduction of such Federal payments on the basis of enrollment and student costs. We also question if the University will receive as high a percentage of college entrants from our wartime population as they have from our normal peacetime growth, nor will they receive a very large percentage of veterans during the first six months after the close of the World War.

University of California Salary Adjustment

The adjustment of the teaching staff salaries at the University of California is purely a matter of policy. The question of whether this should be done on a permanent or a temporary basis during a wartime economy should definitely be considered by the Legislature. The Budget Committee has in its files material for a comprehensive analysis of this subject of salaries.

Department of Education

An increase of $1,377,095 over the previous biennium is recommended in the Budget for the Department of Education for increased enrollment in the six State colleges and the four special schools and expansion of vocational rehabilitation. It is possible that increased enrollment will occur in the colleges but we again question the figures used in the Budget. If this enrollment does not materialize, certain savings should be accomplished.

The expansion of vocational rehabilitation should not require additional State funds for the education of the world war veterans for this is a Federal responsibility and should be supported out of Federal appropriations.

State Colleges

If this appropriation includes any amount to expand the State colleges to meet the provisions of certain bills that are in the Legislature, to put them into competition in graduate work and research with the university, then this policy should be determined by the Legislature before the appropriation is made. The question should be answered as to whether or not these State colleges, with an expanded program of research, should not come under the university so that the competition of one State institution with another can be eliminated and a coordinated program of higher education for the entire State be established.

California Polytechnic

The same consideration should be given to the proposed expansion, both in offering degrees and research, of the California Polytechnic School, which now proposes to compete in the fields of agricultural engineering, veterinary science, and other matters with the University of California. The entire matter of continuing the Voorhis Unit of the California Polytechnic should be considered. Its budget (page 268-270) shows an increase from $13,190 for 1943-45 to $65,681 for 1945-47 and this is only the opening wedge. Its student costs will always be high. It appears to us a liability as it was to its founders as a private school. We recommend it be closed and the property disposed of and the funds used to concentrate at the one school at San Luis Obispo.

Public Health

The proposed increase in the Budget for the Department of Public Health in the amount of $778,688 should be considered in light of the fact that the budget of this department was materially increased at the last session of the Legislature and this is a pyramided increase. In this proposal is an item for the establishment of a research laboratory. It has always been the policy in the past that such research work would be carried on by the University of California under its regular appropriation. The Legislature should determine positively whether it wishes to abandon this procedure before it makes this part of the appropriation.

Industrial Relations

The increase for the Department of Industrial Relations is $631,550 to improve standards of industrial safety and accident prevention. The Department has operated satisfactorily during the period of the greatest industrialization in the State. For the past eighteen months, in fact for all of 1944 and 1945, the number of industrial workers in the State has been decreasing. In fact the January, 1945, report of the director of this department to the Governor stated that factory employment decreased from 893,000 wage earners in 1943 to 824,000 in 1944. The trend is shown by the fact that there was a drop in employment in shipbuilding of 18 per cent and of 29 per cent in aircraft manufacturing in California between the 1943 peak and September 1944. Most other war industries showed similar trends. All evidence points to a further decline of large proportions, well under way, by the time the Budget for 1945-47 becomes effective and particularly so if conditions obtain as assumed in the Budget. Already the less efficient, less skilled and less active employees, and those with bad accident records, are being discharged in our shipyards and aircraft plants. The plants themselves are tightening up on safety regulations. It seems logical to review this request in this light and to consider decreasing the appropriation for this department rather than increasing it.

Institutions

The most startling request in the increase of controllable expenditures is that of $5,325,197 for the Department of Institutions "to reorganize and establish the Department of Mental Hygiene, establish mental clinics, improve standards of care at State hospitals and provide for greater number of patients because of increased population." This is a new departure and the establishment of new and expanded services despite the fact that the Governor, in his message printed on the opposite page in the Budget, in the third paragraph states, "I do not propose any new, startling or expanded spending programs."

This change and expansion requires a considerable amount of legislation. First, the elimination from the Department of Institutions of the Home for the Adult Blind in Oakland and the Blind Work Shops; second, the change in the name of the department; third, the establishment of mental clinics to travel up and down the State, to promote business and secure clients. A startling thing is that they propose a change in the law so that they can get clients more easily when at the same time the department complains of overcrowding. It no longer will be necessary to have a court commitment but merely the opinion of two doctors to the effect that someone has a mental disturbance, and it will not even be necessary to state that they cannot be cared for locally or in their own home. There is no doubt but what the State must provide for a greater number of patients under such conditions, and we need not consider increased population necessary to fill our institutions to overflowing. It has long been recognized that all that is needed to secure more population in our institutions as charges of the State at State expense is just build a new building or a new institution. This is generally recognized by those who administer institutions. With our present requirement for admission and with the increased population, we will have our State institutions overcrowded. In fact it will be difficult to provide buildings and facilities to keep up with normal demand.

The proposal to improve standards of care in State hospitals is based primarily on a study made by Dr. Hamilton, a Federal employee, whose general procedure eliminated all consideration of costs or the burden they might impose upon the taxpayers. Also, his primary measure was the amount of money spent not the ratio of recovery or the rapidity of cure.

The statement made by the Department of Institutions for so-called improved standards of care was based primarily upon the contention that California is the third most populated State in the Union and one of the largest spenders for education and aid to the needy aged, and therefore should spend more for State institutions. We contend that the argument is unsound and that there is no reason for a State to spend more money for institutions simply because it is populous, because it happens to be rich, or because it spends more money for other services than do other States. The question is, does the State of California provide adequate service and are the inmates in its institutions relatively well cared for. Are they as well cared for as the average citizen in the State who needs hospitalization or custodial care who does not go to a State institution? Is the ratio of recovery favorable when compared with institutions in other States?

Doctors and Nurses for Wounded Soldiers First

One of the specific recommendations is for an increase in the medical service and in the number of registered nurses. We maintain that such an attempt to enlarge these services during the war is in direct competition with the war effort. At the present time the Surgeon-General of the United States is making a plea for more nurses through every means at hand, in the press, over the radio, through special bulletins, through individual letters, through civic clubs and through every other kind of an organization. This is for the reason that hospitals with as many as 3,000 wounded and suffering soldiers of this war have only 53 trained nurses to attend them. Recently several hospital groups, some eleven of them, were sent overseas for the care of our wounded soldiers and sailors without it being possible to send a single trained nurse. It is reasonable that the Department of Institutions of the State of California should compete for nurses under these conditions? Should not the Department of Institutions withdraw its request in light of the war effort when the war casualties are increasing more rapidly than at any other time during the war? The same argument to a somewhat lesser degree applies to doctors.

Moreover, the average citizen who pays the bills for our State institutions can not secure the services of nurses or doctors to the same degree that such services are available to the actually sick inmates of our institutions.

It should be recognized that only a small percentage of the inmates of our State institutions are acutely ill and require the services of trained nurses. The nursing services, moreover, have been satisfactory up to now. Why, in the middle of a war, when the services of trained nurses and doctors are at a premium, should this expenditure be proposed? Wounds of soldiers continue after the fighting ends and long after the glory dims.

The following tabulation giving the population of the several institutions and the types of bed cases in residence at the several institutions as of January 31, 1945, measures the outside need for trained nursing services.

Tabulation of Types of Bed Cases in Resident Institutions as of January 31, 1945

[1] Mostly temporarily ill.
[2] Probably confined to their beds for as long as they are in the respective institutions.
[3] So insane as to be resistive to normal feeding and to require forceful feeding by tube.
[4] These are disturbed patients.

The total number that require some nursing was 2,634 out of a total of 30,177 estimated average population for 1944-45 or less than 10 per cent. The total requiring trained nurses is far less than this total.

Moreover, it is now proposed that nurses be drafted in order to secure an adequate supply for our armed services. The Governor recently stated that California in no way would interfere with the drafting of manpower or the requirement that persons subject to the draft should be required to work in essential war industries. It appears that the same principles apply in this situation. In addition to the lack of trained nurses for overseas duty, there is a concentrated drive on to enlist WAC's for medical technicians for duty at home. Major Knox Manning, WAC Recruiting Officer, informed a conference in the office of Governor Warren in Los Angeles on February 7, 1945, that "Thousands of wounded war veterans returned to hospitals in the United States will receive inadequate care" unless such enlistments are stimulated.

Governor Warren en route from Washington, D. C., telegraphed his support of the campaign.

Moreover, it is doubtful if these positions calling for doctors and nurses and technicians could be filled even if they are set up in the Budget. For these reasons this increase for these purposes can not be justified at this time. We recommend they be deferred until at least six months after the conclusion of hostilities.

Patient Load Reduced

The additional number of positions set up in the Budget under the reorganization plan will have the effect of further reducing the patient load per employee. The net result will be to have an average of one employee for each seven inmates.

Corrections

An increase of $3,171,964 is proposed for the Department of Corrections. This is for the purpose of implementing the Youth and Adult Authorities, to purchase new school facilities now under lease, abolish the "con boss" system, establish diagnostic clinic and prison classifications.

Subsequently in this report we will give further details on this subject which will show that the Youth Authority under the present setup is not functioning efficiently and needs revisions which will produce some economy. Per inmate costs are too high and failures too great. Costs could be cut by securing more cures.

There is also a question as to whether certain of the new school facilities under lease should be purchased.

A determination should be made of what is meant by "abolish the con boss system" and why this should cost anything. Why, on the other hand, should it not produce economies which should eventually result in saving money rather than in spending more. So far the only measurable results of the "Prison reform" have been to increase costs, reduce paroles, replace long-time employees, eliminate forestry and harvest camps and lay the groundwork for still higher costs. It is true that the changed setup has not been under way long enough to demonstrate its ability to restore a larger percentage of men to society or to get them back into proper social relationship or to reduce recidivism. The present record of the prisons is no better than has existed for many years, particularly when measured in light of the excellent employment conditions and the favorable economic conditions. The real test will not come until the war is over and jobs scarce and adverse economic opportunities obtain. The diagnostic clinic is not new. It has existed in the Youth Authority for some time as has also the prisoners' classification board in San Quentin.

Agriculture

The proposed increase for the Department of Agriculture is $1,268,830 for increased protection to plant and livestock industries, meat inspection and enforcement of marketing laws. The increase for meat inspection is anticipating the withdrawal of Federal inspection and is not due to a proposed change in the law whereby it proposes that the State pay the entire cost of meat inspection which has formerly been carried by the industry. This latter is in a bill and is a matter of policy which the Legislature should decide. In prior sessions the proposal has been turned down.

Forestry

It is proposed to increase the appropriation for the Division of Forestry by $1,270,669. This is over and above the wartime expenditures. It is stated that this is for increased fire suppression allotments and adjustment of salary and working schedule for fire fighters. This statement does not adequately explain the circumstances for this includes a continuation in the normal program of certain services expanded as a wartime activity. This is contrary to the principles adopted by the Budget Committee. It includes the taking on of an additional large area of the State for fire protection. It includes practically doubling the payment to the Federal Government for protection of private lands inside Federal forests. It includes allocating approximately three times the amount of money to the so-called outside counties. It includes the establishment of a full two-way radio system and it includes the all year employment of a much larger personnel, about 200 additional. The net result is to materially increase the protection costs per acre. This whole subject needs careful consideration by the Legislature and the determination of certain specific policies before a Budget can be specifically determined.

Emergency Construction

The next item is labeled "Emergency construction." It proposes the expenditure of $13,266,842 from the Postwar Employment Reserve for projects which are designated as emergency construction. The detail of this will be found on page 762 of the Budget and items 254 to 274, inclusive, of the Budget Bill. We wish to point out here, however, that the Legislature has reserved the power to determine when and for what the Postwar Employment Reserve will be used. The question can be at once raised if an appropriation at this time for the Biennium 1945-47 will conform to the desires of the Legislature to use this fund for postwar employment.

It can be observed that the estimates of cost for the construction items listed in the Budget are not based on prices either for labor or material that would undoubtedly prevail if these expenditures were being made for the purpose of helping to relieve unemployment. In fact, on page 764, under postwar construction program, under California Institution for Men, we find the following statement "Supplemental amounts ($99,000) required on account of increased cost of construction over and above $262,000 already on hand in Architectural Revolving Fund for this project." These prices have been calculated on approximately present costs. If the Legislature wishes to preserve the postwar employment reserve for the relief of unemployment, it may possibly conclude to make such of these appropriations as it considers emergency from other funds.

The Legislature should keep in mind that it will cost approximately one-third more for this construction now than it would have cost at prewar prices. The best available information from all sources, including the survey made by the Reconstruction and Reemployment Commission, indicate that postwar income of the people of California will be considerably less than it is at present. This should mean that cost of construction will be materially less than under wartime conditions. It is doubtful if a delay of a considerable proportion of this program will produce any serious hardship. Some of it should be constructed immediately as a real emergency. It all should be reviewed to determine the degree of emergency for each and every item. It is recommended that each item in this program be reviewed by the Legislature with these conditions in mind.

What Is Strict Economy

It is stated on page v of the Budget Message that in preparing the Budget strict economy has been adhered to without curtailment of needed State services. There are many varied interpretations of both what is strict economy and what are needed State services.

We have stated previously that neither the Budget for 1943-45 nor this Budget are economy Budgets. A review of the 1943-45 Budget and the actual and estimated expenditures amply demonstrates this. For the Fiscal Year 1943-44 where the actual business of the State has been done and the expenditures are known, all of the proposed classes of General Fund expenditures fell below the Budget estimates, this despite the fact that there were material increases in salary adjustments and increases in pay scales, and many other expenditures that could have been materially reduced. In fact, payments from the General Fund for this fiscal year totaled $206,609,000 compared with estimated requirements of $223,317,000, showing a saving of approximately $17,000,000. This will be reduced somewhat by adjustments falling into the type of delayed expenditures. However, the net should be between $13,000,000 and $14,000,000. This will be called a saving by the State administrators, and in a sense it is, for most all of this could have been expended. In the exact sense, however, it should be called a reversion from excess appropriations, for this total expenditure of $206,609,000 was $39,102,000 above the total for 1942-43, or an expenditure increase of 18.92 per cent.

It is significant that miscellaneous expenditures from the General Fund for 1943-44 for State hospitals, prisons, special schools, colleges, and all of the departments and agencies supported by general taxes, amounted to $62,155,000 as compared with an estimated figure of $73,337,000 for that year, a saving of $11,182,000. There will probably be $4,000,000 of delayed expenditures from this, leaving a net saving of approximately $7,000,000. This in itself is significant but when we consider that the $62,155,000 had in it $13,500,000 for highway projects where no saving could be considered, then the $7,000,000 saving was out of $48,500,000, which is a high percentage. Comparable results should be secured for the current year of this biennium, although some of these potential savings have been reduced through allowing increases in salaries and added personnel.

When one goes through the Budget for 1945-47 and compares the Budget with the actual and estimated expenditures for 1943-45 and finds that practically every item shows a material increase, and the total increase is 16.4 per cent, one must conclude that the Budget for the coming biennium is not an economy Budget. This is further supported when we find that a number of expenditures established as wartime expenditures are entirely omitted but others appear in the Budget as expenditures for the regular activities of the departments and agencies concerned. Also, many departments of the State have functioned effectively during the war with reduced personnel and yet they have maintained approximately 3,000 vacant positions for employees who are in the armed forces. The Budget for 1945-47 proposes to fill these positions without eliminating a comparable number of existing positions.

Recommended Savings—$10,000,000

In examining the Budget carefully, it will be found that expenditures for the Fiscal Year 1943-44 which are headed "actual" are in almost every instance less than the estimated and actual expenditures for the 1944-45 Fiscal Year. In fact, the budgeting process is such that the items entered in this column are generally, if not always, the sums allowed in the fiscal year Budgets. The Budget items for the next Fiscal Year 1945-46 throughout the Governor's Budget nearly always show an increase over the previous fiscal year and this is generally carried forward with an increase into the Fiscal Year 1946-47. In our opinion, the actual and estimated expenditures for 1944-45 are from 10 to 13 million dollars more than what will actually be expended unless salary increases or some additional expenditures are allowed without providing the additional sums of money necessary. Since this schedule of allotments is carried forward with an increase for 1945-47, it is our well considered opinion that from 8 to 10 million dollars can be arbitrarily cut from the Appropriation Bill on a percentage basis from the lump sum appropriations, and the departments of the State will operate as satisfactorily as they have operated for the current biennium. There are some exceptions to this general recommendation and these specific places, which on the whole are few, will be pointed out. We recommend that this policy be followed.

Population Increase and Cost of Government

We concur that the State must frankly face the fact that California has increased its population during the current biennium. We should also recognize that the government has operated satisfactorily caring for this increased population during the current biennium. There has been an increase in the cost of government resulting from this.

The full effect of this increased population has not been felt in all parts of the State Government. For example, the population increase in 1944 will not increase the allotment to schools, other than emergency allotments, until 1945. The actual expenditures for public schools for 1944, based upon 1943 average daily attendance, required only $77,246,000 against a forecast of $80,059,000.

Elementary schools required approximately $1,000,000 less than was allowed in the 1943-45 Budget and the remainder of the savings was due to the decrease in high school attendance. No doubt the high school attendance will show a sudden upswing after the war and probably during the 1945-47 Biennium. Such will not be the case with elementary schools. It is possible that the population of the State may decline with the decline in wartime jobs which is already underway. It is generally admitted that the upswing peak of industrial activity in California resulting from the war was reached in 1944. There is no reason to believe that there will be an increase in population in anywise comparable with the increase in the Budget for 1945-47 over the actual and estimated expenditures for 1943-45 of 16.4 per cent.

The tabulation previously presented shows that the increased cost of California State Government has far exceeded the growth in population. May we not ask the question, should not the cost of California State Government upon a return to peacetime activities show some decline with the stabilization of population or possibly an actual decline in population? Should it not show a further decline in costs by the elimination of wartime activities? Should it not show some further decreases if there is a material decrease in the cost of commodities? Should there not be some further decline with the increase in the efficiency of available employees through the reversal of the labor market?

Continuation of Public Service on Standards Established by the Legislature

It is claimed that the Budget provides for a continuation of public service in accordance with the standards heretofore established by the Legislature. This appears to be not only a logical assumption but a requirement determined by the Legislature and passed on to the Executive Division of State Government for administration, but this deserves some interpretation.

When the appropriations were passed for the 1943-45 Budget, certain legislative intent was expressed with the several appropriations. In many instances an appropriation was made to provide a certain wartime service but with the understanding that the Governor and his financial officers, in exercising budgetary control, would only spend so much thereof as was necessary. Previously in this report we have pointed out many instances an appropriation was made to provide a certain wartime that the budgetary control expected had been realized to a larger degree than previously in the functioning of budgetary control. Under this Administration, we find that certain unit costs for carrying on the Government of the State were secured and that certain services were rendered for these costs, which apparently have satisfied the public. An examination of the Budget for 1945-47 will show that the unit costs for many services wherever they are measurable have been increased throughout the Budget, yet some show material decreases. For example, we may consider the Department of Institutions which is one of the best budgeted departments of the State, and the Departments of Education and Corrections, where unit costs are available. The following comparisons will illustrate the point.

Comparison of Unit Costs in California Institutions

Name of department and institution	Cost per patient in residence

It is significant to note that the educational institutions do show a per student reduction in costs with the return to peacetime conditions, while the prisons and the correctional institutions and the hospitals show a continued increase per inmate cost. In the case of the educational institutions we have a continuation of the public service standards established by the Legislature. In the case of the others, we have an increase in standards and increasing per inmate costs largely resulting from increased standards, the costs of which were never acted on by the Legislature.

There are some minor exceptions. The Legislature did approve a uniform number of holidays for institutions, including the Department of Corrections, and it did approve a bill reorganizing the Department of Penology into the Department of Corrections, and also the establishing of the Youth Authority, but it did not approve any additional expenditures for the Department of Corrections at the time. The increase in the number of employees per inmate, both in institutions and in the prisons, has never been acted on by the Legislature. Many other added services beyond the standard approved by the Legislature are included in the 1945-47 Budget.

New and Expanded Spending Program

There can also be a difference of opinion concerning the statement included in the Budget Message to the effect that no new or expanded spending programs are proposed. On page iv of the Budget Message a number of items are listed as causes of the major increase in controllable expenditures. Amongst these are the following which do not appear in prior Budgets and therefore must be considered as new services.

Department of Public Health

Assistant Chief of the Bureau of Tuberculosis ..... (page 671)
Eight war emergency positions extended on a permanent basis for the Division of Laboratories ..... (page 676)
Chief of the Division of Environmental Sanitation ..... (page 676)
Five new positions in the Division of Sanitary Engineering ..... (page 677)
Five new positions formerly war emergency extended to permanent basis in the Bureau of Food and Drugs ..... (page 679)
Added aid to cities and counties—fees paid to nurses and physicians ..... (page 682)
Other unmeasurable additions in miscellaneous items.

Department of Industrial Relations

A new secretariat for a Citizens' Advisory Committee on Social and Industrial Welfare: Four new positions not extended through the Fiscal Year 1946-47 ..... (page 390)
Seven new safety engineers ..... (page 396)
Thirteen new positions for the Division of Industrial Welfare ..... (page 400)
(At a time when industrial employment is decreasing each month, the peak having been reached in 1944)

Department of Institutions

Included in this budget is money to completely reorganize the Department, and to establish mental clinics, and to add new employees to reduce the patient load to an average of 7.01 per employee.

There is to be established in the Department a completely new activity as follows:

Tuberculosis Survey—3 employees
Hygiene Clinics—40 new employees
A Director of Clinical Services for most of the institutions, and graduate nurses at each institution.

At most of the institutions they are likewise adding an institution supervising dietitian, formerly handled for the entire department by a food administrator.

Department of Corrections

An examination of the Budget for the Department of Corrections will show that the increase of $3,171,964 is primarily for new and expanded services which could have been anticipated at the time the Department of Corrections was established. A careful examination of the Budget is required to realize the extent of this expansion.

This reorganization program has not been in operation long enough to measure results and to determine whether the material increase in the costs will secure comparable improved results. The sincerity of the administrators is unquestioned and their zeal is commendable.

However, merely the spending of more money per inmate does not give an enlightened correctional institution, nor does it reclaim more offenders and restore them to society, nor does it reduce the deficiencies of internal management or internal disturbances or irregularities. The problems of internal security, rehabilitation, and restoration of prisoners to society, and a continuous protection of society, should remain the fundamental problems of penology. Evidence does not to date show diminution in the unrest within the prison walls amongst employees and prisoners, or the diminution of the possibilities for a serious disturbance at either Folsom or San Quentin, despite the fact that the unit costs are being increased materially. More time is required to test the new setup and compare costs and results.

Surplus—Use and Dangers

The Legislative Budget Committee in its first report commented on the dangers of a large surplus and the temptation to spend this surplus. We must agree with the Governor's statement that we should be extremely careful of expenditures and uninfluenced by the surplus, and that this surplus has come to the State because of the war, not because of any effort of the State Government or its administrators.

We endorse wholeheartedly his statement "when the war is over, unless we spend wisely now, we may find ourselves with a greater deficit than we had in the 10 years preceding the war." These deficits were as follows:

	Population	Deficit	Per capita deficit
June 30, 1933	6,015,000	$11,085,160	$1.84
June 30, 1935	6,135,000	18,954,712	3.09
June 30, 1937	6,687,000	12,635,478	1.89
June 30, 1939	6,877,000	36,529,787	5.31
June 30, 1941	7,315,000	65,565,852	8.96
June 30, 1947	8,642,000	?	?

We have added to the Governor's tabulation the population for the State for these same years and have projected the population for 1947. We have estimated the per capita deficit based upon the population for the several years. If the same conditions obtain the deficit can be ascertained by multiplying the population by the factors in the last column.

We likewise concur in the following statement of the Governor, "We must realize that any extravagant spending habits we set up in this period of inflated revenues will become an instrument of torture to us when revenues return to normal." This statement of the Governor can be further emphasized by pointing out that at the present time the per capita income in California is approximately $1,470 per person, while prior to the war it was approximately $820 per year per person. It is quite likely that in the postwar period we may return to an income approximating that of 1940 or about $820 per year per person. Federal taxes will necessarily be high for many years to pay for the war and the expanded governmental services which have already been promised. The revenue of the State depend primarily upon the business income of our people and more directly on that income which they have to spend. It is possible and probable that our State income from present tax sources may drop back to approximately 1941 collections of around $281,000,000 per year. This was the highest amount ever collected prior to the war, a drop of approximately $95,000,000 below the collections for 1944, or a decrease of almost $200,000,000 for the biennium.

Were Our Highways, Hospitals, Institutions, Universities and Colleges Neglected Because of Lack of Funds in the Lean Years Prior to the War?

Following is a tabulation of the capital outlay made by the State for the biennium 1931-33 to 1943-45, inclusive. This will indicate exactly what the State did spend for capital outlay during this time. It was a substantial amount. However, the capital outlay for these purposes was materially reduced during the war period or from 1941 to date. Many buildings are obsolete and there has been an increased need due to the influx of population.

The postwar building program established by the Legislature in 1943 will amply take care of the building needs if no new services are added, and if these buildings are constructed at normal prices rather than at wartime prices which are approximately one-third higher at present than the index for building as of January, 1940.

The cost of depreciation and obsolescence which has accrued during the war period, and that which will accrue during the building period following the war, must be included in the cost to keep the building program abreast of need.

Postwar Reserves

The Legislature of 1943 in regular and special sessions set up a postwar employment reserve and dedicated to this 20 per cent of the net sales tax collections, 10 per cent of all receipts under the bank and corporation franchise tax and corporation income tax. The Legislature also transferred into this reserve from the General Fund $75,000,000. The Budget estimates that the total dedicated to this will be $145,878,114 by January, 1946, without a further extension of the dedication of a percentage of these taxes for this purpose. Our estimate places it between $150,000,000 and $155,000,000. No money from this fund can be spent without a specific appropriation by the Legislature.

The Governor recommends that an additional $40,000,000 from the General Fund be transferred to the Postwar Employment Reserve for the reasons that a reappraisal of the needs and increased construction costs show a larger requirement. On page 762 of the Budget there is found a recommendation that $13,266,844 be appropriated from the Postwar Employment Reserve for the Biennium 1945-47. The items listed under this are considered as emergencies.

The question at once arises why recommend on the one hand to increase the postwar reserves by $40,000,000 and on the other recommend an expenditure of approximately $13,250,000 from the same fund. Should a fund that is considered a Postwar Employment Reserve be drawn upon before we have any knowledge concerning the postwar employment problem? Would it not be more logical to provide that such of this building program as is determined by the Legislature as an emergency be paid for out of the general fund and preserve the Postwar Employment Reserve and add to it such additional reserves as are required? Or if the total appropriations for 1945-47 are low enough to continue the percentage allocation of the several taxes indicated above into the Postwar Employment Reserve, would it not be logical to do so for the biennium? By continuing the allocation of a percentage of such taxes into the reserve, the flow thereof would be regulated by the tax receipts. They would increase if the tax accruals went up and decrease if they went down while a lump sum allocation to the reserve might be excessive if revenues fell or are under what was estimated if revenues do not continue at the present high level.

Unemployment Relief

The Budget Message recommends that $50,000,000 or as much more as the Legislature may determine be set up as a reserve for unemployment relief. This is supported by the statement that during the 10 year period prior to the war (1931-1941) the State spent $225,000,000 for unemployment relief and the total by all levels of government during the period approximated $1,250,000,000.

While these figures are approximately correct, the use of these figures, particularly the grand total, may give an unreasonably alarmist concept of relief needs for the next two years. More appropriate figures would have been the high, low, and average biennial expenditures. Furthermore, there was great inefficiency, abuse and scandal in the administration of SRA funds from 1939 to 1942 when it was abolished. So much so that no one ever wants a repetition of such conditions. In fact, ever since it was established up to the present the Controller has been recovering from recipients money that was illegally paid.

To present the whole problem as it appeared, 1931-1942, the following tabulation on expenditures by all levels of government for unemployment and indigent relief is presented.

The Governor recommended in his message to the Legislature, pages 14-15 that a system for administration of unemployment relief to replace the abolished SRA be immediately set up so that the State will be prepared both administratively and financially to deal with relief problems when it again arises.

No money was put in the Budget or Budget Bill, however, for either of these purposes.

If the conditions obtained upon which the budget was made and business conditions exist which will be necessary to produce the revenue estimated in the Budget of $712,921,865 for 1945-47 they will be better than 1941-43 conditions. Reference to the above table will show the State spent only $642,051 for relief in that period. The State had no $600,000,000 plus Unemployment Reserve Fund then or the great backlog of private savings that exists now. Neither did it have a State Postwar Employment Reserve of $145,000,000 set up by the 1943 Legislature; nor a $40,000,000 Postwar Highway Building Reserve, proposed in the Governor's Budget 1945-47 with plans and rights-of-way financed out of a $13,000,000 appropriation from the General Fund; nor plans for postwar unemployment promoted in the counties and cities by a Senate and an Assembly Committee on Postwar Planning and financed out of $10,000,000 from the General Fund of the State; nor did we have a vast program of Federal Works now set up in Washington.

It seems more logical to hold this requested additional unemployment relief reserve in the Postwar Employment Building Reserve or as an unbudgeted surplus.

The Legislature will again be in regular session in January, 1947, before the biennium is closed and in time to reappraise the financial and economic position of the people of the State and the specific problems at that time. If a sudden crisis comes before the Legislature meets for the regular session, a special session should be called to allow them to act to meet the problem.

Notes and Sources of Data

Notes

'A' Number of recipients is shown for January of each year.

'B' Number of SRA recipients in May, 1941 (last available count), was 142,838.

'C' Number of county recipients in July, 1941, was 98,584. It should be noted that discontinuance of SRA in June, 1941, resulted in an increase in county load in July, 1941, amounting to only 25,931 over January, 1941.

'D' All or part of the Federal grants to State in 1936 may be duplicated in Federal Expenditures. Difficulty of analysis of available data prohibits determination of even an approximate amount.

'E' Federal Civil Works Administration program (CWA)

'F' County expenditures include some Federal funds which may be a duplication of Federal expenditures as shown. The amount is obtainable only by examination of county records. It may be estimated at $10,000,000

'G' The loan of $20,000,000 by the State to the counties under Chapter 207, Statutes of 1933, excluded from State funds, and are reflected in county expenditures.

'H' It should be noted that, although county expenditures are entitled "General Indigent Relief," they include very substantial payments of unemployment relief during the fiscal years eighty-fourth to eighty-seventh, inc. These payments may be estimated as approximately $57,000,000 on the basis of the excess of the inflated amounts over normal amounts in the years mentioned.

Sources of Expenditure Data

State—Records of State Controller.

Federal—U. S. Treasury Dept. report of "Status of Emergency Relief Act Appropriations for period April 5, 1935 to June 30, 1942." Exception is amount of expenditures for CWA, which was obtained from "Analysis of CWA Program Statistics," published by WPA in June, 1939.

County—State Controller's annual report of "Financial Transactions of Municipalities and Counties."

Data as to number of persons receiving assistance is based on statistical reports of the State Relief Administration and the State Department of Social Welfare.

The number of Federal recipients is not shown, as there appears to be no available compilations which are comprehensive and free of duplications.

Federal expenditures represent all major and minor relief programs financed from the emergency relief appropriations. The most prominent are: CWA, PWA, WPA, NYA, CCC, Surplus Commodity Distribution and FSA.

Debt-Free State

We concur with the Governor's recommendation that $11,651,490 be appropriated by the 1945 Legislature to the Bond Sinking Fund of 1943 to meet debt service on all General Fund obligation bonds between 1949 and 1965. This would in effect earmark funds to pay off all State bonds, other than those paid from special funds and highway bonds paid from the "in lieu" motor vehicle tax. It is a good policy for a government as well as an individual to pay their debts in periods of prosperity.

The bonds that will then remain to be paid on the basis of self-liquidation or special support are still significant. They are as follows:

Net outstanding bonded debt December 31, 1944 after deducting amounts in sinking fund	$114,692,521
Proposed sinking fund 1944-45	11,651,490
Total bonded debt of the State paid out of specific taxes or self-liquidating	$103,041,031

Reserve for Fire or Earthquake Loss to State Buildings

There is recommended in the Budget Message the appropriation of $3,000,000 reserve to cover possible fire and earthquake damage to State buildings for the reason the State carries no insurance on such buildings.

The State Legislature can change the law prohibiting the insurance of State buildings when it wishes and has done so on specific items in the past. The State now insures the State Printing Plant, the buildings and works of the San Francisco Harbor, and the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge. All of these are self-supporting and revenue producing and in fact are more in the nature of business enterprises than strict governmental functions, Therefore, there is ample reason to insure them.

The State Compensation Insurance Fund is in the same category as the above mentioned agencies as a business and more so as it also pays regular State taxes. It owns its own office building in San Francisco and logically should insure it. It is recommended this matter be given consideration by the Legislature.

As respects insuring other State buildings, it appears that the State can very well be a self-insurer and carry the risk. The State buildings are well distributed. Many are of high fire resistance. Many are under guard or have employees on duty continuously. Many have special fire fighting equipment assigned to them. The historic loss ratio of State buildings upon which insurance costs are based is very low.

On the other hand, the State should have a general reserve for all purposes and the self-insurance cost should be in this reserve. No special reserve is required for earthquake and fire losses and it is not desirable as a matter of good government procedure to set up by appropriation a series of specific reserves and freeze large sums of money. It is not good public finance and it adds to costs of accounting, both to the Treasurer's and the Controller's office to set up numerous reserves and special funds. We recommend that such a special reserve be not established, but that a general reserve be maintained to cover all contingencies of the State subject to appropriation by the Legislature. Such reserve for a State spending between $700,000,000 and $850,000,000 a biennium should not be less than $50,000,000.

Such a reserve would serve amongst others the following purposes:

1. Provide a fund to finance agencies during their lean periods of revenues.
2. Provide a fund from which appropriations could be made to meet disaster losses, including loss from fire, earthquake, flood, etc.
3. Provide a source for appropriations pending any loss of revenue from drastic economic disturbances.
4. Provide funds to draw upon pending adjustments in tax levies when changes are necessary.

Beach Acquisition $15,000,000

The message recommends the freezing of $15,000,000 from the General Fund for the future acquisition of beaches on a state-wide plan approved by the Legislature. This is a curious recommendation in light of the Budget and the biennial message.

First of all the beaches are to be purchased on a state-wide plan but no Budget item or appropriation was requested to prepare such a plan.

Second, the Biennial Message (page 11) recommends that sufficient funds from existing State surplus be earmarked to insure eventual purchase of "additional park and beach lands"—not just beach lands. However, no item of appropriation for such purposes appears in the Budget.

Third, reference to the Budget section on Beaches and Parks, pages 574-83 will show that there is no setup there for a survey as recommended.

Fourth, reference to page 578 of the Budget shows that there was appropriated for 1943-45 the sum of $244,722 for purchase of park land and only $104,445 for 1945-47 for beach land (page 581), 1943-45 $165,000 for 1945-47 nothing.

Fifth—reference to page 583 of the Budget will show that it is estimated that on July 1, 1947, there will be a surplus in the State Park Fund of $5,987,879 and a surplus in the State Beach Fund of $3,088,666—total surplus beach and park funds $9,076,545.

If the rate of earnings of the properties managed by the Division of State Lands continues for the biennium as it has for the past several months, the amounts transferred to the beach and park funds will exceed these estimates.

If more beaches and parks are desirable in the period following the close of the biennium 1945-47, why not secure some in the interim if prices are favorable?

If planning is necessary to buy beaches and parks, why no provision for such planning?

If there will be nearly $10,000,000 available by July 1, 1947, out of special allocated funds to buy beaches and parks already earmarked, why earmark $15,000,000 more out of the General Fund for this purpose? When in fact there should be another five or six million dollars available from the same earmarked funds for beaches and parks during 1947-49 when these properties presumably would be purchased.

Under the conditions above outlined, we raise a serious question as to whether it is desirable at this time to freeze any money from the General Fund surplus for the acquisition of additional beaches or parks. This is pertinent for the reason that the ordinary purchase of beaches and parks can be accomplished by using the special funds already dedicated to this purpose.

Tax Reduction Warranted

The Budget Message on page vii says that the tax reduction is warranted for the reason that if the appropriations recommended by the Governor (in his Budget and in his Budget Message but not including those in his Biennial Message that are additional) are made that there will still be a surplus of $25,134,656. It is obvious that if only the Budget is approved and appropriations provided that otherwise there would be a surplus of approximately $144,786,146; these figures were based upon a continuance of the present reduced tax rates as established by the Legislature in 1943.

We wish to point out that the surplus of $144,786,146 of June 30, 1947, is the surplus given in the Budget and does not take into account the additional expenditures recommended by the Governor in any other place. Furthermore, the Governor in stating that after taking care of the appropriations he recommends there will still be a surplus of $25,134,656 does not take into account the deficiency that will accrue from his proposed health plan of approximately $100,000,000 a year as we have previously estimated. It is true that the actual liabilities of this plan may be deferred to some subsequent date so that the actual disbursements will not be made, but the evil day would only be postponed and the deficit might catch up to the State in a time of reduced economic ability.

Neither does the Governor in considering a probable surplus make any allowance for appropriation bills that might be passed by the Legislature in addition to his Budget and in addition to the expenditures which he recommends. It is an established fact that the Legislature always passes some appropriations in addition to the Budget and the Governor's recommendation. Under the Governor's proposals, his recommendations would consume all of the Budget surplus in additional appropriations which he recommends and which we maintain should be a part of the Budget and, on his own statement, the surplus would then be reduced to $25,134,656. This, of course, is without counting such reserves as the Postwar Employment Reserve, the $25,000,000 tied up in the War-catastrophe Reserve, the special fund set aside in the Teachers' Retirement Fund, and the special reserve for paying outstanding bonds and interest thereon.

This does not take into account that the Legislature also might decide on some different method of financing the current emergency building needs in the sum of $13,266,842. It might decide to leave this fund intact and take this required amount from the General Fund. This would then reduce the unappropriated surplus if the Governor's program in the Budget and the Budget Message is approved to less than $12,000,000—a sum which is inadequate as a reserve for an expenditure program that approaches $900,000,000.

Tax Increase Not Required Unless New Services Established

We concur with the Governor that the present financial condition of the State does not justify increasing State taxes unless the State desires to embark on an expansion program of assisting local governments by further subsidies or establish new services. This is purely a matter of legislative determination. If the Legislature embarks on this program to any extensive degree then clearly tax reduction is not possible. On the other hand, with strict economy the Legislature can not only continue the present reduced tax rates established in 1933 but it can also continue to allocate to the Postwar Employment Fund the same percentage of taxes as is now being allocated and it can still end the biennium with a substantial surplus.

The tax reduction program adopted in 1943 can be continued for the next two years with a saving of approximately $100,000,000 to the taxpayers. At the same time a much larger reserve can be built up for postwar unemployment and for the State's needed buildings.

Postwar Highway Program

On page vii of the Budget Message, the Governor recommends that a reserve of $40,000,000 from highway funds be held in reserve for postwar construction of State highways "to provide work in localities of the State where the need for employment may develop." The detail of this is set up on page 713 of the Budget. This has previously been presented in this report. We concur in the recommendation of setting up the reserve but we can not concur in the above recommendation quoted "That it shall be used to provide work in localities of the State where the need for employment may develop." This money is specifically allotted for two purposes—resurfacing and construction of roads and bridges of State highways, and secondly, for State highways in cities. The primary purpose is to build needed highways under allocations made by law, and it may occur that the highways which should be built will not provide work in localities where there is unemployment. The providing of employment is of secondary consideration and it will be just as effective to build the highways where they are needed for it will reduce the total unemployment labor pool. A bill has been drawn to set up this reserve.

Revenue Prospects

The Budget Message, page vii, states that the revenue receipts from all sources during the 1945-47 biennium are forecast at $712,921,865. The revenue estimates are further detailed, beginning on page A-6 to A-9 of the Budget. They will be further discussed in a subsequent section of this report. Our estimates on the whole do not differ materially. We show approximately $4,000,000 less revenue for the Biennium 1945-47 than estimated by the fiscal officer of the State. The only significant difference is that we estimate that the General Fund will receive some $9,000,000 less and the highway funds or special funds will receive approximately $5,000,000 more. We believe that the gas taxes and motor vehicles fees will go up at a more rapid rate in the second fiscal year of the biennium and that bank and corporation taxes and the retail sales tax will fall off more rapidly than estimated by the Department of Finance. With excessive revenues for the General Fund being collected in the amounts that they are, this is relatively unimportant for Budget purposes. The excess collection, however, for highway purposes is significant and, for this reason, we have previously recommended that the reserve for postwar highway construction recommended by the Governor be made in excess of the Budget figure for the reason that we believe that the reserve will reach by this procedure the sum of $45,000,000, rather than the $40,000,000 specified amount recommended by the Governor.

The "Line Item" Budget

On page vii of the Governor's Budget Message, he discusses the matter of a "line item" Budget and suggests that the administration would not be hampered by having an Appropriation Bill based on specific categories. In the introduction to this report, we fully discussed this matter in comparing the Budget and the Budget Bill. Through this setup the Appropriation Bill in categories will provide considerable more legislative control than to merely make lump sum appropriation. The form of the Appropriation Bill is purely a matter of legislative policy.

We heartily concur with the Governor's statement that the administration has lived within the Budget approved by the Legislature and the appropriations made by it. The variations from the Budget have been relatively small—the largest have been for the purpose of setting up the Department of Corrections, approved by the Special Session of the Legislature without there being any actual Budget presented for its operation for the current biennium. Only the lump sum appropriations made for the Department of Penology and its several divisions was transferred, but no legislative intent was ever expressed on any detail setting up a Budget for the Department of Corrections or the Adult Authority or the reorganization made thereunder.

The Budget of actual and estimated expenditures for the Department of Corrections found in the Budget for 1945-47 for the current biennium 1943-45 was never approved by the Legislature and was never before the Legislature. It was set up by the Department of Finance under its budgetary control powers. We concur that the purpose for which this money was expended was provided by the Legislature but never was it appropriated on the basis of a specific Budget.

The Salary Restoration Fund of the 1943-45 Appropriation Act was conserved and the Emergency Fund was with few exceptions, used for real emergencies under the provisions of law. We must commend the administration and particularly the Director of Finance and this staff who exercised budgetary control for exerting every energy to follow the spirit of the fiscal policies established by the Legislature.

Not An Economy Budget

We have stated and restated that the 1943-45 Budget was not a strict economy Budget—that it was a wartime Budget. The Budget before the Legislature for 1945-47 likewise is not a strict economy Budget. It moreover is a transition Budget and with an unknown problem of making the transition from war to peace. It is further more colored by the fact that the State has a large surplus, in spite of the endeavor of the Department of Finance to budget carefully and the reiterated statement of the Governor that "unless we spend wisely now, we can find ourselves with a greater deficit than we had in the 10 years preceding the war."

Many services of government established as a wartime matter have been continued into peace time. Several expanded and new services, as previously mentioned, appear in the Budget. Recommended appropriations have been made for a continuation of prices, both for commodities, service and labor. No allowance has been made for any reduction although allowances have been made for a reduction in peacetime revenues. This is allowing the safety factor both ways—a falling off in revenue and in maintenance of cost. Unless the Legislature is to be convened when peace is established and economic changes manifest themselves, this is the safe course, but it means that appropriations must be larger than if they were made in light of actual existing conditions. There are many additional places where legislative action can produce additional economy. These will be pointed out when we consider specifically the appropriation items.

Amendment No. 2

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out lines 1 to 24, inclusive, and insert

"SECTION 1. The termination of the present war will inevitably create serious economic problems for the people of this State.

The change from a war economy to a peacetime economy and the tremendous and sudden increase in population in this State necessitates a corresponding increase in public works and facilities which is so widespread that it is a matter of State interest, necessary for the State-wide protection of the public health, safety and public welfare.

The prevention of unemployment and the relief of hardship and destitution due to and caused by postwar unemployment is a joint obligation and duty of the Nation and the State within the limits of their resources. Postwar unemployment and its attendant misfortunes can partially be averted and alleviated by the construction of an extensive Program of Public Works to be constructed and engaged in during the period of postwar adjustment and until such time as private industry and commerce can provide employment for the men and women who will be discharged from the armed forces or who will be released from their present employment upon the termination of wartime activities. The experience of this State during the depression years of unemployment and its attendant hardships points to the necessity for a Public Works Employment Program. Failure to make provision for an adequate Public Works Program in time to meet the economic problems which will rise upon termination of the war will require the State to expend large sums to provide direct relief to persons who might otherwise be usefully employed in constructing necessary public works. Funds allocated under this act by the State together with funds provided by local agencies to assist the State in carrying out the purpose of this act will enable the local agencies to engage in a large construction program which will provide employment for those military personnel discharged from the armed forces and those whose present employment will be terminated by the cessation of war production.

A substantial Program of Postwar Public Works for the above purposes can be formulated only if such a program is carried out jointly by the State and by the counties and cities of the State, making provision in such a program for Federal participation at such time as the National Government may declare such a policy.

The Legislature hereby declares that the granting of financial assistance in the construction of public works and facilities by the counties, cities and counties and cities, as provided in this act, is for State purposes because of the State-wide need for increase in public works and facilities and also as a part of and incidental to the averting of a serious postwar economic crisis and in furtherance of its plans to provide employment for some part of its citizens during the period of economic readjustment that will result upon the termination of the war or the substantial diminishing of war production in this State.

SEC. 2. As used in this act, "local agency" means any county, city and county or city of the State. All acts required to be done herein by a local agency shall be performed by the governing body thereof by resolution or ordinance unless otherwise specified.

SEC. 3. As used in this act, "specific project" includes construction of public buildings, highways, streets, bridges and other street and highway structures, and publicly owned and operated facilities, including but not limited to sewage treatment and disposal plants and sanitary facilities, airports, hospitals, health clinics and educational facilities, recreational facilities, and existing water supply systems proposed to be undertaken by local agencies in accordance with the purposes of this act. Except as to public utilities specifically mentioned in this section, "specific project" does not include the construction, acquisition, extension of or additions to, public utilities as defined in the Public Utilities Act.

SEC. 4. As used in this act, "construction" means the supervision, inspection, actual building and all expenses incidental to the construction, reconstruction, modification and alteration of public works and facilities but does not include ordinary repair and maintenance thereof.

SEC. 5. The sum of one hundred million dollars ($100,000,000) is hereby set aside and transferred in the State Treasury to the credit of the Local Postwar Construction Fund, which fund is hereby created and established out of unappropriated moneys in the State Treasury. No moneys shall be expended from said fund until acts of appropriation therefrom shall have been adopted by the Legislature.

SEC. 6. The moneys in said fund shall be apportioned to the cities, counties, cities and counties of the State as follows: 55 per cent of said fund to cities and cities and counties, hereinafter called the "city allocation", and 45 per cent of said fund to the counties and cities and counties, hereinafter called the "county allocation".

The city allocation shall be apportioned to each city and county in the proportion that the total population of such city or city and county bears to the total population of all the cities and cities and counties of this State, as reported by the United States Census of 1940.

The county allocation shall be apportioned as follows: One-half of said county allocation shall be apportioned to the counties and cities and counties for the construction of roads and highways, as hereinafter in this act provided, and the balance of said county allocation shall be apportioned to each county and city and county in the proportion that the total population of such county or city and county bears to the total population of all the counties and cities and counties in this State, as reported by the United States Census of 1940.

The Director of Finance shall determine the maximum amounts to be allocated for the city allocation and the county allocation, except as to roads and highways, to each city, county and city and county under this section and shall notify the controller of such determination. The controller shall not draw his warrant in behalf of any city, county or city and county on said Local Postwar Construction Fund if the amount of such warrant together with any amount previously paid to such local agency from such fund exceeds the maximum amount allowable as provided in this section, except as in this act provided with respect to roads and highways.

SEC. 7. The one-half of the county allocation apportioned for roads and highway purposes shall be allocated to each county in its proportionate share based on (1) rural population in each county as against the total rural population in the State; and (2) mileage in county roads in unincorporated territory maintained in each county as against the total mileage of each road in this State. Each factor shall be given equal weight.

(a) Rural population shall be determined by the Decennial Census of 1940 as published by the United States Bureau of the Census. Mileage shall be determined from the latest available records of the Highway Planning Survey conducted by the Department of Public Works in cooperation with the United States Public Roads Administration.

(b) In the case of any county having no rural mileage or rural population it shall be assumed for the purposes of Section 2 that a portion of its population is rural and that a proportion of the mileage of public highways and streets maintained by it are rural, the proportion to be determined as provided in this section. The ratio of rural population to total population in the three counties of the State having the largest urban population, excluding any county actually having no rural mileage or population, shall be determined and averaged and the average ratio applied to the total population of such county. The ratio of such rural county highway mileage to total mileage of rural county highways and city streets (other than State highways) shall be ascertained for each of said three counties having the largest urban population and averaged. The ratio so determined shall be applied to the total mileage of public streets and highways other than State highways maintained by any said county having no rural county mileage.

The mileage determined on such assumption shall be added to the total county highway mileage of the State, and the rural population determined on such assumption shall be added to the total of rural population of the State before making the allocation provided in this section.

(c) The Director of Public Works shall certify the correct county mileage for each county as shown by such records, the correct mileage of city streets in each of said three counties, and in any county having no rural population or rural county highway mileage, such mileage of city streets to be taken from the records of the Department of Public Works, to the controller. The Controller shall thereupon apportion that part of the county allocation to be apportioned for roads and highways purposes among the counties, as provided in this section.

(d) All such moneys received by each county from said Local Postwar Construction Fund for roads and highways purposes shall be deposited in a Special Road Improvement Fund. Such moneys shall be expended exclusively for the acquisition of rights of way for and the construction and improvement of county highways in unincorporated territory, except in the case of any county having no highways, in which case it shall be expended for the acquisition of rights-of-way for and the construction and improvement of public streets and highways of such county of greater than rural interest. None of the moneys appropriated from said Local Postwar Construction Fund for roads and highways purposes shall be expended for maintenance or any other purpose.

(e) All construction and improvement work done hereunder shall be in accordance with standards to be specified by the Department of Public Works. The department shall specify standards equal to those required by the Public Roads Administration for secondary and feeder roads. Plans and specifications for each project shall be submitted to and approved by the department prior to awarding any contract for, or commencing construction by days' labor of, any such project. Final reports on all such projects shall be made by each county to the department in such form and at such times as the department may require.

At the beginning of each regular session of the Legislature the department shall report to each house of the Legislature as to the work done and expenditures made hereunder until all of the moneys appropriated have been expended.

(f) Each county and the department may enter into agreements for the performance of the work on any project by either party. Any county may use moneys allocated to it under this act to match Federal-aid moneys to be expended on any county highway or any other public highway under the provisions of the Federal Highway Act as amended and supplemented.

Any county may enter into an agreement with any other county or counties or joint highway district or other public agency for the expenditure of moneys allocated to such county hereunder on any public highway outside its corporate limits.

(g) In selecting projects in their respective counties, the boards of supervisors are directed to choose those which will be best suited to provide employment for returned servicemen and workers released from war industries.

(h) "County" as used in this act includes "city and county" and "county highway" includes any "city and county street or highway".

SEC. 8. The Legislature shall prescribe in each act making an appropriation from said fund the percentage of the total cost of projects, or classes of projects, which may be paid from moneys so appropriated, and the extent to which local agencies shall be required to match allotments from the Local Postwar Construction Fund.

SEC. 9. The Postwar Public Works Review Board, hereinafter called "the board", shall prescribe rules and regulations for the general administration of this act and acts of appropriations that may be made from said Local Postwar Construction Fund, requiring such procedures, forms and information it deems necessary to carry out the provisions of this act and those of any act of appropriation made from said fund.

The Director of Finance, hereinafter called "the director", shall administer this act and said fund and shall provide such assistance to the board as it may require.

In order to permit local agencies to plan for and complete local financing, the board shall approve applications for aid to local projects in the manner herein provided, conditioned upon the right of the board to set the date for the commencement of construction of public works projects to be paid for in part from said Local Postwar Construction Fund.

The board shall not approve any application for aid from the Local Postwar Construction Fund submitted by any local agency, pursuant to the provisions of this act or of any act of appropriation from said fund, for the construction of any specific project which is for purely local purposes and in which there is no State interest.

The board shall not authorize the construction of any specific project unless and until it finds and determines that the construction of such project will contribute to the prevention or alleviation of unemployment; provided, however, that the board shall authorize the immediate construction of any specific project otherwise eligible as to which the State Director of Public Health certifies that the construction of the specific project is necessary and desirable in the interests of public health and safety and of any county highway project otherwise eligible.

The construction of a specific project shall be deemed to contribute to the prevention or alleviation of unemployment either by reason of the employment directly provided thereby or because the construction of the specific project will contribute to the expansion or maintenance of a higher level of industrial, commercial, agricultural or other business activity and thereby maintain or expand private employment.

The Legislature finds and determines that the county highways of the State have reached such a state of deterioration that the construction or reconstruction of such county highways is necessary for, and will contribute to, the expansion and maintenance of a higher level of industrial, commercial, agricultural and other business activity and will thereby maintain and expand private employment.

It is hereby declared to be the policy of the Legislature that, except as to county highway projects or projects certified as necessary and desirable in the interest of public health and safety, said board shall determine the timing of the construction of specific projects in such manner that the construction of said projects shall be coordinated with employment conditions within the State.

SEC. 10. A local agency may, from time to time, apply to the director for an allotment of the State's share of any appropriation from said fund of the cost of constructing any specific project for which it desires aid from said fund. The application shall be accompanied by a certified copy of a resolution or ordinance showing that the local agency has made provision for paying its share of the cost of the construction of such project together with such other information as may be required by the board. After determining that all the proper information has been submitted, the director shall present such application to the board. The board may make such recommendations to the local agency for the local agency's consideration as the board thinks proper.

SEC. 11. When appropriations from the Local Postwar Construction Fund have been passed by the Legislature, the board shall by rule applicable to any case or class of cases prescribe for how much of the State's share of the cost of constructing a specific project for which a local agency has received an allotment under this act, the local agency shall, on its request, be paid. A local agency shall in any event, on its request, be entitled to be reimbursed up to 25 per cent of the State's share after each 25 per cent of the total estimated cost has been expended by the local agency.

SEC. 12. The local agency may from time to time as the work progresses or after its completion apply to the director for reimbursement, as allowed by this act and the board, from the State's share for expenditures made in constructing a specific project for which the local agency has received an allotment under this act. The Board of Control shall be rule prescribe the information to be shown on applications for reimbursement of the cost of constructing specific projects under this act and the nature of the evidence of payment to be required in support of such application. When the director approves such application and finds the reimbursement to be due, he shall transmit a claim for the amount due, together with all supporting information and evidence of payment, to the Controller. The Controller shall make such audit as he deems necessary and shall thereupon draw his warrant for the amount of reimbursement he finds to be due.

SEC. 13. A revised estimate of the cost of the construction of a specific project may be submitted from time to time.

SEC. 14. When the board finds that the application meets the requirements of this act it shall approve the application and shall, by resolution adopted by it, allot to the local agency the amount requested by the local agency to be paid by the State up to the maximum percentage of the cost of the construction fixed by the act of appropriation. A copy of the resolution shall be transmitted to the local agency and a copy shall be filed with the State Controller and the Director of Finance.

SEC. 15. Sections 664, 677.5 and 3714 of the Political Code do not apply to the expenditures made from said Local Postwar Construction Fund.

SEC. 16. The allocations to local agencies provided by this act shall be available in cases where one or more local agencies engage jointly in the undertaking of a postwar construction activity as now provided by law, and in cases where a local agency engages in such activity jointly with or through a district or other governmental unit.

SEC. 17. A local agency may by resolution or ordinance, certified copies of which it files with the controller, the director, the board and the assignee, assign the money allocated to it under this act, or any portion thereof, to any other local agency or to any governmental unit or district in this State either for the sole use of such assignee or for use by the assignee acting in behalf of any local agency, governmental unit or district or of any combination thereof, including or excluding the assigning local agency. Such assignment may not be revoked unless the board, upon request of the assigning local agency, certifies to the assigning local agency, the assignee, the director and the controller that there is good cause for such revocation and specifies what should be done with the work done and how to arrange for audit and settlement for the assignee's expenditures, unused money, and activities. Money unused by the assignee shall be credited to the allocation of the assigning agency.

SEC. 18. After an assignment under Section 17, the assignee has all the powers and duties given to the assigning local agency or local agencies under this act other than assignment of an allocation and shall generally be treated for the purpose of this act as a local agency, except for the allocation of money which is fully covered in this section. The director, the board, the Reconstruction and Reemployment Commission, and the controller shall thereafter deal with the assignee as if it were a local agency, and warrants shall be drawn payable directly to the assignee. All allocations or portions thereof assigned to the assignee shall be considered together as one allocation and the assignee need make only one request or application at a time covering all such assigned allocations and the controller need draw only one warrant in payment of any such application or request. In charging any such warrants against the amount allocated to each assigning local agency under Section , the controller shall charge against each such allocation an amount which bears the same proportion to the amount of the warrant as the amount assigned by the particular local agency to the assignee bears to all amounts assigned by local agencies (including the amount allocated to the assignee, if it is a local agency) to the assignee.

SEC. 19. Any money lawfully available for expenditure by or on behalf of a local agency for construction of public works or facilities under this act, other than money made available by the State from appropriations from said Local Postwar Construction Fund, shall be considered as a part of the money required to be provided by the local agency under this act.

SEC. 20. The Legislature hereby finds and determines that the public health and safety require prompt, proper and adequate treatment and disposal of sewage and that in the preparation and construction of the postwar public works program first consideration should be given to such sewage facilities, and the board and the governing bodies of the respective local agencies are directed to consider the public health and safety needs of the people in this State in formulating and carrying out the Public Works Program, consistent with the purpose of this act to provide employment in the postwar period. The board shall not authorize the construction of any specific project other than the construction of sewage facilities to be paid for in part from said Local Postwar Construction Fund from the city allocation thereof provided for in this act unless the board shall find and determine that:

(a) The Director of Public Works certifies that the sewage facilities of such city are adequate to the extent that they do not create a public health problem; or

(b) The city has taken reasonable and adequate steps to insure the construction of sewage facilities adequate to comply with the requirements of the Director of Public Health with respect thereto; or

(c) The city does not have the financial ability to meet the matching requirements of any act or acts of appropriation adopted by the Legislature from said fund.

Consideration of Committee Amendments

The following amendments were proposed by the Committee on Governmental Efficiency:

Amendment No. 1

In the title of the printed bill, as amended, strike out lines 1 to 5, inclusive, and insert

"An act authorizing municipalities to purchase Federal surplus property and providing for the suspension of certain laws in connection therewith, declaring the urgency thereof and providing this act shall take effect immediately."

Amendment No. 2

On page 1 of said bill, strike out line 1, and insert

"SECTION 1. As used in this act, the term "municipality" shall mean any county, city and county, city, municipal corporation or public district.

SEC. 2. Any municipality may acquire in any manner whatsoever from the United States of America or any department, board or agency thereof, or from the State or any department or agency thereof any Federal surplus property, real or personal, without regard to provisions of law which require posting of notices or advertising for bids, inviting or receiving of bids, delivery of purchases before payment, or provisions of law which prevent such municipality from entering a bid or bids in its behalf at any sale of Federal surplus property, real or personal, by the United States of America or any department, board or agency thereof, or by the State or any department or agency thereof. The legislative body of any such municipality may authorize any municipal officer to make a down payment or payment in full required in connection with such bidding or sale.

SEC. 3. Any provisions of any statute, charter, ordinance, or resolution which are inconsistent with the provisions of this act are suspended to the extent that such provisions are inconsistent herewith.

SEC. 4. The provisions of this act shall not be construed to require posting of notices or advertising for bids, the inviting or receiving of bids, the delivery of purchases before payment, or other similar acts not now required by law. Nor shall the provisions of this act be construed to prevent any municipality from entering bids on its behalf at any sale or from making any down payment in connection therewith where such authority now exists by provision of any law.

SEC. 5. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of Section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California and as such shall take effect immediately. The following is a statement of the facts constituting such necessity:

The Congress of the United States enacted and the President of the United States approved, October 3, 1944, the "Surplus Property Act of 1944." The Federal act provides for the distribution of Government surplus property and makes special provision for disposal of such property to local governments. The Surplus Property Board, created by the Federal act, must provide priority to States and their political subdivisions in the disposal of such property.

The Surplus Property Board has been appointed and Federal surplus property is being disposed of at the rate of several million dollars per month. Some municipalities can not take advantage of the Federal law in the acquisition of such property because they must either advertise for or invite bids, or such municipalities are unable to pay cash without first auditing claims, approving warrants, etc. Other municipalities are in doubt as to their power. In order to enable all municipalities to take advantage of the provisions of the Surplus Property Act of 1944, or regulations adopted by the Surplus Property Board pursuant to such law, it is necessary that this act go into immediate effect."

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered:

By Senator Slater:

Senate Resolution No. 77

Relative to the extending of felicitations to Richard E. Collins on the anniversary of his birth

Seventy-two years ago today, Wednesday, March 28, 1945, Richard E. "Dick" Collins, was born in Trinity County, California.

Always a loyal champion of his home State, unceasing in his enthusiasm as one development has followed another indication of the growing importance of the Golden State and its natural resources, its demonstration of productiveness and its continuing appreciation of the undaunted spirit of the West, Mr. Collins is still "72 years young." One of his proudest tokens is the 50-year membership pin in the Native Sons of the Golden West.

Since January, 1907, Dick Collins has been a member of the State Board of Equalization and most of the time the chairman of that organization. Prior to being elected to the State Board of Equalization, he filled the office of County Assessor of Shasta County for four years, this being his first introduction into public office. As a tribute from the Senate of the State of California, be it

Resolved, That the Senate very pleasurably takes the opportunity of his birthday to felicitate Richard E. "Dick" Collins on his loyalty to public service, his constant effort to promote interest in the history, romance and chivalry of his native State and to wish him "Many Happy Returns of the Day."

Resolution read, and on motion of Senator Slater adopted.

"CHAPTER 6. REVENUE BONDS.

10300. The Authority is empowered to borrow money and for that purpose to issue revenue bonds as provided in this chapter for the acquisition, construction or completion of any project which shall have been authorized by the Legislature.

10301. (a) The term "revenue bond" means any bond, note or other written evidence of the obligation of the Authority the principal of and interest on which is payable solely from and secured by the project revenues. Revenue bonds constitute obligations only of the Authority and shall contain a recital on their face that neither the payment of the principal or any part thereof or any interest thereon constitutes a debt, liability or obligation of the State of California. All revenue bonds issued by the Authority are negotiable instruments.

(b) The term "project" means the improvements, structures, works, or properties, real or personal, corporeal or incorporeal, more particularly described in the resolution of the Authority pursuant to which revenue bonds are issued.

(c) The term "project revenues" means all income derived by or for the account of the Authority from the operation of the project, including, without limiting the generality of the foregoing, all tolls, rates, rents, fees and other charges so derived from the project, together with interest and other profits accrued on such revenues and any property derived from the sale, conversion, insurance of, or in any other manner by way of substitution for, such revenues; together with the income and profits derived from any investments held in any sinking fund, reserve fund or any other special fund created or maintained as further security for the revenue bonds.

10302. Whenever any project is authorized by the Legislature pursuant to a report of the Authority wherein all or a portion of the estimated cost of the project is proposed to be financed by the issuance of revenue bonds, the Authority may thereafter by resolution declare its intention to issue revenue bonds for such project in an amount not exceeding the amount so stated in the report. The costs which may be so financed by the issuance of revenue bonds may include (i) the estimated cost of the acquisition, construction and completion of the project; (ii) interest on the revenue bonds during the estimated period of such acquisition, construction and completion and for one year thereafter; (iii) any amount required initially to create any reserve or other special fund as further security for the revenue bonds; (iv) administrative, maintenance and operation costs during the estimated period of such acquisition, construction and completion and for one year thereafter; and (v) all costs and expenses of the issuance and sale of revenue bonds.

The term "costs and expenses of the issuance and sale of Revenue bonds" means and includes the cost of printing, lithographing or engraving the revenue bonds, the fees and expenses of any trustee, fiscal, paying or collection agents, the fees and expenses of any independent audits, engineers' reports, municipal bond attorneys' opinion and the cost of any prospectus or official statement with respect to the revenue bonds deemed necessary or advisable by the Authority to effect or assist in effecting the sale of the revenue bonds, the fees and charges of the Superintendent of Banks of the State of California, the California Districts Securities Commission and of any other public official, bureau or department thereof of the State of California required to enable the revenue bonds to be certified as legal investments or to be declared eligible security for the deposit of public funds and also the fees and charges of any public official, commission or agency of any other state in the United States or of the Government of the United States necessary or advisable in the opinion of the Authority to enable the revenue bonds to be qualified as legal investments for any purpose under the laws of any such state or of the United States or to enable the same to be sold in interstate commerce under any present or future law of the United States.

(b) At any subsequent meeting of the Authority held not less than thirty (30) days after the adoption of the resolution determining the amount of revenue bonds to be issued, the Authority may, by resolution, provide for the issuance and sale of the revenue bonds in an amount not exceeding the amount so estimated. The Authority shall determine the time, form and manner of the issuance of said revenue bonds and may authorize the execution of an indenture providing the terms and conditions under which the revenue bonds shall be executed, issued and secured. The term "resolution" includes any indenture authorized thereby. Reference on the face of the revenue bonds to such resolution or indenture by its date of adoption or the apparent date on the face thereof is sufficient to incorporate all of the provisions thereof and of this act into the body of the revenue bonds and the coupons appertaining thereto. Each taker and subsequent holder of the revenue bonds and coupons, whether the coupons are then attached to or detached from the bonds, has recourse to all of the provisions of the resolution and of this act and is bound thereby.

10303. The resolution of the Authority creating and authorizing any issue of revenue bonds may provide for

(a) Limitations or restrictions on the amount of revenue bonds to be issued for any project;

(b) The date of issue of revenue bonds;

(c) The maturity or maturities of the revenue bonds. Revenue bonds may mature serially at such times and in such amounts as may be prescribed by the Authority, or may be issued as sinking fund term bonds. No bond by its terms shall mature in more than fifty (50) years from its date. In the event any authorized issue is divided into one or more series or divisions, the maximum maturity date shall be calculated from the date of each bond separately, irrespective of the fact that different dates may be prescribed for the bonds of each separate series or division of any authorized issue;

(d) The terms and conditions, and notice on which, and the premium upon the payment of which, revenue bonds may be redeemed prior to the date of maturity stated therein; provided, however, that said terms and conditions must be stated on the face of the revenue bonds. No revenue bond is subject to call or redemption prior to its fixed maturity date unless the right to exercise such call for redemption is expressly stated on the face of the bond;

(e) The place or places of payment of the principal of and interest on such revenue bonds which may be at any place within or without the State of California. The principal of and interest on revenue bonds shall be payable in lawful money of the United States;

(f) The rate or rates of interest on said revenue bonds; provided, however, that the rate of interest shall not exceed 6 per cent per annum, payable annually or semi-annually;

(g) The form of the revenue bonds. Revenue bonds may be issued as coupon bonds or registered bonds and the resolution may provide that revenue bonds may be registered as to principal only or as to both principal and interest as fully registered bonds, and the terms and conditions upon which the same shall be registered and discharged from registration;

(h) The terms and conditions upon which said revenue bonds are to be executed and designating the officers to execute the bonds and coupons. Lithographed or other facsimile signatures may be authorized and the seal of the Authority may be affixed by facsimile reproduction thereof. The Authority may provide for additional authentication of the bonds by a trustee or fiscal agent appointed by the Authority. If any of the officers whose signatures or countersignatures appear on the bonds or coupons cease to be such officers before delivery of the bonds or coupons, their signatures or countersignatures are nevertheless valid and of the same force and effect as if the officers had remained in office until the delivery of the bonds and coupons;

(i) Such covenants and agreements on the part of the Authority as the Authority may deem necessary, convenient or desirable to make the revenue bonds more marketable.

10304. The resolution providing for the issuance of revenue bonds may also, in addition to all other appropriate agreements deemed necessary or advisable by the Authority contain such covenants and agreements on the part of the Authority as it deems necessary or advisable for the better security of the revenue bonds and the Authority is authorized by the terms of the resolution to covenant and agree with the holders of the revenue bonds so long as the same shall be outstanding as follows:

(a) That the revenue bonds, and any sinking fund, reserve fund or other special fund established for the bonds shall constitute a lien upon the revenues of the project in the manner, to the extent and as set forth in the resolution;

(b) That the Authority will preserve and protect the security of the revenue bonds and the rights of the holders thereof and warrant and defend such rights and execute further instruments of assurance to carry out and make effective the resolution of issuance;

(c) That the Authority will pay or cause to be paid the principal of the revenue bonds and the interest thereon punctually on the date or dates, at the place or places, and in the manner provided in such revenue bonds and the coupons attached thereto;

(d) That the Authority will continuously operate the project or any part thereof in an efficient and economical manner;

(e) That the Authority will make all necessary repairs, renewals and replacements of the project, and to keep the same at all times in good condition, working order and repair;

(f) That the Authority will pay and discharge or cause to be paid and discharged all lawful claims for labor, materials, or supplies, or other charges which if unpaid would become a lien or charge upon the revenues of the project, or any part thereof, or otherwise impair the security of the revenue bonds;

(g) That the Authority will not mortgage or otherwise encumber, or sell, lease, or dispose of, the project, or any part thereof, or any of the revenues thereof, or enter into any contract which will impair the operation of the project or the revenues thereof, except to the extent that provision may be made in the resolution for the release of properties constituting any part of the project, or project revenues and the application of the proceeds of sale or other disposition of the project, or project revenues, or any part thereof upon such terms and conditions as may be specifically defined in the resolution, and except that the resolution may provide for the issuance of additional bonds to be secured by the project revenues upon such terms as may be specified therein;

(h) That the Authority will fix, prescribe and collect tolls, rates, rents, fees, or other charges, in connection with the services and facilities furnished by the project, or any part thereof, at all times adequate and sufficient to yield annual revenues equal to the annual principal and interest payments on the bonds as the same become due and payable, and such additional sums as may be required for any sinking fund, reserve fund, or any other special fund provided for the further security of the bonds, and for maintenance and operation depreciation charges renewals, replacements, extensions and betterments of the project or any other charges in connection with the project, and, in addition, an amount sufficient to pay a fair share, proportionately with other projects of the Authority, of the general administration expenses of the Authority; and that such rates shall not be reduced, changed or modified otherwise than is permitted by the resolution. Provision may be made for advance payment or deposit of rates, standby charges and the manner and method of payment and collection of rates. All rates, tolls and charges for use of any facilities of the project must be payable in lawful money of the United States;

(i) That the Authority hold in trust the project revenues pledged for the payment of the revenue bonds and the interest thereon, or any sinking fund, reserve fund, or other special fund which may be provided for, and that such project revenues will be paid out only as provided in the resolution. Whenever provision is made in the resolution for the deposit of the project revenues or any part thereof in any fund the same shall not be transferred to any other fund except as in the resolution provided. The Authority may not borrow moneys in any fund except as otherwise permitted by the resolution;

(j) That the Authority shall not apply the proceeds of the sale of any issue of revenue bonds to any purpose other than the specific project designated in the resolution;

(k) That the Authority will not issue additional bonds except as may be permitted by the resolution and then only upon the terms, including provision as to security and payment, therein provided;

(l) That the Authority will keep and maintain insurance of the kind, amount, and character specified in the resolution upon the project, or any part thereof, and that the proceeds of such insurance, when collected, will be used and applied as specified in the resolution;

(m) That the holders of the revenue bonds, or any percentage thereof, prescribed in the resolution shall have the rights and powers in the resolution specified upon breach by the Authority of any of the covenants, conditions, or obligations contained in said resolution or in this Act;

(n) That the terms and conditions of the resolution and of the revenue bonds issued thereunder may be amended subsequent to the issuance of the revenue bonds, with the consent of the Authority and the vote or written consent of the holders of a specified amount of the principal of the revenue bonds then issued and outstanding. The resolution may provide for meetings of bondholders upon such notice as may be provided for in the resolution, and the manner in which the consent of the bondholders may be given, and the effect of such consent upon the rights of the holders of the revenue bonds and interest coupons attached thereto or detached therefrom whether expressly assenting thereto or not. The resolution may provide that revenue bonds held by the Authority or by any department, political subdivision, or agency of the State, or by any municipality or public corporation, district, or subdivision, shall not be counted as outstanding revenue bonds or be entitled to vote or assent, but shall nevertheless be subject to the amendment if the same shall otherwise be affected in accordance with the resolution;

(o) That the Authority will do and perform such other acts, conditions and things required by it under the resolution to be done and performed for the benefit of the holders of the revenue bonds except that none of such covenants, agreements, conditions or terms or anything contained in the resolution shall obligate the Authority to do or perform any of such terms, conditions or covenants by the expenditure of any funds other than the project revenues and under no circumstances shall the Authority be obligated to levy or collect taxes to provide moneys or shall the State of California be obligated in anywise to advance any moneys to the Authority and all obligations assumed by the Authority pursuant to the resolution which shall require the expenditure of any moneys shall be limited solely and exclusively to the project revenues. The State of California, in its discretion, may make contributions or appropriations to the Authority but none of such contributions or appropriations irrespective of their regularity shall be considered project revenues so long as such revenue bonds remain outstanding and unpaid.

10305. The Authority may determine the terms and conditions for the sale or other disposition of any issue of revenue bonds or any part of such issue. It may sell such revenue bonds at less than their par or face value, but no revenue bonds may be sold at a discount below the par or face value which would result in a yield to the purchaser of more than 6 per cent per annum payable semiannually, according to standard tables of bond values.

10306. Pending the actual issuance or delivery of revenue bonds, the Authority may issue temporary or interim bonds or certificates or receipts of any denomination whatsoever, with or without coupons, to be exchanged for definitive revenue bonds when ready for delivery.

10307. All revenue bonds, and the principal and interest payable thereon, are exempt from all taxation in this State other than gift, inheritance and estate taxes.

10308. The Authority may provide for the issuance, sale or exchange of refunding bonds for the purpose of redeeming or retiring any revenue bonds issued by the Authority pursuant to this act. All provisions of this act applicable to revenue bonds are applicable to such refunding bonds.

Such refunding bonds may be issued in an amount sufficient for the payment of all revenue bonds to be refunded, and in addition of all expenses incident to such refunding, including the calling, retiring and paying of the revenue bonds to be refunded and the issuance of such refunding bonds. These expenses include the difference between the par value of the refunding bonds and the amount less than par for which said refunding bonds are sold, and also the amounts necessary to pay the interest upon such refunding bonds from the date of the sale thereof to the date of payment of the revenue bonds being refunded, and the premium, if any, payable to holders of the revenue bonds being refunded, and the interest accruing upon the revenue bonds being refunded until the date of such refunding.

10309. The Authority may designate a bank or trust company, qualified to do business in this State, as a trustee for the Authority and the holders of revenue bonds issued hereunder, and may authorize such trustee to act on behalf of the holders of the revenue bonds, or any stated percentage thereof, and to exercise and prosecute on behalf of such holders such rights and remedies as may be available to them.

The Authority shall fix and determine the conditions upon which such trustee shall receive, hold, or disburse any or all revenues collected for or on account of the Authority. The Authority shall prescribe the duties and powers of such trustee with respect to the issuance, authentication, sale and delivery of revenue bonds, and the payment of principal and interest thereof, the redemption of revenue bonds, the registration and discharge from registration of revenue bonds, and the management of any sinking fund, reserve fund, or other special fund provided as security for revenue bonds.

10310. Revenue bonds issued pursuant to this act are subject to investigation and certification by the California Districts Securities Commission under the California Districts Securities Commission Act as now or hereafter in effect.

10311. If the California Districts Securities Commission determines that the revenue bonds are adequately secured and the revenues of the Authority applicable to the payment thereof are or will be sufficient to pay the principal and interest of said revenue bonds, and if the commission certifies to that effect, the revenue bonds shall be eligible as legal investments for both public and private funds and as security for the deposit of public funds in banks in the State in the same manner as is provided in the California Districts Securities Commission Act.

10312. Prior to the issuance of revenue bonds, the Authority may commence a special proceeding in the Superior Court of Sacramento County to determine its right to issue said revenue bonds and their validity. Such proceeding shall be instituted and prosecuted in the same manner as provided by Sections 22670 to 22684, inclusive, of the Water Code of the State of California, as these sections now read or may hereafter be amended to read, and these sections apply to and govern all such proceedings instituted under this act. Such proceeding is a proceeding in rem and the judgment rendered therein is conclusive against all persons whomsoever and against the State of California.

10313. The validity of any revenue bonds issued by the Authority shall not depend on or be affected by the validity or invalidity of the proceedings taken by the Authority for the acquisition, construction, or completion of the project, or by the validity or invalidity of any contracts entered into by the Authority in connection with the project or by the failure of the Authority to complete the project.

10314. The Authority is authorized to contract loans with the State of California, the United States of America or any agency or department thereof and to issue revenue bonds on such terms and conditions as may be prescribed in any contract evidencing such loans and upon such terms and conditions as the Authority in its discretion shall deem proper."

6891. The commission shall issue a prospecting permit, under such rules and regulations as it may prescribe, for lands which are not known mineral lands to any qualified applicant, upon the payment to the commission of one dollar ($1) per acre for each acre in area embraced within the boundaries of the lands described in the permit. No permit shall be issued for any lands which have been classified by the commission prior to such application as containing commercially valuable mineral deposits. Upon receipt of an application for a permit, the commission shall determine whether the lands described therein are known mineral lands. If it determines that the lands are known mineral lands, it shall thereupon so classify them and shall reject the application for a prospecting permit.

[A prospecting permit shall give to the permittee the exclusive right for a period not exceeding two years to prospect for minerals other than oil and gas upon not to exceed 160 acres of land wherein such mineral deposits belong to the State.]

Subject to such terms and conditions as the commission may determine to be in the best interest of the State, a prospecting permit shall give to the permittee the exclusive right for a period not exceeding two years to prospect for minerals other than oil and gas upon lands wherein such mineral deposits belong to the State.

The commission may, in its discretion, extend the term of any permit for a period not exceeding one year, but the term of any such permit, including extensions, shall be limited to a total three years.

6894. The applicant shall, within 90 days after receiving a permit, mark each of the corners of the tract described in the permit upon the ground with substantial monuments, so that the boundaries can be readily traced upon the ground, and shall post in a conspicuous place upon the lands a notice that such permit has been granted and a description of the land covered thereby ; provided, however, that if the tract described in any such permit consists of tide or submerged lands, it shall be deemed a compliance with the provisions of this section to record such notice with the county recorder of the county in which the lands or the greater portion thereof are located.

SEC. 4. Section 6895 of said code is amended to read:

6895. Upon establishing to the satisfaction of the commission that commercially valuable deposits of minerals have been discovered within the limits of any permit, the permittee shall be entitled to a lease for not more than [40] 160 acres of the land embraced in the prospecting permit, if there be that number of acres within the permit. The area selected by the permittee shall be in compact form, and if surveyed shall be described by the legal subdivisions of the public land surveys; if unsurveyed, the area shall be surveyed by the commission at the expense of the applicant for the lease, in accordance with rules and regulations to be prescribed by the commission, and the lands leased shall be conformed to and taken in accordance with the legal subdivisions of such surveys. The lease shall be upon a royalty, as specified by the commission in the permit, and the annual payment in advance of a rental of one dollar ($1) per acre, the rental paid for any one year to be credited against the royalties as they accrue for that year. Notwithstanding the 160 acreage limitation provision of this section, whenever the lands for which a lease is sought are tide and submerged lands, the commission shall be, and is, authorized to divide such lands into such size and number of parcels as the commission shall determine will not substantially impair the public rights to navigation and fishing or interfere with the trust upon which such lands are held."

Sec. 38f. It is hereby determined that the public welfare and morals require that there be a limitation on the number of premises licensed for the sale of distilled spirits at both retail and wholesale.

The number of premises for which an on-sale general license is issued shall be limited to one of such premises for each 1,000, or fraction thereof, inhabitants of the county in which the premises are situated. The number of premises for which an off-sale general license is issued shall be limited to one of such premises for each 1,000, or fraction thereof, inhabitants of the county in which the premises are situated.

Population, for the purpose of this section, shall be determined by the most recent United States decennial or special census.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to require the cancellation of any license issued and outstanding in any county because the number of such licenses now exceeds the ratio of such licenses to population as established in this section.

The board shall have power to make all rules and regulations consistent with the provisions of Section 22 of Article XX of the Constitution of this State, or this act, necessary to carry into effect the provisions of this section, and to restrict the issuance of other licenses, including seasonal licenses, to such number in any county as the board shall determine shall be in the interest of public welfare and morals, convenience or necessity.

To foster the orderly wholesale marketing and distribution of distilled spirits, the board may make rules and regulations limiting the number of distilled spirits wholesalers' or rectifiers' licenses to be issued in the State, giving consideration to the number of such licenses needed for the adequate supplying of distilled spirits to retail licensees in this State, and giving consideration to the available supplies of distilled spirits and to the public welfare, convenience and necessity. In no case shall the board restrict the number of distilled spirits wholesalers' and rectifiers' licenses to a total of less than the number issued and outstanding on June 30, 1945, nor issue more of such licenses than necessary to adequately supply the retail trade.

Whenever it shall be made to appear to the board by satisfactory evidence that the population in any county shall have increased by more than 1,000 inhabitants since the most recent United States decennial or special census, and it shall appear to the board that by reason thereof, the inhabitants of such county are unjustly and unfairly discriminated against, the board shall have power to issue, not to exceed, one on-sale general license and one off sale general license for each such increase of 1,000 inhabitants in such county. In all other respects the limitation hereinbefore provided for shall continue in effect.

Any person applying for an off sale general license or on-sale general license on the ground of increased population as hereinbefore provided, shall set forth in his application for such license and shall affirmatively show (1) that he is a qualified applicant and that his premises qualify under the law and rules and regulations of the board, (2) that the issuance of the license applied for would serve the public convenience or necessity, (3) that the issuance of the license applied for would not be contrary to public welfare and morals, (4) that inequality in the ratio of licenses exists between the community in which the applicant's premises are located and other communities in the State, (5) that the population in the county for which such license is applied has increased by more than 1,000 inhabitants since the most recent United States decennial or special census.

When any such application is filed with the board, it shall be referred to the State Liquor Administrator who shall cause a full investigation to be made of all matters stated in and relating to such application and report his findings to the board with his recommendations."

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communication was received and read, and on motion of Senator Cunningham, ordered printed in the Journal:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE
SACRAMENTO 14, March 28, 1945

Hon. R. R. Cunningham, Chairman, Committee on Local Government
Senate Chambers, Sacramento, California

MY DEAR SENATOR CUNNINGHAM: I have been asked by several Members of the Legislature to advise them as to my policy with regard to the county government bills changing salaries of county officers or changing the number or salaries of judges and attaches of the superior and municipal courts.

Section 928 of the Penal Code requires the Grand Jury to investigate and report to the Legislature on the necessity for increasing or decreasing the salaries of county officers, and I shall expect to have such a report as a prerequisite to my approval of all such legislation, including that affecting the salaries of judges. I shall also request the recommendation of the board of supervisors in such matters. It is my opinion that in order to have as much autonomy in local government as possible the opinion of these two bodies should be given serious consideration, and I shall follow that procedure.

Trusting that this will be helpful to you and the members of the Legislature who have county government bills pending, I am

Sincerely,

EARL WARREN, Governor

Summary of Estimated Revenues

The Constitution requires the Governor to set forth in his proposed Budget an estimate of the yield of State revenues for the ensuing biennium. While existing law provides that the rates of the sales tax, use tax, franchise tax, corporation income tax and personal income tax shall be automatically restored to the levels existing prior to 1943, the Governor recommends that the rate reduction be retained for an additional two years. The following tabulation summarizes revenue estimates for the next biennium on the basis of existing tax rates:

	General Fund	Special Funds	Total Revenues

General Fund Surplus

Wartime conditions have caused state revenues to soar to unprecedented levels and to cause the accumulation of a large Treasury surplus. As of June 30, 1945, the General Fund surplus is estimated at $288,419,088, and on the basis of the Governor's recommended budget and estimated revenues, under existing tax rates, this figure is expected to rise to $306,588,146 by June 30, 1947. While $161,802,001 of this ending surplus has already been impounded by the Legislature for war and postwar purposes, the Governor recommends that an additional $119,651,490 of the excess cash in the Treasury be earmarked. Should this be done, the unrestricted balance at the end of the biennium would be $25,134,655. The beginning and ending surplus computations are shown in the following tabulations:

General Fund Surplus June 30, 1945—
Postwar Building Reserve	$139,882,676 00

The Railroad Commission, in the exercise of the jurisdiction conferred upon it by the Constitution of this State and by this act, shall have power and authority to make orders and to prescribe rules and regulations affecting highway common carriers, notwithstanding the provisions of any ordinance or permit of any incorporated city or town, city and county, or county, and in case of conflict between any such order, rule or regulations and any such ordinance or permit, the order, rule or regulation of the Railroad Commission shall in each instance prevail.

(c) No highway common carrier shall hereafter begin to operate any auto truck, or other self-propelled vehicle, for the transportation of property for compensation on any public highway in this State without first having obtained from the Railroad Commission a certificate declaring that public convenience and necessity require such operation, but no such certificate shall be required of any highway common carrier as to the fixed termini between which or the route over which it was actually operating as a highway common carrier on July 26, 1917, and in good faith continuously thereafter, or for operations exclusively within the limits of an incorporated city, town or city and county, or for the performance of pickup, delivery, or transfer services by such carrier within such carrier's lawfully published pickup and delivery zones. Any right, privilege, franchise, or permit held, owned or obtained by any highway common carrier may be sold, assigned, leased, transferred or inherited as other property, only upon authorization of the Railroad Commission. The Railroad Commission shall have power, with or without hearing, to issue said certificate as prayed for, or to refuse to issue the same, or to issue it for the partial exercise only of said privilege sought, and may attach to the exercise of the rights granted by said certificate such terms and conditions as, in its judgment, the public convenience and necessity require. Without the express approval of the commission, no certificate of public convenience and necessity issued to one highway common carrier under the provisions of this section, or heretofore issued by the commission to one highway common carrier for the transportation of property by auto truck or self-propelled vehicle, nor any operative right of one highway common carrier founded upon operations actually conducted in good faith on July 26, 1917, shall be combined, united or consolidated with another such certificate or operative right issued to or possessed by another highway common carrier so as to permit through service between any point or points served, by one highway common carrier, on the one hand, and any point or points served, by another highway common carrier, on the other hand; nor, without the express approval of the commission, shall any through route or joint, through, combination, or proportional rate be established by one highway common carrier between any point or points which it serves, on the one hand, and any point or points served by another highway common carrier, on the other hand. Any one highway common carrier may establish through routes and joint rates, charges, and classifications between any and all points served by such highway common carrier under any and all certificates or operative rights issued to or possessed by such highway common carrier.

The Railroad Commission may at any time for a good cause suspend, and upon notice to the holder of an operating right acquired by virtue of operations conducted on July 26, 1917, as aforesaid, or to the grantee of any certificate, and opportunity to be heard, revoke, alter or amend any such operative right or certificate.

(d) When a complaint has been filed with the commission alleging that any vehicle is being operated without a certificate of public convenience and necessity as required by this act, or when the commission has reason to believe that this act is being violated, it shall be the duty of the commission to investigate such operations and the commission shall have power after a hearing to make its order requiring the owner or operator of such vehicle to cease and desist from any operation in violation of this act; and it shall be the duty of the commission to enforce compliance with such order under the powers vested in the commission by this act or by law."

MOTION TO PRINT

Senator Crittenden moved that the following house resolution of the House of Representatives of the United States, be printed in the Journal:

Motion carried.

79TH CONGRESS, 1ST SESSION

H. J. RES. 139

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
MARCH 23, 1945

MR. JOHNSON of California introduced the following joint resolution; which was referred to the Committee on Irrigation and Reclamation

Joint Resolution

Providing a means whereby the State of California may undertake the operation and maintenance of the irrigation and hydroelectric-power features of the Central Valley project, upon agreeing to recompense the Federal Government therefor in the manner provided in the reclamation laws of the United States.

Whereas the construction, operation, and maintenance of the Central Valley project of California was authorized by statutes of the State of California, to be effected by the State and its agencies; and

Whereas the construction of said project has likewise been authorized by Congress, and the project is now under construction by the Federal Government, pursuant to such authorization and appropriations made pursuant thereto; and

Whereas the project is wholly instrastate, being in that part of California which is drained by the Sacramento and San Joaquin Rivers and their tributaries; and

Whereas the project includes various dams, canals, and other features, extending over a distance of several hundred miles; and

Whereas, under both the State and Federal statutes, the project is a multiple-purpose project, and is actually being constructed for the improvement of navigation, flood control, salinity control, irrigation and reclamation, hydroelectric power development, recreation, and the preservation and propagation of wildlife; and

Whereas the recovery of the reimbursable portions of the Federal investments in the project will be facilitated by utilization of the powers and authority conferred upon the State government by its laws, in the operation and maintenance of said portions of the project; and

Whereas, under the Federal statutes applicable to this project, the reimbursable investments are those relating to irrigation and power development: Therefore be it

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That (a) there is hereby created a commission to be known as the "Central Valley Commission," which shall consist of five members appointed by the President, one of whom shall be an officer of the Corps of Engineers of the Army, on the active or retired list; one of whom shall be the Commissioner of the Bureau of Reclamation, and three of whom (including the Chairman) shall not be otherwise employed by the United States. The three members, not employees of the United States, shall be appointed by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. The President shall designate as chairman one of the members who is not otherwise employed by the United States. Each member of the Commission who is not an officer or employee of another agency of the Government shall receive as compensation for services on the Commission a per diem of $50 for each day on which he performs such services.

(b) The Commission shall have power to employ and fix the compensation of such officers and employees as it deems necessary to enable it to perform its duties under this joint resolution.

SEC. 2. (a) It shall be the duty of the Commission—

(1) as soon as practicable after the enactment of this joint resolution, to determine what portion of the cost of the Central Valley project borne by the United States up to and including June 30, 1945, is reasonably allocable to irrigation and to the development of hydroelectric power, and what portion of such cost is reasonably allocable to each of the other purposes of such project; and

(2) thereafter, with respect to each fiscal year, to make a similar determination with respect to the amounts expended by the United States for such project during such fiscal year.

In any case in which it is impracticable to make an allocation by reason of the fact that works having multiple purposes have not been sufficiently completed to enable a proper allocation to be made, the determination of the Commission with respect to such works shall be postponed until such works are sufficiently completed to enable a proper allocation to be made. The Commission shall from time to time certify its determinations to the Secretary of the Interior and to the Governor of the State of California.

The Commission may make allowance for increased costs due to wartime construction. In the allocation of costs as to either the irrigation or hydroelectric features, the Commission may deduct from such allocation such amount as it deems due to increased wartime construction costs, if any.

(b) At any time within three years after the date when this joint resolution becomes effective, the State of California may elect to reimburse the United States for the amounts expended (including amounts hereafter expended) by the United States on the Central Valley project (which, for the purposes of this joint resolution, shall be limited to works in the area drained by the Sacramento and San Joaquin Rivers and their tributaries) and which are determined by the Commission to be reasonably allocable to irrigation and the development of hydroelectric power, and to operate and maintain, under its own laws, those features of such project for which the State elects to make reimbursement.

SEC. 3. When the State elects to make such reimbursement, the Secretary of the Interior shall enter into a contract with the State providing—

(a) that the State obligates itself to reimburse the United States for the amount expended (including amounts hereafter expended) by the United States on the Central Valley project which are determined by the Commission to be reasonably allocable to irrigation and the development of hydroelectric power, such reimbursement to be made in the manner provided in the reclamation laws for the repayment of construction costs, allocable respectively to irrigation and power;

(b) for the transfer by the United States to the State of the care, maintenance, and operation, under the State laws of those features of the project with respect to which reimbursement is to be made;

(c) that the title to works constructed by the United States shall remain in the United States, but the State will be obligated, at its own expense, to operate the features of the project with respect to which reimbursement is to be made and to maintain them in good condition;

(d) that the United States will be obligated, at its own expense, to operate and maintain the other features of the project; and

(e) that the State will comply with such regulations as may be prescribed, by the appropriate agency or department of the United States as may be responsible for the Federal features of the project, for the safety and protection of the project.

SEC. 4. Nothing in this joint resolution shall affect or interfere with the laws of the State of California relating to the control, appropriation, use, or distribution of water used in irrigation, or any vested right acquired thereunder, and the Secretary of the Interior, in carrying out the provisions of this joint resolution shall proceed in conformity with such laws.

Honorable Earl Warren, Governor of the State of California
State Capitol, Sacramento, California

DEAR GOVERNOR WARREN: We in the rural counties of California are sorely grieved with the editorial policy of certain metropolitan newspapers of this State and with the public comments of many California leaders when they attribute to all of the California counties a desire to "dip into the pork barrel of public funds" as the sole motif for the seeking of funds for construction of county roads. The conditions obtaining in the rural counties of California are such that their plight should be more generally known and from this knowing, perhaps, remedial legislation or some fair plan may evolve to the end that rural California may find an equal place with metropolitan California in postwar development. The underlying principle present, now perhaps barely discernible, but yet firmly planted and ever growing evolves about the integrity of local government and its continued existence in the days to come. If it is agreed that the county form of government is obsolete and should be replaced by centralized direction and that the continued concentration of tax benefits in populous areas is right and proper, then the conclusions reached in this letter are wrong. Should, however, thinking people agree that personal liberty and political integrity is dependent to a great degree upon economic security then some intelligent attention by the leaders in our State must be given to the problem herein presented.

I believe the rural areas of California within the boundaries of which are stored the natural resources which will tend to make California great in the years to come, should be given a greater consideration that the present opinion which appear to regard such rural areas as storehouses for the future and not as present, alive and striving communities. The Federal Government has recognized the potential value of the rural areas and has effectively acquired ownership of the natural resources to such a degree that at this date 44 per cent of the entire State of California is federally owned. The Sovereign State of California, acquiescing in this Federal ownership and control, by its failure to act to change the condition, thus tacitly approves of this loss of tax base to the counties. The State thus has an obligation to these counties to make State tax funds available.

A State is a community of common interests. Geography should not be the important factor in determining where benefits in a State shall be bestowed. Looking to our vast highway system and our system of county roads, and to the places, where, and the manner in which, and in the amounts funds are expended on State Highways and Public Roads we find a formula for the distribution of tax moneys for road purposes which defeats the opportunity for rural counties to ever acquire the roads which are needed to bring both population and business. Development of a county does not bring roads—roads bring development. But we can not have roads without moneys being expended to construct them. There are insufficient real property tax funds available to counties to pay for the needed county road systems. Hence any development must be paid for out of State-wide tax funds. No plan yet evolved allows the rural counties sufficient funds for needed road development and this being the case it would appear that the time is ripe for an intelligent, unselfish, consideration of the facts to determine if the people of California are going to aid in the matter of county development. The writer has lived in Trinity county for 12 years and the county roads are as they were 12 years ago. The Trinity National Forest advises that there are presently available for cutting 13 billion feet of merchantable timber, much of which is overripe and requires immediate cutting. Yet the lumber industries refuse to establish mills in Trinity County because of the county's inaccessibility due not only to lack of county roads but to the failure of the State of California to construct the main highway designated as U.S. 299 which connects the county seat of Trinity County with Redding and Eureka. The same story obtains when considering the great mineral resources of this county because of the lack of mine-to-market roads. This is illustrative of the condition in many rural counties.

What then is the future for counties such as Trinity? If the State of California is a community of common interests is it improper to ask that the rural counties of California be allowed to join such community? Freedom of both the individual and of the political subdivision involves the economics of action, and in the struggle for Democracy, economic security is a political condition of freedom which the rural counties do not have today. The freedom of the individual is synonymous with the freedom of the political subdivision. The county can be destroyed just as surely by failure to properly legislate as by positive destructive legislation. If it be true that the rural counties should exist, we then deplore a short-sighted State policy which retards advancement by preventing rural growth; by preventing the marketing of the natural resources of rural California; by keeping such resources inaccessible. Rural California can and should grow with metropolitan California if our lawmakers will take cognizance of the proper legislation for an ever expanding economy which embraces all of California and not metropolitan California.

In many California counties the traveling public, by reason of the present condition of county roads, is sometimes eight and ten hours distant from its own county seat and yet unthinking people without attempting to ascertain the true facts accuse the rural counties of attempting to "dip into the public pork barrel." The rural counties are only attempting to exist to protect and nurture if you will one of the last remaining vestiges of the democratic process; namely, the county form of government.

I would like to know that you have read this letter personally and I would appreciate your sincere comments on its contents. If my viewpoint is correct I would like to know that this progressive State Government will take an additional step to make the State of California a true community of common interests. As counsel for the newly formed Northern California Supervisors Association, a group of counties truly representative of rural California I ask the assistance of your high office.

Sincerely,

EDWIN J. REGAN

MOTION TO PRINT

Senator Jespersen moved that the following editorial by C. R. C. Jarratt, from the California Grange News of March 20th, be printed in the Journal:

Motion carried.

By Their Works Ye Shall Know Them

If we were commissioned to choose an inscription to be carved on the lintel of the Bureau of Reclamation building, our choice would be Matthew: Chapter 7, Verse 20.

The Bureau of Reclamation is one governmental agency that throughout its many years of public service has maintained a record of loyal and untainted stewardship and faithful adherence to the principles on which it was established.

The bureau's value to the soil and citizenry of our land cannot be measured in terms of materiality, for any material appraisal of its unselfish work that has resulted in the establishment of happy family-sized farms throughout our valleys, is inadequate to tell the epic story of the bureau's struggle to make fruitful the desert and to restore to the people the power and irrigation rights which rightfully are theirs.

Like all epic fights where the people's rights are in jeopardy, it has created its enemies among the selfish interests and on occasion has been "damned with faint support" from some of its friends.

One of the bureau's most valued possessions is its 40 years of experience. In its fight to hold the line in the Central Valley Project, California agriculture has a vital stake in the bureau's backlog of performance in the field of reclamation.

Any attempt to interfere or take over its work would be a costly move for California in general and the California farmer in particular.

A switch from Federal to State administration would saddle the farmer with additional operating costs that would be staggering. For one thing, water costs would be doubled. The interest charges would run to $3 per acre per year.

The construction costs under Federal Government amortized over a period of 40 to 50 years would run to a pretty penny.

The multiple purpose program of CVP under the bureau whereby each unit of the consuming public pays its just share and the Federal Government assumes such costs as navigation, flood control, fish and wild life, Salinity repulsion, etc., would be in danger of being thrown out of gear, with the possibility of the agriculturists holding a very expensive bag.

But leaving aside all thoughts of cost increases and expensive amortization pyramids which would result if a switch from Bureau of Reclamation to State control was made, the fact remains that the Central Valley Project would suffer most from the loss of that invaluable 40 years of the bureau's experience and performance.

Those 40 years of Bureau of Reclamation service contain more than just so many man-hours of labor at so much per . . . those years of labor are richly permeated with a fervor born of an ideal and a vision centered around the philosophy that these United States can only be happy when its rural landscape is plentifully dotted with prosperous family sized farms.

Here is one occasion when we can fervently say, "Let very well enough alone."

"SECTION 2. The State of California received from the state-owned tideland oil pool at Huntington Beach, the sum of $1,320,038.17 in 1943, the sum of $2,991,820.58 in 1944, and it is estimated that in 1945 the sum will exceed $3,000,000. Neither the City of Huntington Beach nor the County of Orange received any income from the State through tideland drilling operations into this pool. However, in other areas of this State, the State by legislative action has relinquished its rights to other tideland pools and, in those cases, the municipalities contiguous thereto have reaped the entire benefit therefrom, and the State has received nothing. Well over two-thirds of the money in the State Beach Fund have come from the tidelands at Huntington Beach. As a result of intensive oil drilling in this area, an extensive area of the beach frontage within the City of Huntington Beach has been disfigured and has lost all value as beach playground. The Legislature believes that equity and simple justice demand that a small portion of the millions of dollars obtained from the State tideland oil pool at Huntington Beach and the County of Orange be used in the acquisition of the aforesaid described property, which is eminently suited to beach playground use, and which would prove to be of great recreational value to all the citizens in the southern counties of the State. By reason thereof, the Legislature hereby expressly declares that this appropriation constitutes a valid exception to any policy requiring the matching of State funds by other sources in acquiring park properties. Thus, the equities of the situation will be met, and a beautiful State beach park will be created for the enjoyment of citizens of California."

MOTION TO PRINT

Senator Hatfield moved that the following resolution by the Board of Supervisors of Madera County, be printed in the Journal.

Motion carried.

Resolution

WHEREAS, That with the growth of the State of California, and the increase in population of counties thereof, there has developed in the spirit of cooperation and with the intent of rendering greater public service many activities which are carried on and maintained jointly by the State and the various counties; that in many cases such joint action is evidenced not only by the common use of county property, facilities, and the time of county officers and employees for activities commonly presumed to be functions of State Government alone, but by the outright grant of funds by counties to various programs, the control and operation of which in many cases can be said to be "joint" only by reason of the fact that counties contribute funds; that in many such joint programs the counties have little, if any, authority over such programs; that examples of such joint activities are predatory animal control, social welfare, fire protection and public health; and

WHEREAS, There have been introduced for passage in the present State Legislature many measures, the purpose, intent and result of which will be to shift and transfer to the counties a greater share of the expense and cost of maintaining and carrying on many of said joint projects; and

WHEREAS, There is now a marked tendency on the part of many State bureaus, departments and divisions to persuade and influence the counties to assume a higher proportionate share of the expense required to carry on and maintain said joint projects; and

WHEREAS, This body has no dispute with the desirability or necessity for the activities and services rendered by the State as part of said joint activities, but that it is evident that said State agencies and bodies have extended and increased the scope and field of their services and activities to a point where the financial burden thereof is out of proportion to the cost of maintaining and carrying on the basic and essential duties of the department concerned; and

WHEREAS, It is obvious and reasonable that many of the joint functions participated in by the counties are of vital interest to all the people of the State and concerned with the welfare of all of the other fifty-seven counties in the State. Specific examples of this are found in the fields of public health and predatory animal control in which the control of an epidemic or the eradication of pest animals within the County of Madera concerns the inhabitants of every county in the State; and

WHEREAS, It is obvious, as evidenced by the measures now pending in the State Legislature and by the efforts and persuasions of the representatives of State department, bureaus, divisions, that there is a definite and concerted program, the effect of which will be to impose upon the counties either by mandatory law or by contract provisions the additional cost and expense represented and made necessary by the extension and widening of such State activities carried on as part of joint program; and

WHEREAS, Many of such activities carried on by said State agencies represent new and radical innovations and explorations into fields of public service; and

WHEREAS, In many cases the extending and broadening of those activities in such joint programs was made without consultation with or invitation from the counties; and

WHEREAS, The various counties and other local governments are now and have been keeping abreast of the demands made upon them for the expansion of public services in programs carried on solely by the counties and local governments, the expense of which together with the mandatory obligations imposed by law and the ever increasing cost of the normal and primary functions of county and local government, have kept and are now holding the rate of local taxation at the maximum consistent with the welfare of the people and permissive in the interests of good economy; and

WHEREAS, Confronted with this condition, the narrow and restricted tax base available to the counties does not permit or allow the imposition of such additional or increased expenses arising from the broadening of State functions as a burden upon the counties; but rather is a proper and reasonable charge upon the taxing ability of the State of California in view first of the fact that the necessity therefor arises from the activities of its own agents and by virtue of its broad and unlimited tax base.

Now, Therefore, Be It Resolved, That His Excellency, The Governor of The State of California, the Legislature of the State of California, the Members thereof, and the departmental heads of the various agencies of the State, shall at all times during this Legislative Session take care both in passage of legislation and in the preparation of the Biennial Budget that there shall be no unjustified shifting of the expense and cost involved in joint programs to the counties.

Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be mailed to the Governor of the State of California, Office of the Secretary of the County Supervisors Association of California, and to Senator George Hatfield and Assemblyman George A. Clarke.

The foregoing Resolution was adopted by the following vote this fourth day of April, 1945;

Supervisor Adell voted: Yes; Supervisor Yates voted: Yes; Supervisor Mitchell voted: Yes; Supervisor Crooks voted: Yes; Supervisor McDougald voted: Yes.

PRINTING OF REPORT IN THE JOURNAL

Pursuant to the motion of Senator Hatfield made on April 9, 1945, the following report of the Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Agricultural and Industrial Labor was ordered printed in the Journal of this date.

SPECIAL REPORT OF THE JOINT LEGISLATIVE FACT-FINDING COMMITTEE ON AGRICULTURAL AND INDUSTRIAL LABOR APPOINTED PURSUANT TO THE TERMS OF SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 13 AND CONTINUED BY SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 40 OF THE 56TH SESSION OF THE CALIFORNIA LEGISLATURE, COVERING THE COMMITTEE'S INVESTIGATION OF ALLEGED ABUSES BY SWAMPERS AND LUMPERS IN THE HANDLING OF PRODUCE AT THE MAIN LOS ANGELES PRODUCE MARKETS

April, 1945

COMMITTEE MEMBERS

SENATOR GEORGE HATFIELD, Chairman
SENATOR BRADFORD S. CRITTENDEN
ASSEMBLYMAN HARVEY E. HASTAIN
ASSEMBLYMAN LEE BASHORE
ASSEMBLYMAN LLOYD LOWREY

To the Members of the Senate

Your Joint Legislative Fact-Finding Committee on Agricultural and Industrial Labor, appointed pursuant to the terms of Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 13 and continued by Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 40 of the Fifty-sixth Session of the California Legislature, submits herewith the following special report covering its investigation of alleged excessive charges imposed by lumpers and swampers engaged in the unloading of produce trucks at the Seventh and Ninth Streets produce markets in Los Angeles.

Your committee made a special investigation of this situation because the facts did not fit into any general pattern of our other lines of inquiry, and because this situation about which complaints had been made was limited to one particular type of work in a single city. In order to correctly evaluate this situation, your committee wanted to get the facts, analyze them in the light of public interest, and, if necessary, recommend legislation to cure or curb any abuses that could be regulated through legislation and not covered by existing laws.

Investigation showed that many of the abuses found could be eliminated by legislation and your committee has, therefore, introduced Senate Bill No. 301 designed to accomplish this purpose.

This report will, therefore, present factual information to all persons who may be called upon to consider the need for the bill suggested by your committee or other legislation on this subject which may be proposed.

This brief report presents only the essential factual information developed by testimony at the hearings and the conclusions of your committee.

Several exhibits have been incorporated as an appendix to the report for the benefit of those who are interested in a more detailed statement.

Exhibits attached are:

1. Agreement entered into between Produce Drivers and Employees Union Local 630. (This is Exhibit No. 2 in hearing)
2. Agreement between the Los Angeles Markets Arbitration Association and the Produce Drivers and Employees Union Local 630. (This is Exhibit No. 10 in hearing)
3. Minutes of Meeting on delays in unloading produce in Los Angeles Wholesale Terminals Jan. 27, 1944. (This is Exhibit No. 7 in hearing)
4. Summarized testimony of growers and truckers.

Furthermore, the record of the testimony taken is available for public inspection and additional exhibits, not considered essential in this summary report, are a part of the official record in the custody of the committee. All these public documents are available for inspection and study.

Evidence on this subject was gathered at a two-day hearing held by your committee in the State Building at Los Angeles on Wednesday, August 30, 1944, and Thursday, August 31, 1944. Individual growers shipping to the main Los Angeles produce markets, truckers, both common carrier and contract haulers, hauling into those markets; official representatives of organized labor, the Secretary-Manager of the Associated Produce Dealers and Brokers of Los Angeles, a representative of the Office of Defense Transportation, and swampers, presented testimony at the invitation of the committee.

Witnesses at the first hearing:

C. J. Cegan, rancher, salesmanager 27 years for Irvine Company; Santa Ana, California.

Kenneth Weston, secretary-treasurer, Local 630, Produce Drivers' Union 3 years; Los Angeles, California.

C. L. Conrow, Franchise carrier, fresh fruit and vegetables; Box 455, San Luis Obispo Co., California.

W. B. Williams, Swamper, vicinity Seventh St. Market; 4027 Woodlock, Los Angeles, California.

Ray Bryant, Railroad Commission employee "Senior Transportation Rate Expert"; Los Angeles, California.

The members of the committee had only a superficial understanding of the work of swampers and lumpers when this inquiry was started.

Complaints of unfair treatment at the terminal had been made to the committee by farmers, by truckers, and by others engaged in delivering fresh produce to the Los Angeles markets.

Your committee was interested in protecting the rights of all the parties involved and protecting their means of livelihood against unfair attacks.

The committee was also interested in our men and women in uniform and general consumers getting as large a supply of fresh fruits and vegetables as possible.

The Los Angeles fresh produce market is one of the largest in the United States. The large number of military establishments, huge war industries, and the most heavily populated area in the State concentrated in the Los Angeles area, depend directly upon this central market for fresh produce. The committee was concerned that there be no hindrance in the distribution of fresh produce, nor any lessening of production by reason of the adverse effect on farmers of any alleged unfair labor practices in the unloading of produce at these markets.

The terms "swamper" and "lumper" are synonymous. For simplification, the term swamper will be used, for it is the more generally understood and more widely used of the two words.

Swampers are the men who unload and load trucks of produce at the Los Angeles produce markets. The work of swampers corresponds in a degree to that of longshoremen. The work is somewhat uncertain and the hours irregular and they frequently work long hours, sometimes 16 hours at a stretch. Some begin work at 4 p.m., working through the entire night. Others begin during the early morning hours. They usually work for a number of different truckers and growers during a single shift. The produce handled may be packaged in boxes, bags, crates, or in bulk. Some of the produce is wet and some refrigerated. Packages may vary in weight from 25 pounds to 75 pounds or over. Two men are generally used on 10-wheelers, semi's and truck and trailers and one man on "heb tails." On loads of 100 packages or less only one man is generally used regardless of the type of equipment.

The produce, as it is unloaded, is placed within 25 feet of the rear end of the truck bed on the dock or platform in from the commission merchant's stall.

The first witnesses heard by the committee were farmers delivering to the Los Angeles produce markets. They recited numerous instances of excessive charges made by swampers unloading their produce. They testified that, in a number of cases, the charges exacted by swampers ran as high as 40 per cent of the total cost of transporting the produce to market.

Shipping, freight bills, and receipts signed by swampers covering their charges, were introduced by the farmers in support of the claims of exorbitant fees.

One grower located at Ontario presented freight bills covering 14 shipments of 1944 crop peaches by a commercial trucker to the Los Angeles market, showing itemized freight costs and charges made by swampers for unloading.

The following breakdown covering these shipments clearly presents the comparison of freight and unloading charges:

No. Boxes	Weight	Freight	Unloading
733	Minimum	$25 00	$7 00
887	17,740 lbs.	26 61	12 00
1,128	22,480 lbs.	33 72	15 00
1,425	28,500 lbs.	42 75	17 80
1,551	31,020 lbs.	46 53	20 25
1,462	29,240 lbs.	43 86	18 60
1,279	25,580 lbs.	38 37	16 70
1,135	22,700 lbs.	34 05	15 18
1,278	25,560 lbs.	38 34	16 44
1,126	22,520 lbs.	33 78	14 55
1,071	21,420 lbs.	32 13	14 40
650	Minimum	25 00	8 62
377	Minimum	25 00	5 25
128	Minimum	15 00	2 10

The services rendered by this trucker included the loading of the peaches at the growers' packing platform and delivery to the unloading platform at the produce market in Los Angeles.

Additional grower testimony showed that during 1943 and 1944 swampers charged from $1.25 to $1.50 per hour and also charged from $2 to $4 a load of approximately 550 boxes, requiring 30 to 40 minutes to unload.

Growers also alleged that an additional service charge of $1 was made in many cases for loosening the ropes on a load.

Growers also testified that rather than pay what they considered a tribute and an imposition for unloading, they would consider reducing crop acreage or switching to other crops which would not have to be marketed at the Los Angeles produce markets.

In other cases it was stated that some contract haulers were unwilling to haul the growers' produce to the Los Angeles markets because of the difficulties and delays encountered in getting produce unloaded.

In another instance, a grower testified that a truck load of peas hauled in his own truck was picketed because swampers were not hired to unload.

Additional problems connected with the payment of swampers were discussed by growers. They testified that confusion existed regarding the exact status of swampers as employees of the trucker or grower delivering produce. Many of the swampers insisted that they were independent contractors and, therefore, not required to pay either unemployment insurance, Social Security, or income taxes. Growers, in turn, indicated that they were perplexed as to whether or not they were legally required to make returns under the Unemployment Insurance law and the Social Security law covering money paid to the swampers.

The question of whether or not these charges could be taken as legitimate labor deductions on income tax returns was also raised. Not knowing what to do, the farmers appealed to the various agencies concerned, particularly the Bureau of Internal Revenue, and were informed, so the testimony shows, that, until they were told not to do so, they must make the necessary returns and pay the employer's share and the employee's share of the Federal levies.

Truckers invited to testify before the committee verified essentially the facts presented in grower testimony.

One trucker, hauling produce from Imperial Valley to the Los Angeles market, testified that the swampers' rates for unloading had increased approximately 100 per cent during the period 1941-1944. He asserted that unloading rates were subject to frequent increase without any prior notification or negotiation and that frequent delays of as high as four or five hours in unloading trucks seriously affected hauling schedules.

Truckers asserted that swampers were averaging between $3.50 and $5 an hour or more. Although drivers were instructed in many cases not to pay more than $1.50 per hour, it was sometimes necessary, because of the perishable nature of the produce hauled, to meet the demands of swampers even though the charge might actually amount to two or three times the $1.50 hourly rate.

Attempts by truckers to control excessive charges by swampers through contacts with local Union representatives were said to have been generally unsuccessful. Although frequent promises were made by the representatives that the situation would be remedied, no real improvement was made, truckers said.

The truckers also testified that many of the swampers held themselves to be independent contractors and refused to permit Social Security or withholding tax deductions. In some cases deductions were made despite the swampers objections, but, in many cases, the deductions were not made.

The question of the payment of the swampers' withholding tax and Social Security tax in those cases where deductions could not be made, are problems which truckers assert they still must face with the Bureau of Internal Revenue, as they are operating under instructions from that agency to collect them until an official decision is made regarding the relationship existing between trucker and swamper.

One trucker testified that with the assistance of employees of the commission merchant, his own truck driver could unload faster and more efficiently and at one tenth of the present swamper cost. Under the present situation, truck drivers are not even permitted to untie the ropes on a load or fold the tarpaulins covering the load. A service charge of 50 cents per man must be paid for this service.

Losses through breakage, damage and shortages, because of rough handling by inexperienced swampers, were claimed to be substantial.

In addition to charges for untying ropes on a load, and folding tarpaulins, truckers asserted that additional charges were also levied by swampers on mixed or "chop suey" loads, involving delivery of produce to more than one place in the markets. An extra service charge of $1 for each man, is made for handling a "chop suey" load.

The Secretary Manager of the Associated Produce Dealers and Brokers of Los Angeles, a trade association of wholesale dealers in fresh fruits and vegetables who receive and distribute within the metropolitan area, testified at some length regarding the background of the present situation relating to the use of swampers in the Los Angeles produce markets.

During the early days of the depression, prior to 1933-1934, the produce markets were open on practically a 24-hour basis. Help was plentiful and workers waited around the markets looking for a chance to work unloading trucks. Truck operators at the time usually took upon themselves the obligation of loading and unloading their produce with help from the produce houses on the larger loads. However, as the hauls became longer, the drivers wishing to unload quicker and to have more time for themselves, began to hire these roustabouts to do the unloading. At that time trucks were unloaded for as little as 25 cents or 50 cents each.

In 1937 the employees in the market, including the swampers, organized themselves into an independent Union which, during the latter part of 1937, became affiliated with the Teamsters International Union as Local No. 630. With this step, the swampers, so called, became an entity in the market and were a factor with which to deal on the basis of organized labor.

During 1937 a contract was signed between the produce dealers and the union recognizing the union as the collective bargaining agency and establishing a work day opening at 3 a.m. and closing at noon. A wage scale of $1 an hour was established, an increase over the 60-cent scale for transient help previously effective. This contract covered all the regular employees of the commission merchants but did not include the swampers.

The secretary-manager of the association also testified that at one time the association had been requested to establish a wage scale for swampers in the association's contract with the Union. But the association declined on the grounds that it was not the employer of the swampers. However, the contract between the association and the union did contain a provision that a grower or his son, or a full time farmer employee, within a radius of approximately 90 miles, may unload their own truck without the necessity of hiring swampers. This particular provision was one of the stipulations secured by the association in return for granting the union a union shop contract.

During 1943, at the request of some of the truck operators delivering to the markets, a conference was arranged with union representatives to establish a per package basis for the loading and unloading. This contract was signed by 14 truckers and growers delivering to the market. Following the completion of this agreement, certain swampers refused to abide by the terms of the contract. Some refused to observe the scale while others were unwilling to have Social Security and Unemployment Insurance deductions made. Some refused to permit the withholding of income tax.

When this situation developed, the local union representative and the Secretary-Manager of the Produce Dealers Association invited representatives of the Social Security Board, the Bureau of Internal Revenue, the Office of Defense Transportation, and representatives of two or three other miscellaneous agencies to attend a meeting on January 27, 1944, for the purpose of solving the situation.

A total of 750 invitations were sent to truck operators and growers known to be delivering produce to the Los Angeles market. The various Federal agencies were fairly well represented, but only five or six truck operators were present.

At this meeting a committee was appointed to work out some plan to eliminate delays in the unloading of trucks and to eliminate excessive unloading charges by swampers. The committee, consisting of representatives of the trucking industry, the union, and the Produce Dealers Association, proposed that a nonprofit corporation be organized to operate a hiring hall. The suggestion was adopted and a site midway between the two markets was selected. The union rounded up all the swampers at the hall and arrangements were made to have truck drivers drive by the hall on their way to the markets and pick up their swampers. The plan also provided that when the job was completed the truckers were to bring the swampers back to the hall where the swamper was to be given a statement of his earnings which statement would also show his name, address, Social Security number, his withholding tax status, and other information which might be required.

The plan was placed in operation for about three days, but finally had to be abandoned because of the difficulties encountered. The large number of trucks which had to be handled in a short period of time in one location had been seriously underestimated. Produce trucks were stalled for blocks around the hiring hall and residents of the locality complained to the police of the noise made by these trucks stopping and starting during the early morning hours. As a result of these complaints the police issued traffic tickets for numerous traffic violations. This blew up the plan of a hiring hall.

Trucker testimony also revealed that during the earlier days, when produce markets were open 24 hours a day and paid no overtime, the unloading of the trucks was done by the employees of the commission merchants.

The Secretary-Treasurer of Local No. 630, Produce Drivers Union, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, to which the swampers in the markets belong, testified at some length in presenting the union's side of the question. The union's jurisdiction covers the entire produce market operations in Los Angeles, including fruit, produce, and cold storage houses. The local has about 1,600 members of which about 150 are swampers.

He testified that the union is under what is called international receivership, which provides that, if conditions in a local union are deemed unsatisfactory by the international union, an international man may be installed as a receiver, resulting in the suspension of all by-laws of the local union and subsequent operation under the by-laws of the international.

The Secretary-Treasurer, under interrogation, agreed that this action had evidently been taken by the international because the swamper situation was not a healthy one.

During 1937, when the union was first organized, swampers received $1 per hour which rate had been established for the regular market employees by negotiation with the market association.

During 1941, as a result of the increased cost of living, further negotiations were undertaken with the market association and representatives of the truck operators to increase the hourly rate of pay. An increased rate of $1.50 an hour was established with a minimum per job per man of $2.

During the early part of 1942, the rates again became unstable because of the action of certain truck drivers in offering higher rates to selected swampers who would wait for their loads and who would do the work quicker or better than others. As a result of this competition for certain swampers among truck drivers, rates began to increase. In other cases it was alleged that certain unscrupulous truck drivers "knocked down" on their employers by presenting receipts signed by swampers showing that a larger amount had been paid out for swampers' services than had actually been paid. The swamper and truck driver split the difference, it was charged.

During 1943 and 1944 several meetings with representatives of government agencies, the Produce Dealers' Association and truckers were arranged in an effort to solve the increasing number of complaints being made by truckers and growers against the excessive rates charged by swampers.

At these meetings the union representative suggested the adoption of a contract which would be signed by the union and individual truckers or growers delivering to the markets. The contract would provide that, in case of violation, the contract would be null and void, and violating members of the union would be suspended.

Initial efforts to secure the signatures of truck operators and growers to such a contract were unsuccessful. Signatures, however, were finally obtained from two or three operators in the Santa Maria area which were later augmented by a number of others, the result being that in all 14 truckers signed. This original contract provided for an hourly rate of $1.50 for swampers. Some of the contracts were negotiated on a piece work or per package basis at the request of certain truckers.

Following the completion of these contracts, difficulties in swampers getting away from the stipulated rates were again encountered. As a result, the union began a series of weekly educational meetings for the swampers, designed to educate them in the provisions of the contract and to correct any inequities that existed between the swampers, truck drivers, receiving clerks in the commission houses, or ranchers, and in order to make and adopt the necessary by-laws.

The union officials stated that during the past few months 10 or 12 union members had been fined for accepting money in excess of the stipulated rates where the swampers were found to have been at fault. Two had been fined twice and should any be fined a third time they would be automatically suspended from the local.

The union representative also testified that their members had been instructed to give their true name and social security number to any employer who requested the information and that failure to do so would result in a fine. The union, however, would take no stand on whether or not it should instruct its members to pay the withholding tax and the social security tax for it felt that such a decision was strictly within the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Internal Revenue and that it had been the common practice over a period of years not to withhold anything from the swampers wages.

(d) Because of the practical difficulties involved in attempting to organize truckers and growers scattered throughout this State and other states into an organization capable of dealing directly with the unloading situation in the terminal produce markets in Los Angeles;

(e) Because the administering of this unloading operation could be more practically and responsibly handled by commission merchants who are continually on the markets;

(f) Because of the apparent economic necessity for the performance of the service of unloading by someone other than the truck driver who in the interests of sound working conditions and good public policy should not be required to perform this service after long hauls;

(g) Because the interest of "swampers and lumpers" performing this service might very properly be protected, particularly under conditions of a surplus labor market;

(h) Because of the necessity for providing some orderly means for the collection of State and Federal taxes on wages paid for the performance of this service;

(i) Because workers performing this service should have the complete protection afforded under the Workmen's Compensation Act;

(j) Because the Union should have some responsible organization with which to deal day in and day out, regarding the problems occurring in the performance of this service,

Legislation should be enacted which would require commission merchants and produce brokers to accept delivery of produce at the tail end of the truck and that the costs for the performance of this service be included in the ultimate cost of the product (or that these merchants be compensated for the performance of this service).

MINUTES OF MEETING ON DELAYS IN UNLOADING PRODUCE IN LOS ANGELES WHOLESALE TERMINALS, JANUARY 27, 1944

A meeting to determine the causes of delays in unloading of produce in Los Angeles wholesale terminals and to attempt a solution was held at the Teamsters' Union Hall, 846 South Union, Los Angeles, on January 27, 1944.

The meeting was called to order at 2:30 p.m. by Mr. H. L. Krueger, Farm Vehicle Specialist of the Office of Defense Transportation.

Those present were:

George G. Grant, War Manpower Commission and Motor Truck Association of Southern California	Los Angeles
G. E. Boyce, Pacific Freight Lines	Los Angeles
Harold B. Boyle, Boyle & Son (Truck Line)	Escondido
H. H. Hendrix, Coast Line Truck Service	Los Angeles
D. C. Ramsey, Valley Truck Co.	Los Angeles
Homer A. Harris, Associated Produce Dealers & Brokers	Los Angeles
H. L. Woxberg, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Secretary-Treasurer of Local 224	Los Angeles
Robert Allen, Teamsters Local 381	Santa Maria
J. P. Poteet, Teamsters Local 542	San Diego
Ken Weston, Produce Drivers' Union, Local 630	Los Angeles
S. N. Wilson, California State Railroad Commission	Los Angeles
L. B. Eifert, Bureau of Internal Revenue	Los Angeles
H. J. Lassalette, District Field Man, U. S. Department of Agriculture	Southern California
C. W. Twombley, U. S. D. A. War Board	San Francisco
R. A. Wertman, For-Hire Carrier Specialist, ODT	Los Angeles
E. T. Childerhose, For-Hire Carrier Dept. ODT	Los Angeles
H. L. Krueger, Farm Vehicle Specialist ODT	Los Angeles

Mr. Krueger outlined the purpose of the meeting:

"The reason we called you together is to try to work out some way to avoid delays. We have an increase in production in agriculture of approximately 25 per cent this year over last year, with a decrease in equipment. We recently had a gas shortage problem. We were faced with the spoilage of agricultural products in Imperial Valley for lack of gasoline. That problem has been solved, so the produce is going to be moved.

Now we come to the unloading end. In order to move the increase of crops with a decrease in equipment, we must have cooperation do away with delays, keep on schedule and keep the trucks moving. In order to take the delay out of the unloading operation, we have to go back to last year's experience and see if we can avoid it this year. As far as ODT is concerned we have nothing to do with scales, rates, etc., but we are interested in the movement of these vehicles. I don't know how we are going to remedy it; it will be up to you gentlemen to figure out a solution.

In order to get started, we will take what we met with last year. We will read several letters we have received, call on each of you individually, and then throw the meeting open for discussion. The first letter is from our District Manager at Fresno, Mr. John R. Calvert. It is dated August 17, 1943, and reads as follows:

"To: WILLIAM C. KLEBENOW, District Manager, re Los Angeles Wholesale Market

Some 10 days ago I called your office regarding the conditions at the Los Angeles Wholesale Market, and received a very good explanation as to how the unloading of produce trucks at the market operates.

Several days later we received a report that the agreement between the union unloaders and the truck operators had been broken.

It has been called to our attention several times during the last few days that the charge for unloading packages at the market has been raised considerably—in some instances as high as two cents per package.

We are continually very much in the dark regarding the happenings at the Los Angeles market, and due to the fact that a large percentage of the produce entering the Los Angeles market comes from the San Joaquin Valley, we would like to ask you to keep us informed as to the conditions at the market.

Any information you might give us will be greatly appreciated."

Krueger: You will note that in every instance, the rates enter into the picture and ODT has no part of it, but from the delay standpoint we have to enter into it somewhat. The next letter is dated December 15, 1943, from Borgman Brothers Trucking Service, 232 South F Street, Exeter, California, reading as follows:

"Office of Defense Transportation
Los Angeles, California

GENTLEMEN: As we have been hauling fresh fruits and produce from the Exeter district, in Tulare county to the markets in the city of Los Angeles, for the past three years, and as we were ask by are customers if we would handle there tonnage this coming season, we were wondering if there could be a stop put to the unreasonable charges which the lumpers make for unloading our loads in said markets.

We have our prices set upon our hauling and we have records to show where we have paid in excess of $1.00 per ton for unloading. We have had loads unloaded in 45 minutes and they charge us $8.00 minimum, and we have paid up to $15.00 to unload a ten ton load. We use six-wheel trucks and are average load is 8 tons. We went through the 1943 season after taking quite a loss, but if this condition is not changed before the 1944 season starts in May, we will have to find other hauling to do. Our tonnage to the markets is about 2500 tons. Hoping to hear from you in regards to this matter,

We are as ever,

BORGAMN BROTHERS.
(Signed) ANTHONY BORGMAN"

Krueger: The next letter is dated January 3, 1944, and is from the Valley Truck Company, 2115 E. 25th Street, Los Angeles, and reads as follows:

"Office of Defense Transportation
1031 So. Broadway
Los Angeles, California

GENTLEMEN: Referring to telephone conversation this date regarding produce unloaded at the Los Angeles Market Area.

My truck #12 Driver, Evans attempted to secure swampers to assist in the unloading of 259 crates of Ice Packed lettuce and was unable to secure swampers until 9:30 A.M. this morning.

Driver, Evans attempted to deliver lettuce at the Victory Produce Co., located at the Ninth Street Market, but could not make delivery without the aid of swampers. The Owner of Victory Produce Co. explained that he had trouble with Local #630 in allowing Truck Operators to unload without the aid of this Local's swampers so therefore we would have to secure swampers before he would accept lettuce. Driver Evans, called the Union Hall and after some more delay two Mexicans by the name of Rudolph Sanchez and Lawerence Rodriquez showed up to unload truck. Both men refused to unload lettuce at the agreed Union rate of two cent per crate and demanded three cents for this work. The Office of Local #630 was advised and they sent a man to investigate but he told the Driver that three cents wasn't the rate but swampers would not work for less than three cents per crate so I was compelled to pay on that basis.

Mr. Sanchez and Mr. Rodriquez came to office to secure their unloading charges and it was necessary for me to make out check to Mr. Rodriquez for both he and Sanchez as Sanchez did not have a social security number.

The above two men were very uncomplimentary of this organization in their remarks and complained of the Federal deductions. The actual time used in unloading truck amounted to fifty-two minutes for which these two men collected $7.77 or about four dollars ($4.00) per hour.

Very truly yours,

VALLEY TRUCK CO.
(s) D. C. RAMSEY"

Krueger: Another letter is dated January 15, 1944, from Fred C. Wilson & Sons, Local and Long Distance Contract Hauling, 421 J Street, Chula Vista, and reads as follows:

> "In re our telephone conversation, we have found on examination that we have been consistently over charged for the unloading of our trucks at the L.A. markets. The amounts are small and not important in themselves, but the delays attendant are important.
> "There appears to be a conspiracy among the union stewards and the swamper personnel to delay our trucks and harass our drivers. To all appearances our loads with all union drivers are being treated as "hot cargoes". Under the circumstances this damaging to public welfare and the war effort as well as being distinctly unpleasant to us and embarrassing to our time scheduled movements.
> "We consider our trucks as being easily unloaded and it seldom takes two hours to complete unloading. We have tried to show every consideration to all helpers incident to unloading. We have paid, under protest at times, their charges however unreasonable, with an eye only to the welfare of the cargo.
> "We hope the situation is not incurable and trust that any help rendered us will be given in the knowledge that we are interested solely in the swift, efficient movement of perishables."

Krueger: The last is a note handed to Mr. Ramsey of Valley Truck Company by one of his drivers yesterday:

> "Stewart, you will have to unload this damn thing; I can't get anyone to work for Valley and come for their money later on; I'm broke. Bill."

Krueger: Those are the letters that have come to us so far and we felt that if this situation exists with the high increase in production and the decrease in equipment, we can not afford to have any delays. There is no use setting up an army if we can't feed them and no use putting in crops if we can't harvest and unload them.

I shall now call on Mr. Boyle. Mr. Boyle, what has been your experience?

Boyle: I have been at several of these meetings. Our position is a little different from the general run of them. We have our own swampers who belong to Local 630, hired on a weekly wage. I have always felt we are paying more than we should but we are getting our trucks unloaded. We have two men on weekly wages; one at $60 a week and one at $70. They work approximately six or seven hours a day. We average a little better than three trucks a night—some nights four; hardly ever more than four; sometimes only three.

As far as the delays—we are not having any trouble when we can get our trucks in by night and these two men do all our unloading. We did experience quite a little trouble when we tried to obtain swampers through the hiring hall. We were delayed getting them, our trucks were held up, and we paid $8 to $10 a truck for unloading. But for the past five or six months, we have had no trouble.

Grant: These two swampers live here?

Boyle: Yes, they live here in Los Angeles and are members of Local 630.

Grant: Do you have any other service at any other time except when they unload your trucks when they arrive here?

Boyle: No.

Mr. Krueger then called on Mr. Boyce of the Pacific Freight Lines.

Boyce: Our proposition down there is small in comparison to what most of them have because we have laid off hauling fruit and vegetables to the market as much as possible. Our arrival time isn't right for the early morning markets in most cases and in other cases it costs us too much to make the delivery.

In other words, we have a 208 Local man for swamper. We go into other markets and have to use a 630 swamper. We have a mixed load for delivery. It means we'd have to drop one swamper and pick up another. The driver has to pay the swamper off at the market and these drivers don't figure their Social Security and Withholding Tax worth a darn. We have had trouble there. But I figure our part of it has been small.

Krueger: You can get through without delay?

Boyce: We were recently delayed 2 hours in unloading 50 sacks of potatoes.

Woxberg: Who delayed you?

Boyce: The receiving clerk for the company.

Grant: How did they delay you?

Boyce: They demanded we have a 630 man to unload. We had to wait till they got one. We didn't have a 208 swamper because we'd been told they couldn't unload in the market.

Krueger: In case of emergency and you are forced to use a Pacific Freight Lines man, you can still take care of it?

Boyce: We can handle considerable, but the deadline time is hard on us.

Wortman: If the compulsion of return loading was insisted upon by ODT, could you regulate your return movement to meet that time?

Boyce: We have to get our Army merchandise out of here and make deliveries at Army camps at destinations, particularly Camp San Luis, Fort Ord, or wherever we are going and after you have made a delivery (probably you gentlemen know how long it takes to make a delivery into an Army camp) and get out and deliver your produce, you are going to be too late to get to market.

Poteet: Is there a deadline on delivery of Army produce?

Boyce: By the time we get into Camp Cook, it's 1 p.m. We leave Los Angeles loaded direct for Camp Cook. The load is broken down in Santa Maria ready to be routed through the camp. We have anywhere from two to six truck loads per day. The first load gets there by 1.00 and is delivered through the camp. You can see when we will leave camp.

Wertman: If you could make one delivery at camp, could you make the market? You would be in position to handle considerable return vegetable and fruit movement?

Boyce: With the sugar and other merchandise coming out of that territory—beans, etc.—we would possibly be able with the same equipment we have now to bring 20 or 30 tons out of there a night.

Poteet: What are you hauling now?

Boyce: I don't have those figures here but it could be loaded heavier.

Wilson: You're a common carrier, aren't you? If you operated on a time schedule, you are not in position to adjust your operation to markets in the same manner a radial highway carrier would be, are you?

Boyce: No.

Wilson: You can't dispatch your trucks to make this market at 3.00 o'clock. You are open to all the public and handle general commodities. You won't be able to adjust your schedule just in order to protect your perishables.

Boyce: No.

Wertman: You have no schedule on your empties? If ODT regulations insisted that return vehicles must be loaded, would that remove the difficulty?

Grant: Whatever the ODT might say regarding use of vehicles, Boyce must keep his run or lose his license as common carrier.

Wilson: Do you have any vehicles coming back empty?

Boyce: Our man arrives at Santa Maria station, or any station on a long haul and we know that the driver will take eight hours off. We have that time to deliver his rig and figure that power unit will be back in Los Angeles in 15 hours from the time he arrives at Santa Maria. Our power units are short; we don't have enough of them and we have to double up and if we were tied up 12 hours in Santa Maria, we'd pay our driver 12 hours' layover time and jeopardize use of the truck in Los Angeles.

Wilson: He is different from a contract carrier.

Wertman: If you had empty equipment available and still maintained your schedule, then those vehicles could be diverted in to the movement of these products?

Boyce: Yes.

Krueger: That gives a lineup on what can be done with those vehicles if we have to use them.

Mr. Hendrix, we'll hear from you next.

Hendrix: Our operation is principally hauling produce between here and San Francisco. We have our own dock and our own labor. At times we have had more trucks than we could handle ourselves and tried to get men to help us. They refused because we won't give a flat sum. We pay on a straight hourly basis. We have eight or ten of our own men right on our own dock.

Krueger: Your delays are minor?

Hendrix: Yes. We try to pick up swampers and they want $8 flat. We refuse; we pay the regular scale. They want a small truck at a flat sum. We really haven't too much delay. Most of our stuff on the return comes from San Jose and Salinas to Los Angeles.

Grant: These swampers are from what union?

Hendrix: 208 and 630. When a line driver comes in with his truck and gets off, he may use two men, either from 208 or from 630.

Grant: All of your business is fruits and vegetables?

Hendrix: Practically. Mostly vegetables. We are common carriers. We use both 208 and 630; that is two from 208, or two from 630, from our regular men. When we pick up outside men, we get 630's. We are a certificated common carrier.

Krueger: Mr. Ramsey, you never have had any troubles or delays of any kind, have you?

Ramsey: I am a common carrier of fruits and produce out of Imperial Valley. My troubles would probably take up the rest of the afternoon. About two years ago when swamper help got to be a problem we had various and sundry meetings between Mr. Weston's predecessor, Mr. Chapman; Mr. Weston himself, Mr. Grant, and Mr. Harrison, but nothing seemed to ever come out of this thing but bad. We finally decided upon a price of 1¢ a package up to 50 pounds and 2¢ a package up to 100 pounds, for unloading, but the first morning we tried to put it into effect, it was something else again. Now, all of the delays that I have experienced, and I think it will run generally throughout the trucking organizations, have been based upon "How much are you going to pay?" When you are operating a number of trucks you have got to lay down a definite price. You can't give one driver $5.00 an hour and another the leeway of $1.50 per hour, etc. So we have tried to maintain the price at $1.50 per hour and 1¢ per package for two men under 50 pounds, and 2¢ per package for two men for packages over 50 pounds. I have unloaded 10% of my cargo at this rate. The rest has been at a general average of $4.00 per hour per man for the type of unloading we have been handling.

Now, as a certificated carrier, our lot is quite different from the contract carrier. The contract carrier seems to have the ability to raise and lower his rates without very much jurisdiction or very much opposition. And I might state for the sake of all concerned that the contract carrier can give a little better service than I can for certain types of business. The dry package man wants a truck out in his field in the early morning with empty crates to distribute through the fields. One who is involved in the handling of essential freight and using the produce business as it should be used for a return load or vice versa can't get a truck out into the field any morning like the P.F.L. can.

Now, as to the cause of our trucks not being unloaded: We attempt not to separate a truck for layover. So where I haul for a 25¢ rate per 100 pounds based on 75¢ minimum for a crate of lettuce, my immediate competitor, the radial highway carrier or contract carrier, hauls for 35¢ a crate. He is all hot to get back because he goes back empty making no attempt to secure a return load. He's anxious to get that next load of 300 crates at 35¢ a crate and come back into town. While he's having a cup of coffee with friends before he leaves and talks over the day's situation, it doesn't amount to a great deal to him, while it does amount to a great deal to me. Not only do I have to pay for two useless swampers but I have to pay my own driver who gets $1.15 per hour, while the swamper gets $4.00 an hour, disturbing my man no end—he wants to quit because the swamper makes as much in three days as my driver makes in ten days of hard strenuous work. This meeting is concerned with all rates; it all goes back to that.

There are three markets here in Los Angeles where we unload; one is on Seventh Street, one on Eighth, one on Ninth and San Pedro. You don't ask for these men. They swarm on you if they are not busy. The driver says, "What is the score?" The swampers ask, "How many crates?" Ice pack costs about $6.00 to unload; our dry pack $4.00 an hour. The swampers say, "We contract loads; the union don't have any jurisdiction over us. If we got the union price, it would be $1.50 an hour and 1¢ per package. We don't recognize the union. If you want to get out of here, give us a contract or else." The driver has usually fought bad truck conditions all the way in, probably blown two or three synthetic tires and is tired after driving better than twelve hours coming from the Valley. He usually gives in and pays the swampers and says he will pay the difference. I feel sorry for the driver and usually pay the difference myself, and that is the way we keep our drivers.

Saturday morning, New Year's Day, a truck got in at 1:00 a.m. The driver called two very responsible swampers and said, "Will you come over and deliver this Sunday night so it will be on the dock Sunday?" They said, "Yes." I saw the load of lettuce on the dock Sunday night because it couldn't be delivered New Year's day—there was nobody there. I asked the driver, "Are you going to come down and see that this is unloaded?" The driver said it was all arranged. I saw the lettuce still there Monday morning. The letter I wrote you is the result. These two fellows said Ramsey would pay only $2.00 for that when other more profitable loads were in, so they wouldn't unload. These fellows I paid more, because they were worth more. I asked them "Why didn't you unload that truck?" and they just said they found one that paid more money. I said, "Don't you know that puts me in a bad spot with my customer?" But that made no difference to him. You might as well forget it; if you don't pay off, you don't get unloaded, on time.

I might say that so far this season I have hauled eight loads of produce. That constituted not eight headaches, but sixteen headaches; and I will haul eight less next month if possible—and I am a certificated carrier with the California Railroad Commission to haul produce. I am hauling dead freight and will whenever I can put it on because I can't come out at $6.00 a load and pay the poorest of labor $15.00 for unloading it at this end after I rastle it around in Imperial Valley and if I'm over an hour getting it unloaded, somebody has to make an excuse.

So far as produce is concerned, I'm not interested. I'll haul all I'm compelled to load and that's all. Empty oil barrels are more profitable than produce at my rate and anybody who is a certificated hauler in Imperial Valley can tell you the same thing.

Krueger: Mr. Grant, let's hear from you.

Grant: I intended to go into very much the same line Dale and the other gentlemen have taken in regard to delays, etc. in the market, but will confine myself very briefly to one thing till I hear some more.

We have a Master Agreement dated March 1, 1943 with all of the unions involved in this territory. Paragraph 10 of that agreement reads as follows:

> "The control of cargo transported by members of the Association from point of rest at origin to point of rest at destination must be preserved and protected to the members of the Association, so that the handling of such cargo shall be, at all times, performed by employees of members of the Association, provided however, that such cargo may be loaded on equipment of members of the Association by employees of the individuals, partnerships, corporations or other forms of enterprise from whom the cargo is received or unloaded from the equipment of members of the Association by employees of the individuals, partnerships, corporations or other forms of enterprise to whom the cargo is being delivered, provided no charge is made either against members of the Association or against the cargo being transported for such loading or unloading."

But after what I have just heard, I am going to insist that this paragraph be invoked. The record so far indicates, and P.F.L. has indicated that an agreement has been made between 208 and apparently 630 that no other members may be permitted to go into the market and unload. This is a direct violation of Paragraph 10 of our Master Agreement. That agreement is to be carried out and lived up to by the union—by 208 and 630 or by any other chapter. Employees are going to be given the privilege of unloading their produce in the market or to have it unloaded by members of the Association. We are definitely interested in the whole manpower situation. When a driver for any concern is required to sit on his truck and do nothing while others unload his truck for him, it would appear on the face of it that there is a loss of manpower.

Members of the Labor Management Committee will have to investigate this. They haven't up to now but I propose to see that they do. That is as far as I care to go at the present time till I hear some more.

Ramsey: What union does the American Railway Express come under?

Grant: The Railroad Brotherhood.

Ramsey: Why can they go into the market without the assistance of the swampers?

Grant: They undoubtedly have the same terms in their contract as we have in our Agreement.

Ramsey: The difference between me and the American Railway Express is nothing.

Grant: You are both common carriers.

Ramsey: The ordinary common carrier is being taken advantage of by Local 630 in our local market.

Grant: This Master Agreement was effective March 1, 1943, and a previous agreement contained the same clause.

Krueger: How about Mr. Allen?

Woxberg: May I say a few words? It looks as if, listening to the remarks around here, that we are the people who are causing all the trouble. Einar Mohn had to be in Washington today and I am going to leave most of the talking to representatives of the Market Union. In the past this problem has been a headache to us as much as to the operators. We have even gone to the United States Government—to the F.B.I., Selective Service, and everybody else trying to enforce Government regulations on these individuals who are charging more than the union rate. The outcome? Nothing done.

We went to the Market Association and asked the Market Association itself to set up some kind of a system within their own organization to employ the swampers direct themselves and those trucks coming in to be unloaded pay the Market Association a certain payment per package or a certain per diem basis and in turn the Market Association pay the swampers and eliminate the swampers' running wild. The Market Association has not seen fit to adopt such a plan. We are not protecting any members of our Teamsters' Union for getting more than our going rate. We want to solve the problem as much as anyone else.

As far as Mr. Grant reading Paragraph 10 out of our Master Agreement, I'm afraid it doesn't apply, and is not to be discussed here. It is to be discussed between us and the Motor Truck Association alone.

Krueger: We let rates come in for this reason: if rates are the cause of the delay, it will be a problem for the union themselves. We are interested here for the unions to take hold and that a solution may be gotten before we are through. We are primarily interested in the facts of the case—try to get some remedy to do away with the delay. If delays are caused from disagreements down there, go further to get the records from everyone here. We can't just go down there and ask, "What is causing delays?" We have to get the answers here. When we hit the peak season with the equipment we have on hand, we will just have to move this produce some way. We must start a month ahead, rather than wait till the peak season is here.

I would still like to hear from the local union representatives if they have anything to add. We will call on a few others to state what they want to enter on the record, then throw the meeting open to discussion. Mr. Weston, of Local 630.

Weston: Shall I talk all afternoon?

Krueger: No.

Weston: I am not as familiar with Paragraph 10 as I should be; I have not seen it before. I don't see that we have violated it as it says men must be employees of the Motor Truck Association members. Men are essentially employed for each truck.

Something will have to be ironed out in the future. I do take exception to two remarks—we have been derelict in our duties, etc. Possible we have, but not because we weren't trying. As far as the swampers paying no heed to the jurisdiction of the local union, heretofore we have never been given the power to actually go ahead and assess these boys any direct fines for actual violations, but the latter part of last month, we got a motion from the floor whereby if any truck owner who could prove violation for gross overcharge, fines and assessments can now be made and the overcharge rebated to the operator. We had one case where a man was properly fined for violation. The money has not been returned to the truck owner yet, but it will be. I won't say there have been no violations since that time, but the condition has eased off considerable.

As far as the Valley Truck Line is concerned, we sat down here some time ago and tried to establish some workable basis. We had the hourly basis already established. We pointed out then that with a lot of these "chop suey" loads, if boys work on an hourly basis, they go back and forth until they have the load all delivered. However, if they work on a per package basis, the boys would take it on themselves to dig down into the load and get the merchandise out for their house; that is how the per package basis happened to enter into the thing. We thought we were all set; then the violations started again. Was it our fault? The employers are in for their share of the blame too.

Employers were being the violators—not the drivers. Employer after employer came in for his own truck, didn't want to wait or bother to clear through the hall as we had agreed upon, would take swampers outside and say they'd give the swamper $5.00 extra to unload their truck. How are we going to combat that kind of thing? About being held up waiting for swampers through the hall, in Boyce's case, we had a man there within five minutes after the driver called our office. If we don't have a business agent in the office, there is always a janitor who will go out and pick up a swamper and take him to where he is needed.

There is nothing in any agreement we have that says these union swampers may not become regular employees, as they have for Boyle and Hendrix.

Naturally you will have trouble securing swampers on Sundays. I think Hendrix is a little in error when he feels abused because the boys don't want to take a load for regular pay on Sunday afternoon.

Dale Ramsey has tried to hold the line on this unloading by the price he pays out. If all operators had held the line at the wage bracket we established, I think all this would have cleared up. Some late unloading might have to be done by a house man. However, where Dale makes his mistake, and several others do too, Dale had two men who were unloading him right along. He had apparently given the drivers instructions to use just those two swampers. I don't think they were charging any $10 or $15 per load, because I know both of them personally. However, if one of them happened to be sick, those fellows weren't there and the driver would go to other swampers and want them to work the job and they wouldn't do it because they usually couldn't get his loads, because Ramsey was using his regular swampers. Curly and Sandy wanted to take dry loads and have the other swampers take the wet loads. Regarding iced lettuce, we drew up an agreement and had quite a discussion over that one item. I believe you will recall you signed an agreement saying you'd pay 2c per package from 50 to 100 pounds but there was nothing in the contract establishing what would be paid per package over 100 pounds. If not in the contract, I wanted a better figure than that. One association hauling in here pays 5c per package.

Woxberg: I think we should discuss what we have done to eliminate delay in unloading trucks instead of the overcharging, which we don't control at all.

Grant: One question to clear the record. That contract you refer to expired December 1, 1943. It no longer exists.

Weston: Yes, it was a more or less friendly agreement drawn up to see if it had any workable value.

Grant: The reason expiration date was made December 1 was simply because we expected the end of this iced produce problem, which was a problem of its own.

Weston: We have made every attempt known, I guess, to have this situation remedied. Meetings were held with Homer Harris, the F. B. I., the Los Angeles Police Commissioner's office, the District Attorney's office, Social Security, ODT, and the Bureau of Internal Revenue trying to figure out some way of curbing this thing. We have even gone so far, and at no slight expense to our own local union, as to try to straighten it out through a hiring hall set up here, which has been unsatisfactory so far. We have suggested the Market Association or the truck operators, through cooperation with these two groups, take this thing on. They don't like men doing nothing all night long, neither do we want our men overcharging, but it is almost impossible to go down there and catch every violator. It's the same trouble Harris has with his men trying to keep them from opening before 6 o'clock. We have the same thing with the swampers.

If the truck operators would all go together with the Market Association, it would relieve all of us from a terrible headache.

Krueger: You think that between now and March 1, when we expect that the heavy unloading will start you boys can get together and figure out some solution of the delays? Whatever is causing the delays is going to be your baby. We are not going to get into the thing. Between you boys, I would suggest that you make a definite stab at getting the thing into such shape that everybody is concerned not so much with the angle of what we are going to get out of this thing, but so far as the war effort is concerned. Let's get this thing down so we can all get a job done. Maybe last year took care of the whole thing and I hope it did, but if we are going to be faced with delays in unloading, we are going to be in a jam to take care of it this year. However, I think you boys can iron it out without the help of anybody else.

Woxberg: We disagree. It has been attempted to be worked between our organization and people involved, but it doesn't get anywhere. We think our plan was sound. The Government seems to step in in other cases like this and we don't see why they can't step in in this case—not for wages and hours but for the delays involved. These operators are contending that the swampers are the main source of evil in hindrance. We recognize they might be, but our union is no party to it and we want it solved. We say that leaving out the question of wages and working conditions, if the Market Association or those operators involved would get together amongst themselves and hire the swampers on a regular pay roll of some kind and unload every truck coming through that market and pay them by some centrally located secretary, you will eliminate 90 per cent of the trouble. It can be done. Why they don't do that, I don't know. They criticize, but offer no solution. We maintain it is a problem. Even the Internal Revenue and Social Security and Income Tax deductions are not being made. This should be brought to the attention of those people to investigate. Ramsey pointed out that one swamper didn't have a Social Security card. How do we know that man wasn't a draft dodger?

Krueger: On the solution of this deal, whom would you suggest that we put on a committee to follow this through? You are better acquainted with the people involved. Who do you think should get together on a small committee to bring this in and work it out?

Woxberg: Representatives of the ODT, the War Manpower Commission, the Market Association, the Motor Truck Association, and our own union.

Krueger: Anybody else?

Weston: Is there any other interested truck association?

Woxberg: Not that we recognize.

Grant: None that I know of.

Krueger: Would you suggest that Grant take hold again? He is acquainted with all angles and might be the proper man to take it in hand.

Woxberg: I think the Government should take a forward position in this question.

Wertman: The ODT is interested only in seeing that the trucks move. Labor Management, War Manpower, and Internal Revenue can get in. ODT can't get in and regulate wages.

Woxberg: We can sit down and argue with the operators all day long but get no solution. Somebody will have to sit in and wield a stick. You will have to do something besides criticize and tell the union to do something else. We are willing to agree to almost any means to solve this problem. Why can't somebody put it into effect?

Krueger: It may go so far that we will have to dispatch each truck, to where it is most vitally needed.

Grant: It will happen without the slightest question of a doubt if and when ODT takes over the Joint Information Office.

Krueger: Yes.

Woxberg: When this is brought to the attention of the Internal Revenue Bureau where employers are paying men wages and not living up to income tax law, there should be something done; also when men are found working without social security cards. War Manpower is interested because of the distribution of manpower. ODT is interested in the moving of equipment.

Ramsey: Would the unions be willing to give permission to any operator who had employees in 208 or 630 to operate in the market without swampers?

(No answer)

Ramsey: You want to pass it to somebody else; give it to us. We will go in and make our own deliveries. If a man wants to come in and he has one of his drivers working on a commission of 25% to haul the load and wants to give two swampers $15 for unloading, let him do it. It's up to him. If we can say to the swampers, "You either unload or we'll unload ourselves," that naturally would be a breakdown of 630, which I don't think they want.

Grant: Might I ask you this question? Wasn't there an agreement between 630 and 208 that 208 wouldn't go into the market?

Weston: We permit one 208 man to bring the shipment in but insist on one Local 630 man going with him. The line driver is not allowed to unload because he has already done a day's work and is tired already. We turn it over to one or two local men and they unload. I think Hendrix has the best solution—maintaining his own dock. I don't see why the whole deal couldn't be worked out on a similar basis.

Grant: Assume they take three or four swampers from 630 and put them on their payroll at $60 or $70 per week. Working alongside men from 208 who are not getting the same wages. Then you will get right into a fight. There may be times when they won't have use for 630 swampers when they can use them for something else. If we do as P.F.L. or Southern California Freight you will start trouble.

Ramsey: I tried that. I had three men and kept them just five days and paid them $60 apiece. I'd say they were run out of the market. They were intimidated by conversations such as, "Why should you work for $60 a week when we make that for three days and take the other three days off? Very disagreeable to work under those conditions.

Westman: That solution still won't answer the problem for dozens of individual operators who come in.

Krueger: I believe in one of our meetings we had a discussion came up about the individual hauler—the farmer who comes in with his own load. Will you enlarge on that so we will know what they agreed to do, Mr. Weston?

Weston: If he comes in with his own merchandise within a radius of Los Angeles, Ventura, Orange, Riverside, and San Bernardino Counties west of Banning, there is no necessity of employing anyone else unless he so desires.

Krueger: Wasn't that about a 90-mile area?

Weston: Approximately. It was set up to eliminate doubt. Some might maintain Riverside was 90 miles, when we know it is not that far.

Krueger: You said where he grows his own vegetables. Since the Japanese have been evacuated from this area, the question came up in a meeting on May 31, 1943, with the Chairmen of the various County Farm Transportation Committees in this district as to the use of the farmer's truck hauling a neighbor's produce when a common carrier is not available in order to keep the produce from spoiling. When checking into this we found that we were able to use such trucks in this movement and that these trucks are exempted from the 3% Federal tax imposed under the Internal Revenue Act of 1942, and that there is an exemption in the Transportation License Tax Act as in effect July 1, 1941. The California Railroad Commission has also viewed this operation with favor. In a letter written by Ray L. Riley, Commissioner, to Dave Davis at Chairman of the USDA War Board at Berkeley on June 24, 1942, it was stated that the use of the farmer's trucks should be encouraged during this emergency without conflicting in any way with the rulings of the California Railroad Commission. Insurance companies have also granted riders with the truck insurance to cover such an operation. In view of these facts it would seem that your organization in the market would grant the farmer permission to unload his own load without having swampers unless he himself deems it necessary.

Weston: As far as I am personally concerned, it won't make a great deal of difference. We must see the regulation is not abused.

Krueger: We have to control this movement for all Government agencies that are involved on that deal. They have given us leeway in an emergency only to use these trucks. Perhaps you could give concession. It is hard to say who grew the load. It still belongs to that farmer when he brings it in.

Weston: The truck operator is more interested in that than I am.

General Discussion.

Grant: What is the position of the C.R.C. in Dale Ramsey's case? He comes in the market with a 28¢ rate required to pick up two swampers. Is he assessed an accessorial charge in addition to his rate?

Wilson: Who is the service performed for? The carrier or the consignee? The shipper, or the owner of the goods? One point that is not clear here is who is responsible for these charges. The conversation all seems to run to the carrier. Dale is a common carrier; Boyce is a contract carrier. Dale runs in and says, "Mr. Harris, here's your load of stuff." We stands ready to unload it, but he gets it there to the door and can't unload. He says, "I'M ready to put your goods on your deck." Mr. Weston says, "You can't," who are the Weston men working for, Dale or Harris? Who is responsible? Does Harris pay it, or Dale? That is the only feature we are interested in. A lot of shippers are complaining about these charges being billed to them.

Westman: Are the rates predicated on store door delivery—delivered at the tail gate or off the tail gate?

Voices: Off.

Wilson: Ramsey says he is ready to unload at the dock. But Weston's men won't let him unload. Make whoever is responsible pay those men right there. Who are they working for?

Poteet: Is the man with his two hands able to contract a deal as well as Mr. Harris with a book and pencil? They are both contracting, but not doing a thing to grow or produce the article to be unloaded.

Grant: That same truck comes up from the same point with dry freight and the swamper comes up and lays it on the dock at the tail gate. He can perform the same service with produce as he can with dry freight. But for produce, the trucker pays $10 to $15 above dry freight out of his own pocket. Is that the accessorial service that he might charge the consignee?

Poteet: Let the operator set the goods on the walk and leave it.

Harris: That's the way they do — set it on the sidewalk at the market at the tail gate.

Ramsey: You can't do that; Kenny's man has to come and do it.

Wilson: When you arrive at the solution of who is responsible for paying these swampers, you will know whom to look to and make your deal with.

Ramsey: Why not use the same solution used at the Harbor area during the depression when nobody had a job? The truckers came to some likely looking lad and offered him a buck to unload a truck. So after while all these lads formed themselves into a union. At Long Beach they used to charge us 1¢ a sack to unload spuds. We had to go to the hiring hall. That was proven unconstitutional. The stevedores themselves said they had no jurisdiction over a situation of that kind and threw it out completely.

The trucker takes his ropes off and his tarpaulins and says, "There is your freight." It has been transported to the man receiving the freight. It has been transported to the man receiving the merchandise. Do you think a railroad company would send a carload down there and then send someone down there to help unload? This is just a racket. When we were all competing for business, we helped establish that racket ourselves.

If you can compare delivering produce with delivering freight at a man's door in the same breath, it doesn't make sense. For freight, the consignee has somebody there and takes the stuff off the trucks and that is any time between the hours of reason that he is open for business — and now they are open for business at unreasonable hours. If you have a hot load and say you have to get the truck out, he will moan, but he will send a man down to unload. Why should there be an excessive charge on a cheap commodity that is a perishable item compared to another item that is not and they both take the same rate?

Harris: As far as I can read tariffs in this State, they seem to include loading and unloading. It was put in at the time when they were competing with the railroads. "We will pick it up at the store door, and put it down at your store door." Prior to 1934, the Wholesale Produce Market was operated 24 hours a day and trucks arrived throughout all hours of the day and night. Generally speaking, the truck driver unloaded his own truck or he might pick up some fellow standing around to help. The house might unload. In 1934 we reduced the trading hours from 24 to 12, then about 1937, made a contract for unloading, with 630 covering the operation. At the same time 208 was extensively organizing the over-the-road truck drivers. With the shortening down of our operations, more trucks began arriving after the market opened; then there were any amount of these swampers in the markets. It was found out that the C.I.O. was in the market organizing these swampers, who previously were just standing around. So A.F.L. proceeded to organize and take into 630 these swampers, and I think it a good thing that non-friendly union didn't get a foothold.

Then our troubles developed after a couple of years in that these swampers were working at night without supervision. We had many complaints. The union put on two stewards in each market to keep the swampers lined up and regulate charges, insist that on the trucks coming in the line driver should not unload the truck and that it must be unloaded by a swamper. This whole operation is outside of our control or jurisdiction. We can't contract a swamper.

The contract with 630 affected other employees. The farmer with an old-time employee does not have to have a swamper to unload produce. If a farmer wants a swamper, the swamper must be a member of Local 630. This provision was put in against by better judgment, but other people saw no harm in it. I still think it has no place in our agreement.

A few years ago when various changes came about, these two business agents for 630 were laid off and the swampers since then have been without any definite control or jurisdiction and have pretty much gotten out of hand.

We do permit a house that handles a lot of vegetables to have one or more swampers and a supervisor an hour or so before opening time to sort merchandise for size, etc., and put it into the house ready for business. There has been evidence in the past year that these employees of ours will not unload a truck. As far as our contract provides, there is nothing to prevent a house from unloading a truck. We have never conceded to denial of that privilege. We could unload these trucks if we had the manpower available and cared to shoulder that expense. We have not assumed that expense and I have heard of certain instances where we were asked to unload but the truck driver said he would get a swamper. We could not blame him for trying to protect another union member by getting a job for him.

Grant: Regarding tariffs, rates and regulations surrounding these men were established by the California Railroad Commission. They took jurisdiction on their own motion. On a State-wide haul, they established the fact that these rates did include loading and unloading except cases where a man in addition is required.

Harris: When the C.R.C. came into the picture and put out regulations, they took recognition of what was actually being done at the time.

Grant: Not by carriers of all commodities.

Wilson: Generally speaking the rates of 10,000 pounds or less, as prescribed by the C.R.C. include loading into or unloading from the equipment. Shipments of 10,000 pounds or more include the service of the driver only, and if it requires more than 20 minutes per ton to unload that truck, then the additional charge runs against the shipper. If you pull in with over 10,000 pounds, it wipes out the regulations as far as the carrier is concerned.

Ramsey: If our driver has to hire unnecessary labor, it is up to us to say whether it is necessary; it is not up to the consignee—that is on loads under 10,000 pounds.

Wilson: I am just interested in who should pay these charges; if you can't unload it, who is responsible for the charge? It seems to be the thought that it should be performed by the carriers. We are trying to find out whether the carrier should.

Harris: If Dale Ramsey has a load of 9,000 pounds and the driver is not able to unload as contemplated in the tariff, from the point of view of the tariff only, he is not liable. But if his signed agreement is his line driver can't unload, then he is liable to have another driver or helper.

Wilson: In other words, he is supposed to unload the truck up to a certain point.

Ramsey: The original contract stated "a man who had not been on duty over 12 hours was permitted to unload." If he has been on duty over the 12-hour period, he is no longer obligated to pick up or deliver at any terminal en route. None of mine are on duty more than 8 or 9 hours coming here.

Krueger: How about the Internal Revenue Department? We haven't heard from them yet. Mr. Eifert, have you anything to add?

Eifert: I have nothing particular to add either personally or from the standpoint of the Department of Revenue. We are concerned only with a direct tax matter as such. What has to be straightened out at the terminals is not strictly a tax matter. Taxes are involved after the trouble happens, not while it is going on.

We are concerned primarily with the employer, not the employee. Both are involved with the Social Security. But with the Excise Tax and Withholding Tax, our deal is with the employer entirely. If he doesn't make deductions from his employees' wager, the deductions are collectible and assessable against him.

Boyce: Does a man, who works out of a hiring hall, have to have an Availability Certificate?

Woxberg: No. There is some kind of a waiver.

Grant: It is an Extended Certificate.

Woxberg: These swampers never had a steady job, the same as longshoremen.

Boyce & Grant: They have to have a slip.

Grant: If you send somebody to do 12 hours' work, he has to have an availability slip issued from the hiring hall. The USES made arrangements six or seven months ago for an extended certificate to casual labor. They can be issued after 5:00 PM at the hall to help the USES.

Boyce: That's the time to get their Social Security number.

Eifert: Our deal is with the employer. He is responsible to get the Social Security number and may be assessed $5.00 per missing number. This is done to protect the worker when reaches 65.

The Withholding Tax is taken from the employee; the employer is the trustee. We are in very little sense a means of leveling out a situation that we are not touched with.

Grant: The reason you arrived in the picture is because these market employees were refusing to allow anyone to make any deductions of any kind.

Eifert: It should not be difficult to tag every truck rolling into the markets and examine their books for wages paid, taxes withheld, etc. and say "Here it is." The regulations also say the Department of Internal Revenue may take the return and set up a return on an estimated basis and the employer has to file claim for abatement or otherwise. It is your problem here; it is all before we enter the picture. It would probably have a remedial effect if we took all the employers and saw that they make all of their deductions, but we doubt if we could act as a spearhead force. We have a system this year whereby all deductions for each employee by all employers will be shown. We can check up what each employee says he paid in withholding tax to each employer and if each of these employers doesn't have a slip to correspond, we will be knocking on Ramsey's door and asking, "Where is that withholding tax?"

Harris: The fellows doing the most objecting are not making returns.

Eifert: Some put it in petty cash or say it is expense for a trip.

Ramsey: How many of those people checked at the market were paying Social Security, etc.?

Eifert: The majority of them were not. They were either absorbing it or the resistance to collection was too great.

Ramsey: That condition exists more now than in the past.

Grant: It is mandatory that the employer collect. If he doesn't he has the responsibility of payment. The law itself means—if you don't collect, you're stuck with it. If an employer seeks to absorb it coming out of his funds, whether he has an allowable deduction on his income tax return, I don't know.

Krueger: Gentlemen, it is getting late. Let us set up our committee, who can then take over.

After a short discussion, it was agreed the committee should be made up of the following:

George Grant, for War Manpower Commission and Motor Truck Association
Homer Harris, Market Association
S. H. Wilson, California Railroad Commission
L. B. Eifert, Bureau of Internal Revenue
H. L. Woxberg, Teamsters' Union 224
Kenny Weston, Produce Drivers' Union Local 630
R. A. Wertman, For-Hire Carrier Specialist, ODT

Lassalette and Twombley contended the USDA War Boards had no part in this and should not be represented on the committee.

Krueger: This committee should have a meeting within the next few days. We have to get it settled now; no use fooling around. Scales and rates are up to the union.

It was agreed that this being the case, the meeting should be held next Monday, January 31, at 10:00 a.m. in the conference room on the third floor, 1031 South Broadway, Los Angeles. Further reports as to progress should come from Mr. Wertman.

Meeting was adjourned at 4:30 p.m.

Summarized Testimony of August Witte, Grower, Packer, Shipper of Reedley, California

Opening the hearing, the chairman stated the purpose of the investigation was to learn the facts regarding the handling of produce from farms, especially in relation to the charges and practices of lumpers and swampers.

Chairman Hatfield: "* * * There have been quite a number of complaints * * * by farmers and truckers * * * in relation to alleged abuses. In order to ascertain what the situation is the committee has decided to have these meetings."

The first witness was August Witte, a grower, packer, and shipper of Reedley, California. He stated that he had been operating trucks for the delivery of farm oduce to the Los Angeles Terminal Market for about 15 or 16 years; that, at the present, he was operating three of his own trucks and that he had employed other truckers, in all he had about eight trucks. He hauled mostly tree fruit, nectarines, plums, peaches; packed his own fruit and he also bought fruit from other growers, loaded all of his own fruit in the packing shed between about 2 o'clock in the afternoon, working as late as 10 or 11 o'clock at night. Some of his trucks started leaving at 5 o'clock, some at 6, some at 7, some at 8, and some at 9 o'clock in the evening. The driver took about 9 hours to reach the Los Angeles Terminal Market.

He said that when his drivers arrived at the market they had to hire two men, known as swampers, who charged 1¼ cents a box to take them from the platform and place them on the dock and $1 was charged for loosening the ropes. This operation consisted of unloading the truck onto the sidewalk.

Mr. Witte was asked to explain the relationship between charges made at the present time, Wednesday, August 30, 1944, and those made a year ago. He stated: "A year ago they charged $1.25 an hour * * * and then they wasn't satisfied and then they charged by the truckloads. I think it was $2, $2 and $3 last year and some charged even $4 a load, and now it costs me a 1¼¢ a box. It cost me about, * * * in round figures, sometimes they have a couple of boxes, more or less, around $8 to $8.25 for each truckload." Mr. Witte said that the swampers were all union men and belonged to Local 630 as he understood it. He stated that when the truck arrived at the market these men jumped on the trucks.

Mr. Witte said that while he did not go to the market himself, he knew that the charges were greater than they were last year, over twice as much. "The drivers tell me that they unload the truck in between 30 and 40 minutes, and some swampers make between $30 and $40, to $45 in 5 or 6 hours. They unload 5 or 6 truckloads in that time."

Mr. Witte stated that last year he had shipped more than 300,000 lugs of fruit into the Los Angeles Market, but that he quit already this year. He was asked why he had quit and stated: "I don't want to pay those prices. That is too much. I cannot afford it. I will leave my fruit hanging on the trees and rot before I will bring it in."

The chairman asked the witness if these excessive charges were the reason he was failing to bring his fruit into the Los Angeles Market and he replied: "Yes, that is the main reason." He was then asked if he had had any difficulty with the swampers or lumpers in relation to withholding tax, and he replied: "Yes. That is what we can never get." Asked to explain, he said that he couldn't get the names but lately, they gave the Social Security numbers. "I have the forms printed now. I have the swamper sign his name and the Social Security number and then we fix these up."

The chairman then asked the question: "As I understand it, your statement is to the effect that these lumpers or swampers will not permit you to withhold the withholding tax?" He stated that he pays the Federal Government the withholding tax because the Collector of Internal Revenue ruled that they are employees and that he had to pay the taxes.

The chairman asked Mr. Witte if it was true that in addition to the increase in rates which he said had amounted to about 100 per cent that he also had to pay the withholding tax and the Social Security tax. Mr. Witte replied that was the fact that in addition, they had trouble in relation to their Social Security numbers. He stated: "* * * We have a lot of slips. The girl at the office always throws them away until we found out through the revenue officer that we got to get the numbers and finally we got them. Now, lately, we insist on the drivers not coming back unless they get the Social Security number."

The chairman stated that he had a list of the charges Mr. Witte had given the investigator for the committee, setting forth the payments made by him to the lumpers, and asked Mr. Witte: "That is a list of charges, day by day on deliveries of fruit in June and July of this year to the swampers?" Mr. Witte said that was true and that generally the charges were about 100 per cent increase over the payment that he was making last year.

(The document referred to was marked Exhibit No. 1.)

Senator Crittenden then asked the witness where he delivered his fruit and he replied to the Seventh Street Market in one house and the Ninth Street Markets, that they were not private markets, but wholesale markets and that he sold his fruit to them.

Senator Crittenden: "Who unloads, you or the market?"

The Witness: "The Union man and the driver."

Senator Crittenden: "Who do they work for, you or the market?"

The Witness: "They work for me."

Senator Crittenden: "You must unload your fruit at the market?"

The Witness: "Yes."

Senator Crittenden: "Before the market will take it?"

The Witness: "Yes, that is it."

Senator Crittenden: "Then, again, where do you hire these men?"

The Witness: "When the trucks come over the street, close to the market, the Union men, they jump right on the trucks. They know my trucks and they go with the truck."

Senator Crittenden: "Are there any agreements made between you or the driver or with the Union or anything?"

The Witness: "No, not that I know of."

Senator Crittenden: "You don't know the men that climb on the truck?"

The Witness: "The drivers tell me every night they have different swampers on the truck. * * * Sometimes, we will say today is Monday, the same boys will come Tuesday, then they disappear and somebody else comes. You see, my driver, when the truck is unloaded, they count the boxes and sees on the bill of lading so many boxes and the driver pays them with cash. When the driver comes home, he gets his pay check for the expenses on the load."

Senator Crittenden: "There is no agreement made between anybody as to how many men it is going to require?"

The Witness: "No."

Senator Crittenden: "Or how much time?"

The Witness: "No."

Senator Crittenden: "Or the price?"

The Witness: "No."

Senator Crittenden: "Your driver and no one else knows who these men are? You don't even know whether the fruit will be accepted by the markets before it is unloaded?"

The Witness: "Oh yes, we know every night that they expect so many thousand lugs of peaches or whatever we have."

At this point Assemblyman Hastain took over the questioning and asked Mr. Witte if it were true that when the driver goes into the market, it is up to the driver to contact whoever unloads the fruit, and Mr. Witte replied that was the case but that the driver does not have anything to say about how many men are required for the unloading. "They just come and unload and he pays them what they ask for, and I give strict orders not to pay more than 1¼ cents."

Assemblyman Hastain asked him if his driver had anything to say about the number of men, and the witness replied: "I think there is some kind of union rules, the bigger trucks more money and the smaller trucks a little bit less." Mr. Witte said that the charges were by the box. "Last year, the first part of the season, we paid by the hour and a couple of trips we have to pay by the truckload. It was $2 and $3 for a truckload, later on it was $4. Now it is over $8, more or less. My trucks usually haul 580, sometimes 70, sometimes 90, sometimes 600."

Assemblyman Hastain asked if he had ever had his own men unload his trucks, and he stated that it could not be done.

Chairman Hatfield asked: "Why."

The witness replied: "They have to belong to the union. The swampers have to unload the truck."

The chairman asked the witness if he meant that the union wouldn't permit it and he said: "No." The chairman then asked him if his own men did unload the fruit, would the commission houses take it and he said: "Oh yes, sure they would take it."

Summarized Testimony of Allen Remy, Truck Driver of Sanger, California

The next witness was Allen Remy, truck driver for Mr. Witte, living in Sanger. He stated that he was not a member of the union, but that he owned and operated his own truck, hauling for Mr. Witte.

Chairman Hatfield asked him to explain the situation in the market and he replied: "Well, as you enter the market, turning off of Alameda on Seventh Street or Ninth Street, or whichever market we happen to go to, the fellows (swampers) will be out in the street and they will jump on your truck." * * * and escort you to the market and unload your fruit * * *" Asked if he had any choice of selection, he stated: "If there is more than the amount you need, why, you can pick out the men you want and take them with you." He stated he did not have any negotiations with them before about what they would charge, except just the agreement that the union had; that he had no union contract, had not signed it, but had seen it when brought out for settling arguments; however, had never signed any contract and had never had a contract offered to him to sign. He stated the basis of charges 1½c a lug up to 39 pounds; after that 1¾c plus 50c a man for the ropes.

Asked what a "chop suey" load was, Mr. Remy replied: "A load that is distributed all over the market." If the load contained more than one kind of produce or was delivered to more than one place in the market, he stated, there was no extra charge for a chop suey load going within three markets if you could bluff them out of it, but they would try to charge you extra. He stated he was operating a 10 ton Chevrolet hauling peaches about 700 lugs and the heaviest stuff was less, anywhere from 500 to 700. He then stated he paid the swampers about $10 for unloading.

Asked how long it would take them to unload 700 lugs of peaches, he stated: "* * * from 30 to 45 minutes; maybe an hour at sometimes." He didn't believe it ever took longer than an hour including untying of the ropes. He stated they made a charge of 50c per man for untying the ropes. Asked if he ever attempted untying his own ropes, he replied: "It doesn't make any difference whether you untie them or they, it is still 50c per man. It is either for untying the rope or service charge, whichever way you want it."

The witness was asked if he felt that he could unload the peaches himself and he said: "Yes." Asked why he hadn't done that, he said: "Well, they will tell you in a polite way that you had better not do it." Asked what he meant by that, the witness said: "Well the union is supposed to unload them, they say and that is it." The witness was then asked: "When you say they tell you in a 'polite way,' tell me anything that has happened down there that you know of." The witness said:

"For example, one morning, why, we were going to the C. A. Glass Co. and pick up a swamper at Seventh Street. All right, then we had to wait about 30 minutes for that market to open. We were early, so the swamper left. In the meantime, instead of walking back up to Seventh to get a swamper, why, we started to unload ourselves and here come the union steward and jumped all over us, and he couldn't do anything because we had taken the swamper down there, but he said if we hadn't taken a swamper down there he would make us pay anyway whether we unloaded it or they unloaded it, but being as we had then taken a swamper that we were in the clear."

Asked if he was satisfied with the situation or did he criticize and what was his reaction, he stated that he would criticize it and testified:

"Well, if a man owns his own truck and drives it, why can't he do with it as he wants to do?"

Asked why he didn't unload his own truck himself, he replied, "On account of the union."

He was asked: "Do you mean you are in fear of physical violence or what do you mean by that?" The witness replied: "I imagine it would come to that, yes."

The chairman asked if that was the thing he had on his mind and he replied: "Yes."

The chairman asked the witness what he paid his driver to deliver 700 lugs of peaches from Reedley to the market and returning with his truck to Reedley. The witness replied that he would get about $20 and it took around 16 or 17 hours; the driver loaded the truck at Reedley, and two men would unload the 700 lugs of peaches in something under an hour.

Asked if the swampers showed any credentials when they took charge of your truck for unloading, Mr. Remy said: "Yes, they do if they are asked to, yes. They show you credentials showing them to be a member of some union." He stated there was no talk about the price to be charged when they get on the truck "because when you read the contract, why, you know what it is anyway." He stated it was 1¼c per lug plus 50c per man for the ropes which prevailed since the first of that season so far as he knew.

Asked if he ever attempted to unload his own truck, he stated he had, and, asked what happened, he replied: "The union steward was up there right astraddle my neck." The witness said he did not know his name, but was asked where his 630 helper was. He said: "I brought one down there but he had left."

Asked if there had ever been any violence over the unloading of the trucks, he stated none that he knew of.

Assemblyman Hastain asked Mr. Remy if he had had any split loads in the market and he said: "Occasionally," that he was never charged over and above the stipulated price for unloading split loads. Mr. Remy stated the contract allowed $1 per stop per man for anything going out of the Seventh, Eighth or Ninth Street Market, but that he personally had not paid those extra charges.

Assemblyman Lowrey asked what happened following discussion regarding the 630 man. Mr. Remy said he let him go ahead and unload because since he had taken a man down there "he couldn't force us to hire a swamper or pay the charges."

Senator Crittenden asked him who the parties were to the contract and he stated he didn't pay any attention to the signatures, and that if there are any farmers' signatures he didn't know of them. "It comes from the Union hall. The Union stewards carry it around with them," he added.

Chairman Hatfield asked him if he would recognize the contract if he saw it and he said he believed he would, then was handed a document and asked if that was the contract, and he said it looked like it. The chairman asked him if that was what was produced every time any dispute came up. Remy said: "Yes."

(The document referred to was marked Exhibit No. 2)

Assemblyman Hastain asked the witness if he was requested to sign it and he said: "No, sir."

The chairman asked him if during all this time these things happened to him when he would take a look at the contract, were during the time he was working for Mr. Witte and he said: "Yes."

The chairman noted that he had already testified that he never signed the contract, never had the contract presented to him.

Senator Crittenden then asked him: "In other words, trucks can't be unloaded unless this contract is either signed up with the union and the truck driver, or the owner, or the party who is delivering the fruit, or even if the contract is not signed, it has got to be complied with; is that right?"

The Witness: "They tell us it has to be complied with, and nobody has ever asked for a signature or anything that I know of."

Summarized testimony of D. C. Ramsey, engaged in highway transportation, common carrier for 15 years, 2115 E. 25th Street, Los Angeles, California.

The next witness was D. C. Ramsey, 2115 E. 25th Street, Los Angeles, engaged in highway transportation, common carrier for 15 years in the Los Angeles area between Los Angeles and Imperial Valley. He stated he delivered to the Los Angeles market at the present time operating five line trucks, engaged strictly in over the-road transportation, and hauled all types, particularly lettuce, carrots, canteloupes, cabbage, pears. He stated his story went back a little farther than the present day operations and the chairman asked him if he would give the committee a history of the whole thing. He made the following statements for the record:

"Originally the swampers gathering, or group started out in the following fashion: A number of operators in the transportation of produce haul one way only, that is to bring a load to town, and pick up the empty boxes and go back. A driver would attempt and did the biggest part of the time make a round trip in one day. That is, between Los Angeles and Imperial Valley. That is a distance of about 220 miles round figures. So, these drivers would pay out of their own pocket to somebody to help them unload so they could get unloaded in a hurry and get their empties on and return so they could consumate this trip in a one-day period so they could get in and get out that night. Well, that proceeded along. These fellows used to work for oh, they would unload a load for a $1. After a period of time it was incorporated—these fellows were all gathered together and incorporated under Local 630. Now, Local 630 comprises a union which has supervision over the two market areas of Ninth and Seventh Street. * * * I don't know exactly what their trade name is, but it is the Produce Handlers and Workers. It is a local of the Teamsters International. This Local 630 has jurisdiction over the salesmen, over the market help plus the swampers. In the last three years the rates for unloading have increased about 100 per cent, with no authority that I have been able to find from the War Labor Board or any regulatory bodies. Their rate after they became established was $1 an hour for one man per truck. Your own driver was permitted to assist in the unloading. Then they had another meeting and it was a $1 an hour per man, 2 men to a truck. Then the next step was $1.50 an hour per man, 2 men to a truck with a minimum of $2 an hour. Then the next step was the contract rates that we are all operated under but very few have signed, which is 1¼ cents on merchandise in lugs."

"* * * (they had) a meeting within theirselves. They could call a meeting of the swampers and agree that they were going to handle the merchandise in this fashion and then we would just appear on the market one morning and here would be a new rate without any advice of what had been going on. While it was on the per hour basis, per man, none of these swampers would work for that figure. There is no centralized location where you pick up your swampers in the market, but you will soon find them if you attempt to unload without their help. They collect at different points. So after a while you know where you must go to find them, but they are not always there. I have had trucks delayed as high as four and five hours waiting for a swamper or swampers to unload my trucks. They are mostly made up of the colored boys and Mexicans and a very combative type of man, too. That has always been true. Years ago there was a number of white fellows who worked over there, but the colored and Mexicans have practically eliminated the white fellows. They run the deal just about the way they want to do it among themselves. The 9th Street Market is almost strictly colored and the 7th Street Market is almost all Mexicans. That is my experience. I can't state positively that they have the divisions in that fashion, but that is the way I have found it. I might say there are two or three very fine fellows, good, hard working men that really earn their money that are still swampers."

"Well," Mr. Ramsey continued, "your driver would appear at the point of centralization where the swampers were supposed to be located and a couple of these boys would amble out and take a look at the load and say: 'I will unload you for $18.' Rate of pay is $1.50 an hour for 300 packages of lettuce, we will say. * * * about 90 pounds * * * if they are unloading at a house that has a platform, a raised platform, 2 men can take 300 packages off in an hour and a half. * * * (receiving) $18. That is, $9 a piece. I might say the general average for unloading for the past two years has been $5 an hour or greater. They wouldn't work for less than that. I am paying on a per package basis (which works out at) about $5 an hour. I have the figures here of the past week's work, and I will go into it later to substantiate that. (To give the broad picture first) * * * your driver has instructions from me not to pay over $1.50 an hour and he would say: 'No. I won't do it.' So he would sit there. Finally after he got tired of cooling his heels he would call me either at my house or at the office. I would call the union. The union would go down and say: 'These boys won't work for that kind of money. They say they are contracting these loads and have got to have more money.' Well, in desperation—here you have got a load of merchandise on your truck that the market wants to sell. You get a bad reputation if you don't deliver the merchandise on time—so in desperation you pay. Then my next move would be to get a hold of one of the reigning heads of Local 630 and we talk the matter over, and he would say it would never happen again."

The chairman asked Mr. Ramsey who he got hold of and he replied: "Recently it has been Ken Weston, before that it was Chapman, and before that it was various and sundry other fellows. 'Well, it won't happen again.' The next day it repeated itself. For the loads that we got unloaded for $1.50 an hour, it wouldn't constitute one-fifteenth of the business coming in. A year ago now, I was operating 22 trucks. I couldn't make any money hauling produce so I reduced my operations to five line haul trucks and give produce a wide berth any time and place that I can. I can't refuse to take it because I am a common carrier but I certainly can load the trucks with other merchandise and not have any space available.

The witness was then asked if it were true that the reason he was seeking to avoid the produce was on account of the swamper situation, and he said: "(Yes) that situation and my prevailing rates." He said that he was regulated by the Railroad Commission and the Office of Defense Transportation, and the OPA and that he could not operate at a profit on account of the excessive swamper charges.

Continuing, Mr. Ramsey said: "We will take, for instance, 300 crates of lettuce constituting a load of lettuce for my trucks. Well, that will weigh, say 24,000 pounds, for which I get 26c a hundred. You take your swamper fees out of there, your driver's fees, your picking up and assembling it at Imperial Valley, and you have got nothing left for anything that even looks like an operating profit. Eliminating the swamper situation, your rates don't compensate just ordinary expense of handling. Then put the swamper situation on top and all you can look at is red ink in the face. Well, to proceed along, we are up to where the swamper gets on the truck. Well lots of times drivers will get tired of waiting. They will proceed over to a place where they are to unload. Sometimes the market houses will permit them to unload without swampers. Well, the business agent will watch your truck until it is about two-thirds unloaded, and then he will swoop down on you with two men and you are compelled to hire these two men to finish your load and you pay them for the full unloading."

Assemblyman Lowrey asked: "Supposing you don't, what happens?" Mr. Ramsey replied: "You would look funny without any teeth."

Assemblyman Lowrey asked him if that had happened. He replied: "Many times. There have been more fights in that market than there has been anything else. There is not so much more any more because everybody has quit. They know they can't win, but you get a lot of these boys like I have, drivers from Texas and Oklahoma and Arkansas and some colored lad comes up there and tells him what to do, there is trouble right now. I have had them beat to where I couldn't recognize them and I never was in the habit of hiring drivers as pugilists. I wanted truck drivers. Once in a while you can get one that will do both but very seldom."

He was asked if he had ever made any complaints to the authorities, the district attorney's office, or the police, in relation to it. He replied: "Yes. They are too busy to appear. If they see the fight they go up to the next corner until it is over. We had a meeting here about a year ago, the ODT, the OPA, a representative from Mr. Howser's office, from the sheriff department, the local police, the Internal Revenue, Social Security—well, practically everybody I can think of and they were all down in the market and walked around and looked at conditions. They are all very, very surprised that such things could happen. They are still happening."

Asked what happened, Mr. Ramsey continued: "Nothing (happened). They just looked and proceeded quietly on their way and didn't come back. A big percentage of these swampers refused to pay Social Security. I know they don't pay any income tax. They say they are contractors. Now, the Internal Revenue looks down my neck to collect that tax. Well, if you can't collect it, what are you going to do."

The witness was asked if he paid the withholding tax and he replied: "On all of those that I can catch and get to come in my office, but a lot of them will say, 'No, I won't go over there, that Ramsey will deduct Social Security and Withholding tax.' They will tell the driver, 'You pay me here'."

He was asked if he meant that he had to pay the Collector of Internal Revenue the withholding tax in addition to the extra charges made by the swampers. He replied that he hadn't yet but, "I have been looking forward to that day and when that happens I don't know what I am going to do, but I don't think I am going to pay any withholding tax or any Social Security. Under these conditions if they want me to go out of business they should have told me a couple of years ago."

"In other words," he was asked: "You still have that liability, that problem to face?" He said: "Always." He was then asked: "Up to this time has the Collector of Internal Revenue of this District indicated to you whether he considers them independent contractors, or whether he considers them as employees?" He replied: "All he has told me is 'Until a decision is made, you collect it.' Now, I make every effort, but it comes around to the point where it is killing a driver or getting him badly beaten up, and getting him into hospital to keep from paying it, I let the driver go ahead and pay them. I can't do anything else. The same thing applies (to the Social Security tax)."

"I attempt to get all these swampers to come to my office to get their checks. I will pay them immediately upon arrival when they turn in their time slip for their unloading package amounts." He stated about 75 per cent of them come in for their checks on which he withheld both the Social Security and the Withholding tax, and there still were 25 per cent paid in cash, the driver paying and turning in the slip to him. "In the market contract," Ramsey continued, "that the Ninth and Seventh Street Markets have with Local 630, there is a clause in there that says that they can at any time that they so desire assist in the loading or unloading without the assistance of swampers." * * * "that is the contract between the Market Association and Local 630. The reason these produce houses will not assist, they like the deal, I am paying their labor. Now, a common carrier has a tariff which is his bible and he promises to do a job of transportation as per the terms of that tariff, which is virtually a contract. If I do any more, I violate it. If I do any less, I violate it. My personal opinion is I am violating my common carrier's permit because all I am doing is rebating $17 per truck in every market house I deliver to. I stand ready, willing and able at all times to deliver my load 25 feet from the end of the truck, which is the terms of my tariff with my own driver, or with my own help, which I am not permitted to use. So doing this work with them I am just out and will probably end up by being in difficulty with the California Railroad Commission for being accused of rebating. That is the other bad feature."

The witness was then asked: "From the standpoint of the farmer or grower, the produce house wouldn't take that stuff until it is on the sidewalk or on the loading platform." He replied: "That was correct, and they want you to stack and sort it, which I pay for also." * * * "that all goes into this 1¼ cents per package. Sometimes I am able to collect from the consignee for this stacking and sorting. Over 16,000 pounds I can. If I hire two men I can charge $1.03 an hour for their time." He stated he was permitted to charge for that under the terms of his tariff on file with the California Railroad Commission, if the load consisted of one shipment over 16,667 pounds. He continued: "I will be paying $1 an hour or $5 an hour per man. As a common carrier my rules and regulations are somewhat different than the contract carrier, having been both at one time I know a few of the terms of the contract carrier. They take and raise the rates to meet these unloading conditions, which eventually the farmer pays. That is, the contract hauler. I attempted to do the same thing and put it on my tariff on the basis that these were not my employees—and I still contend they are not my employees—and by a decision of the California Railroad Commission was forced to refund these unloading charges, which I am doing." He took the position and the Railroad Commission ruled against him and required him to make a refund of that amount. The official ruling by the Railroad Commission was made June 6th and he promised to furnish the committee with a copy of it.

Mr. Ramsey continued: "The reason that I contend that these swampers are not employees of mine, is I don't have a contract with the union, with Local 630. They are parasites, so far as I am concerned. I have my own men who are capable of doing their own loading with the assistance of the consignee as per the terms of the tariff and could do it in a faster or more efficient manner with one tenth of the cost. As it is now I pay my driver $1.15 an hour to sit there and do nothing. He can't even untie his ropes. He can't fold his tarps. Our losses are tremendous by the swampers handling our unloading because they get this man's merchandise over here, and this fellow is short four here and this fellow over here is over four and before it is over you never find them because I think they take it home. I couldn't go on record as proving that but I never find them and I know they are checked out of the El Centro Terminal by three checkers and I know they are almost correct."

"My market losses this year will probably end up being $800 or $900 which I have to pay. * * * (for) "short, (crates) damaged—probably there isn't 50 per cent of those lumpers over there who know how to handle a crate. The rest of them just have strong backs and find out how much these boys are making and quit war time jobs to go into parasite business."

Senator Crittenden asked Mr. Ramsey if the swampers got regular employment. The witness replied that they work so regular that he would say their yearly employment, based on an eight-hour day, would average at least 10 months of the year.

He was asked to state how many hours a day they worked while they are employed at that kind of work. He stated he couldn't make any positive statement, but that their general average was about eight hours a day. He explained that the trucks came often enough so that there was employment for this type of work approximately eight hours a day during those 10 months; they not only unloaded the trucks, after they finished the unloading, they loaded them back on the same basis of pay. * * * "The contention of the union is that they don't work regularly, that they work two hours, then they loaf two hours. If they loaf two hours it is because they are loafing on their own free will and accord, because there isn't enough swampers in season to take care of the business, so the only thing happens they back up the truck. I have known as many as 35 and 40 trucks waiting to get swampers to unload."

Senator Crittenden asked the rate set by the California State Railroad Commission for his hauling. He stated that for the line haul it cost 5 cents a package. Explaining, he said: "Well, I am a little different in my operations than the average produce hauler. I don't come to Los Angeles with a load of produce and put on a load of empty crates and go on back. I haul freight back. My freight is at least five to one better revenue than produce, and I don't stand to lose anything on my freight because a case of bolts and nuts is not going to spoil or a harrow is not going to spoil or a package of * * * paper isn't going to spoil." He admitted he was making his money on other freight and lost 5 cents per unit hauling agricultural products. He added: "We pick up loads or we pick up and assemble shipments, of which we get as high as 53 cents a hundred pounds, or around 12 cents a package for, but on straight loads which I speak of, of which we get a great volume in season, that is the operating cost of it." (This discussion continued for some time.)

Mr. Ramsey continued: "* * * The Railroad Commission, I might say, is very favorable toward raising the rates. The OPA is very unfavorable."

Chairman Hatfield asked: "Didn't you have the strange anomaly of the Farm Bureau Federation coming before the OPA asking for an increase in rates to the common carrier on the hauling of grain and things of that kind last year?"

The witness stated that was correct. The Chairman asked: "In other words, the Farm Bureau, which has always fought increases of revenue came in and supported the increase of rates because of the very situation you pointed out?"

The witness replied that was correct. "That was on grains because it was laying in the field."

Senator Crittenden asked if he had ever taken up the issue of charges with the Union under this agreement which provided for the appointment of an arbitrator, and introduced a contract inquiring if the witness had signed with the Union, and the witness replied: "No."

Senator Crittenden continued: "And so I presume that you have never taken up any of your complaints in regard to charges for swampers with the Union, have you?" The witness replied that it had been taken up by their outlet which was the California Motor Truck Association, to which the majority of them belonged. Mr. Anthony was at the head. He continued: "At one time I was appointed by the Produce Haulers in this Southern District to act and speak for them in their absence. So we have had at least 10 meetings with the Market Association, Mr. Harris and the President of the Market Association, Mr. Hooker, and Mr. Weston of the Union, Mr. Grant of the Motor Truck Association, and myself. Each and every time we have had one of these meetings in a few days the conditions were worse than they were before and where there was a big meeting held it resulted in an increase in our unloading charges."

The witness stated that there had been one definite attempt to arbitrate with formal arbitrators; that the Union appointed one, that Mr. Grant and Mr. Harris and Mr. Weston appointed, but that they did not come to any conclusion or file a report, nor had they made any definite rulings that they turned over to him. He was asked why they didn't and replied: "Well, these things, after a while, to individuals lose interest, and after four years of fighting the condition I have lost interest. I know positively in my own mind, through my own efforts, I can't beat it. All I am going to do is to get myself probably knocked around, which has happened and could happen again, of which I have no fear but you just get so worn out and beat up, although you can see this money being beat out of your pockets, that you give up and say, * * * 'if that is the situation we have got to contend with, I have either got to do that or get out of business.'"

Assemblyman Hastain asked the witness if it was correct that following these meetings the rates were ordinarily increased and he replied: "Three times." He was then asked if he could give any reason why those rates were increased. He said: * * * "because we were fighting it. * * * I agreed to one raise and that was the $1.50 an hour. That stayed in effect five minutes after the agreement. Then they went out to contracting. They said: 'We won't work for $1.50 an hour, we can't make our $30 or $40 a day.' * * * This thing has been carried from Local 630 up to Mr. Mohn's office, who is the International man, and he just will tell you point blank that he can't do anything with the Union or these fellows. They are bad boys and they don't know any way that they can do anything about it." The witness explained that Einer Mohn was the International man of Southern California for the Teamsters' Union.

Chairman Hatfield asked: "When did he have this conversation with you?"

The witness: "Not only with me, before a group representing the ODT, Mr. Harris of the Marketing Association, a representative from the California Railroad Commission, I think Mr. Wilson * * * in the fall of last year." The witness was told they were bad boys and he (Mohn) could not handle them and that he was at a loss to know what to do with them. He was referring to the swampers and lumpers members of 630.

Senator Crittenden asked the witness what the voluntary board had determined was the proper charge and he replied: "$1.50 an hour." (The witness discussed rates for 10-wheel trucks, bob-tailed trucks, and semi-, and trailers.)

Chairman Hatfield asked if it was correct that no man could earn less than $2. The witness replied: "That is correct. If he works 10 minutes or if he works 55 minutes or an hour."

Senator Crittenden asked the witness what he considered under present conditions a proper charge for unloading these trucks by swampers.

The witness declared that swampers were not needed, but, assuming they were needed, he pointed out they worked more than eight hours. "They work right through their eight hours or their 10 or their 12, so long as they want to work there is work around there for them. The Union scale for line drivers is $1.15 an hour. He spends one night away from home. He fights an old, dilapidated piece of equipment over the highway with bum tires, bum parts, bum everything. I am not speaking of my own equipment; I am speaking of everybody's. There isn't any good equipment left any more and any driver has those things to fight. He gets $1.15 an hour. He pays his own expenses on the highway. Here are fellows in that market who are home every night. They eat one meal away from home, probably, and they wouldn't have to eat any more than that. I would say $1 an hour would be a big price."

The witness was asked what the Railroad Commission allowed and he stated $1.03. He was also asked what other governmental agencies allowed and he made no comment. He was asked the Federal rate and he said they didn't set anything. "They don't say it is too high or don't say it is too low. The ODT, their limitation is this, they haven't anything to say about how much a man makes or how little he makes. What they are interested in is the obstruction of transportation when it is so vitally needed." He added that they are interested in getting the maximum of service out of the equipment available and keeping it moving.

The chairman then asked Mr. Ramsey if it were not true that sometime this year there was not a meeting called of representatives of the Railroad Commission, the OPA, Social Security, and other governmental agencies, and a general letter was sent out to all the truck owners and operators, commercial haulers, etc., for the purpose of a conference on the situation. The witness replied: "Yes."

The chairman asked him if it were not also true that they had the meeting and all the representatives were present and there were about four or five truck owners and he replied: "Yes." He stated he was at the meeting and continued; stating the meeting was held at Mr. Mohn's office, that Mr. Mohn had business in Seattle or San Francisco, so he turned the meeting over to the attorney for the International. He said the meeting was handled by a man named Walksburg who was the secretary, or president of Local 224. Local 224, he said, was the union handling only the line drivers, line haul drivers, the men who work between terminals—men who conduct the long distance transportation. His own drivers belonged to the union in El Centro, Local 898. The witness stated that he believed that the general letter came from Mr. Krueger's office (ODT). Before this meeting, he said, there was a preliminary survey made of the market. The witness continued: "We went to both markets, saw the money change hands from a truck driver to a swamper without any deduction of Social Security or any withholding tax, and the driver was asked why. The driver said: 'Well, ask this lad here.' So this colored boy said: 'We'uns do not pay any of these things. We'uns are contractors, and we'uns carry on along that line'."

"The meeting * * * was attended by four or five truck operators," the witness continued, "a representative from the Social Security, the Old Age, * * * and the Department of Internal Revenue. * * * Also by a Secretary of the Teamsters' Union at Santa Maria, and a Secretary of the Teamsters' Union at El Centro were present." The witness was asked why the Secretary of the two unions, one from Santa Maria and one from El Centro, were present, and he stated they were protesting the market situation because of the complaints of their individual members who were driving and were running up against the situation, but, he added, "they had no opportunity to express themselves or make any statements."

Asked by Chairman Hatfield to tell what transpired, he said: "Well, the first thing I was called upon—I have been more or less the instigator of a lot of these meetings, so I was called upon to state my case. I did it along the lines I have here today, bringing out all the bad features and what good ones I could think of which were very few. They then were discussed pro and con. The delay in securing swampers was threshed out. The contracting rates against the prevailing hourly rates was threshed out ond a committee of Mr. Grant of the Motor Truck Association, Homer Harris of the Market Association, and Mr. Weston of Local No. 630 * * * were appointed on a committee thresh this thing out. Two meetings, I believe, were held, and that is all. In the meantime this contract appeared. Nobody was ever told that this contract was going to be put into effect. It wasn't agreed upon by Mr. Grant or Mr. Harris, I am sure."

Chairman Hatfield asked: "The appearance of this contract was at the time that you had the meeting where there was a complaint based on the $1.50 per hour rate, that they weren't abiding by that, but were getting up to a $5 rate?" The Witness replied: "Yes."

Chairman Hatfield inquired: "Then they put this contract on a piece basis?"

The Witness: "Yes, which don't look so bad until you come to paying off."

Chairman: "Didn't you have a situation there at one time in which they established a hiring hall and to which you were supposed to go and pick up the men? In other words, there was a complaint about the fact that these fellows wouldn't take the $1.50 an hour and were out wanting an independent contract on every load?"

The Witness: "That is correct."

Chairman: "And they would tell you what to pay and you either paid it or you didn't get unloaded?"

The Witness: "That is correct."

Chairman: "So there was a complaint and they established a hiring hall that ran for about 48 hours?"

The Witness: "That is correct."

Chairman: "Tell us about that situation, what happened?"

Explaining the hiring hall situation, Mr. Ramsey continued: "After one of these meetings, which was attended by Mr. Harris and Mr. Weston and myself and Mr. Grant to work out something where the Union had better control over the men under their jurisdiction, in other words, the lumpers and the swampers, and where we could find them without driving from the Ninth Street Market to the Seventh Street Market and from the Seventh Street Market to the Ninth Street Market trying to find swampers to unload, which takes time, effort, and expense, the hiring hall was designated over on Standford Avenue at the Local 630's Union hall. All trucks were advised to make their appearance at that hall."

Chairman Hatfield: "In other words, the theory of that would be that a Union official would designate the two men that would go on that load and unload it?"

The Witness: "Yes."

Chairman: "At about $1.50 an hour?"

The Witness: "And come back after competion of the load."

Chairman: "And get paid off?"

The Witness: "Get paid off and be reassigned to the other truck."

Chairman: "That was to have the control so they would only get $1.50 an hour?"

The Witness: "That is correct."

The Witness was asked: "So what happened?"

Witness: "Well, the first night the union never had any idea of the volume of trucks coming in here, never had any conception, so the first night they completely filled Standford Avenue and backed them up all over town to where the police department had to send a patrol down there to take care of them."

Question: "They sent a ptarol down there and they arrested a lot of the truck drivers for obstructing traffic, didn't they?"

Witness: "They were going to write a lot of tickets until they found out what was happening, so what was really the background of that, the swamper would go out, well, if he wasn't going to get $15 for unloading the truck he would kill enough time in unloading it to build his hours up to $15, so the available supply of swampers reduced their efforts 80 per cent and went on a sit-down strike, you might say, and these trucks backed up and backed up until we had the town flooded and then the police department came."

Question: "Wasn't that the basis upon which they changed the rate from an hourly rate to a piece rate?"

Witness: "It didn't happen immediately after that, but I think,—well, my own opinion would be that they called the swampers in, the swampers, they run the meetings, nobody else runs them, if a fellow gets up and he wants to talk sense they holler and whistle him down until some of their men get up and express their side. So a secretary of the union has very little control. He is a paid employee by the members, they can throw him out on his ear any day they take a good notion to. So on this basis, if I was the secretary of a union and the union members were paying my salary and I liked my job and I didn't want to lose it, I wouldn't be too arbitrary about telling those boys what to do and what not to do. The president of a union can do that, because the president is paid by the International."

Question: "Has this local got a president?"

Witness: "No. This is in the hands of the receiver. Whenever they want to take the president out and make the secretary the reigning lord, why, they can do it."

Question: "Actually they haven't got a president?"

Witness: "No, no president. Einor Mohn is the president. He is the only president."

Question: "What happened the second night of this?"

Witness: "Well, the police just came down and said: 'Break it up, we can't have this,' and then the trucks disappeared over in the market and everything went along serenely. They paid $15 or $16 to get unloaded."

Question: "As a result the hall was broken up (by) police department here in Los Angeles?"

Witness: "It was broken up not by the police department but by the men themselves. The men didn't want to go over there because they had to work for $1.50 an hour. It was too far to go over there in the first place because they have their locality down there where they can hop in and get their glass of wine or their cup of coffee or this and that and the other thing that they want, and it was too far away from activity."

At this point Senator Crittenden asked this question: "You made the remark awhile ago that the swampers, as a separate union, were not necessary, or something to that effect." Explaining what he meant by that, the witness said:

"Under the laws of transportation if you pick up a shipment at a point of origin, you ordinarily get assistance from a shipper in the loading of that truck in this fashion: It all goes back to the railroad car business; if you order a car in at your platform, the railroad doesn't come down and take it off your platform and put it in the car, you have got to do that yourself. The truck goes a little farther. They loan one man to assist in loading. When they get to the destination my tariff says that I must deliver merchandise up to 16,667 pounds, or 10,000 pounds minimum, or 18,000 will be top, I am supposed to lay that man's merchandise in front of his building or on his platform not to exceed 25 feet from the end of my truck. The consignee is then supposed, or is compelled to pick that merchandise up and keep it moving out of my truck driver's way. Over here in this market if they would furnish their own checkers to move the merchandise out of the way as we take it off the trucks, we will put it 25 feet from the end of the tail gate and the driver on the truck will do that."

In response to questions, Witness Ramsey said that the driver could do it fast enough to accommodate within the time approximately that it was being done and added: "Where we have to deliver at street level we will furnish our own men whose prevailing price is $1 an hour for 40 hours a week and time and a half over that," and added, "* * * we were all union operators."

The witness was asked if he ever knew of the union inviting the farmers or haulers in to discuss the terms of the contract and he said he understood that: "they went to the California Vegetable Association and interviewed them and they agreed to that, but the California Vegetable Association, or the Vegetable Growers or something along that line, haul their own merchandise. They are not in the highway transportation business."

Assemblyman Hastain pointed out that it was apparently the truck drivers' association and the common carrier, etc., that had been attempting to get out from under this added burden and he wanted to know if there were any other organizations or associations helping them or had they ever helped in trying to relieve the situation, and the answer was, "No."

Asked if the marketing association or the dealers had helped, the witness made the following statement:

"Well, the Market Association consists of a secretary, whom I have spoken of a number of times as Homer Harris. Now, Homer Harris works for the Market Association. He doesn't work for me and if anything is done to help me, it throws an additional expense upon the market houses, which he doesn't want. So he is of no help whatsoever. So long as these things are as they are now, as I say, I am saving those market houses at least, well, it would take three swampers a day to handle the merchandise coming in and a market swamper that works in a house, I believe, gets $50 a week. So I am saving them $150 a week."

The witness was then asked, "In other words, with your driver and possibly a man or two with the houses over there this whole deal could be handled entirely without any additional labor whatsoever." And he answered: "That was correct."

Chairman Hatfield suggested it might mean that the market houses would have to employ additional men and the witness stated: "That is correct, yes, or the men that they already have there that do nothing, they just stand around and look at my men work."

Assemblyman Hastain suggested: "They have to have someone to handle those crates after they are dumped on their platforms, don't they?" And the witness replied: "That is right. They have to lock them up."

Chairman Hatfield then asked if they had anything to do until the crates were dumped on their platform, and the reply was "That is correct."

Assemblyman Hastain reminded the witness he had stated that the sheriff's office, the district attorney's office, the chief of police, had their representatives come down and see the situation, and asked them if he had ever talked to any of that group following their investigation and if anything came out of their investigation. The witness stated he had not done so personally but that he thought Mr. Grant of the Motor Truck Association did, but that they showed no further interest after that. He stated they said the conditions were deplorable; that they were bad, but that nothing was done in regard to it.

Question: "Where do you folks turn for protection up here?"

Witness: "If it comes down to the point where you have got to fight, you get in and you get yourself a jack handle and do the best you can until the fight is over or you are in the hospital."

The witness was reminded he had made the statement that his transportation rates had been increased at one time 3 per cent and another time 6 per cent. He said: "No, the rates have been increased one time * * * and it was 6 per cent and all merchandise up to 18,000 pounds; 3 per cent on merchandise of 18,000 pounds and up." He was then asked if he could give any estimate on the percentage that his labor cost had increased during this period of time in comparison to the increase in rates which he received. He stated he didn't have labor cost compiled but that they had increased 38 per cent. Asked if his labor cost has increased 38 per cent against an increase of 3 per cent and 6 per cent, he replied: "A general average of 4½ per cent."

Assemblyman Lowrey asked the witness to state again definitely what happened if he started to unload his load without the swampers. The following reply was made:

"After a period of time after you have had a couple of those fights or wrestles, or whatever it is, you just don't do it, but if you do go out and attempt to unload it, the business agent will see you and he will let you get, with your own man, or your own men, two-thirds of it off; then he swoops down on you and brings two men and you pay these two men the full amount for unloading the load."

Question: "If you don't, then there is violence?"

Witness: "That is correct."

Question: "What has been the additional rate of expense or cost to the farmer?"

Witness: "Well, the farmer probably has had, oh, a 40 per cent increase in his rates by a contract carrier."

Question: "But no increase by common carriers?"

Witness: "No."

At this point, the witness asked Senator Hatfield if he might read into the records a market labor figure that he had paid out for one week's work.

The chairman gave him permission and he stated that it amounted to $1,019.01.

Asked if that had been paid to swampers, he replied: "To swampers for one week from August 19th and August 25th. One man was paid $243.37, another one $205.42, one $221.91, another one $248.67. The others were smaller amounts."

Asked if he had the names and if tabulated, he stated that the first one was for $243.37 Sharpe, that he was a member of the local and was a swamper. The second one, he stated, was for $205.42. All the name he had was Sandstrom. He was asked at that point if that check was for the individual man's work or if it included any other individual and he replied that it was for his own work for one week. The next check was for $221.91, Davis, and the next check was for $248.67 to Mendoza.

Senator Crittenden asked if these men were considered more technical men than the drivers. The witness replied: "No. The driver by far exceeds, not only does he know how to load produce, but he knows how to drive, repair, change tires, and get a truck over the highway."

Summarized testimony of E. E. Cox, rancher 24 years, of Irvine, California

The next witness was E. E. Cox. Before he was called, Senator Crittenden asked that a witness be produced from the Railroad Commission to show how they arrived at rates set forth on the transportation of agricultural crops with carriers. Mr. Bryant who was called stated he was there as an observer for the Railroad Commission. Senator Crittenden remarked that he didn't want an observer; he wanted someone to testify. Chairman Hatfield requested that Mr. Bryant take it up with whoever was responsible and to procure the information Senator Crittenden had requested.

The next witness was Edgar E. Cox of Irvine, California, a rancher for 4 years producing dried beans, hay, vegetables at Irvine; alfalfa and vegetables in Los Angeles County. He stated he did all of his own hauling into the Los Angeles market in his own trucks. He stated the last that he hauled in was a crop of bell peppers. This fall he had to haul in a crop of peas and a lot of times he hauled green peas, whatever crops he happened to have. He stated he did not employ contract haulers. He did all his own hauling. He was asked to review the situation. He stated he could tell what happened when they first tried to organize in the Los Angeles markets.

"I was hauling in there with a rather small truck, about five tons to a load, * * * about 1937. This trouble started along about 1940, I believe it was, the winter of '40. It might have been the winter of '39 but it was along about that time. And owing to the fact that during those times we were not getting enough for our vegetables to any more than pay the cost, we tried to do everything ourselves that we could to save every penny that we could to meet expenses. When I would come into the market these swampers would want to help me unload my load and I said: 'No, I can't afford to hire you to unload my load because I can do it myself in 20 minutes and why should I give a $1 to you. The $1 means a lot to me and I need it and I am not going to give a dollar to you.' * * * That went along for two or three nights, finally one of these fellows came to me and he said: 'You had better let me unload that load or there is going to be trouble.' I said: 'Maybe so, but I am not going to let you unload it.' So I started to unloading and in about 10 minutes, why, here came a big automobile, a man got out and stood near the front of my truck. He first looked the truck over and wanted to know where my license plates were, what my name was, and I said: 'Well, before I answer you any questions, I want to know who you are.' He said: 'I am from the labor union.' I said: 'Well, so what? That doesn't mean anything to me.' He said: 'Where are the license plates that are off of your truck?' I said: 'That is none of your business unless you have got an officer's badge.' I said: 'I am not giving you any information.' He said: 'What is your name?' I said: 'That is some more of your business, isn't it?' He said: 'Well, I am going to get it.' I said: 'Go ahead.' He stands out in front, he has a couple of fellows standing behind him with their overcoats on and their hands in their hip pockets, I don't know what that meant, but I wasn't very badly worried because I had a man in the cab with a six-shooter on them, so if they started anything, why I would be ready for them, so I talked pretty brave. So he said: 'Well, what business have you got to unload this load in here?' I said: 'It is my property I brought in to sell,' and I said I was going to unload it on the sidewalk. He said: 'This isn't your property.' I said: 'Who owns it?' He said: 'The minute you crossed Indiana Street down there that load becomes part of the union property and is handled entirely by the union and you have got nothing to do with it.' I said: 'What kind of a damn law do you operate under?' He said: 'We make our own laws.' * * * I don't know what his name was. He just said he was the union representative. He said: 'Well, don't bring any more produce into this market or you are going to get into serious trouble,' and he tried to find the name off my truck. I didn't have any license numbers on it because at that time I was changing over from the BE (Bd. of Equalization) license to PC (Public Conveyance) license and I had to send the plates in and I also had to send the white slip in. It just happened that I didn't have either the white slip or the license plates on the truck. All I had was the red card on the windshield, which you couldn't read by his flashlight. So he couldn't find out who I was or where I was from or what I was doing or any of my business, because I didn't think it was any of his business to start with. * * * It was either '39 or '40 I don't recall which. It has been four or five years ago."

"So I went ahead and finished unloading my load, started out of town and just as you turn around Ninth there was two men in a Ford coupe started following me. Well, they followed me clear out, pretty near to where Telegraph Road intersects Ninth and I did not like the looks of them, so I switched down the side road and back through an alley and got around behind them and I followed them and where they went to, I don't know, but, anyhow I got suspicious I didn't haul any more stuff on my trucks during that season. I sent it in by common carrier. The next night they looked that market all over trying to locate my produce."

"In the meantime they had found out, they went to the man who handled it, and found out what my name was and they tried to locate my produce, said they wanted to dump it on the street, but I outsmarted them a little bit, because I sent it in under another name by common carrier and they didn't locate it. So I was just about to finish up the season and I sent in the rest of the season's crop under those conditions and since then I haven't had any particular trouble."

"It was shortly after that that the union did agree to let the person who owned the truck and owned the produce unload their own loads, although I have been approached several times by these swampers wanting to help me and I tell them 'No, it is my truck and I am going to put it out where I want it. That is my business.' They haven't bothered me particularly since then. I haven't hauled in there since February."

In answer to questions, he added he had no trouble this year, had done his own unloading without any interference or difficulties during 1943, '42, and '41. "I didn't have any trouble after that first ruckus that I had, any particular trouble. I didn't have much after that excepting these fellows come around make a few threats wanting to unload and saying, 'We will see that we do get to unload it.'"

The witness was asked whether he knew of any other farmers in his locality who were hauling in with their own trucks, and he said he knew that there were several. Asked if they were able to unload their trucks without any difficulties, he said: "No. They hire swampers." He added: "I am the only one I know of that doesn't hire swampers, and I just refused to do it."

At this point Chairman Hatfield stated that he was going to ask the representative of the union this question: "I have been advised that the farmers who are hauling in on their own trucks and their own produce are requested to join the union and pay monthly dues, I believe, of $2. Do you know anything of that?"

Mr. Cox said he did not and that he had never been asked to do that.

Summarized testimony of C. J. Cogan, rancher and salesmanager 27 years for the Irvine Company, Santa Ana, California.

The next witness was C. J. Cogan, a rancher and salesmanager for the Irvine Company, Santa Ana, a position he had held for 27 years. Asked to state his experience with the shipping of produce into the Los Angeles market, he testified as follows:

"Various tenants on the ranch produce vegetables on a crop share basis, and it is their duty either to deliver the merchandise to an accepted house in Los Angeles, either at the Seventh or the Ninth Street Market subject to our instructions, or to any place that they desire to have their merchandise handled and sometimes they dispose of their merchandise through the channels which are best suited to them, and we dispose of ours through our own channels in Los Angeles."

"We have experiences that have been very distasteful to us, extending over a period of approximately four years and we have never been able to get to the bottom of just why these activities existed. We have endeavored to constructively get to the bottom to find out just why they existed and for what purpose and why we were subjected to certain charges and impositions that we felt were not right and reasonable."

"Sometimes our tenants haul their merchandise on their trucks in to Los Angeles. It is their own produce on their own trucks. And we used to deliver all of our merchandise to the receiver's doors, unload it, and with the assistance of the receiving clerk there put our merchandise in such a place where we had it going, either by automobile or on a consignment basis."

"We have had to adopt a different system of hauling this last year for two reasons: First because several of our tenants found it necessary to stay away from the markets. These reports came to me that they just didn't like to get into the arguments with the gentlemen who were in the market and demanded the privilege of unloading the merchandise, and they thought it necessary to let either contract haulers or men who were in that business take the responsibility and get the merchandise there the best they could."

"It has got to a point right now where we are seriously considering the reduction of our vegetable acreage and staying out of the vegetable business entirely because after all we don't want to antagonize people, we don't like to get into antagonizing fights and we, before we pay out what we figure is tribute and imposition, would like to know the source and the reason and if it is legal and if it is a justified charge against our commodities."

"A few years ago we unloaded one of our own trucks on the ranch with flax, and contracted to Spencer-Kellogg here at Terminal Island, * * * produced on the ranch. It was loaded on our own truck. It was our own property, driven by one of our own employees and he proceeded to the Spencer-Kellogg organization at Terminal Island and was met at the gate and told: 'You can't enter this gate unless we take charge of this truck and there is a swamper on this truck to unload.' The man didn't phone and ask me or I would have immediately returned the truck back home with the load intact until I found out just what the charge was for. He brought back a little card and it wasn't a union card, it was just a card with 'Received $2 for unloading flax,' and the man's name was unintelligible. I thought that was a peculiar thing for a union to allow a piece of paper like that to go out as a fee for unloading a truck."

"Nevertheless the man paid that tribute for unloading and returned to the ranch and he was severely criticised for so doing because it was his duty to phone me that this imposition had been made, and the tribute demanded."

"Apparently, that was the start then of many such instances until we got into the Los Angeles Market. One afternoon about 2 o'clock I couldn't understand why a truck hadn't returned to the ranch empty. He had taken a load of peas up in the morning. This is in the pea season of 1942 and entering into 1943. This call came from a well-known house on the Ninth Street Market and he said: 'Mr. Cogan, I can't unload the peas.' I said: 'For what reason?' He said: 'We have a man picketing us out here and he won't allow these peas to be unloaded.' He said: 'For what reason?' He said: 'You have got to pay swampers to unload this truck.' And I said: 'Well, I don't know just what these swampers are or what it is all about, but I am not going to pay anything for unloading that truck until I know definitely what it is for and who imposed the law and whether it is legal or not.' I said: 'I would like to talk to the gentleman who is carrying the picket sign.' So he got on the line and he said: 'Well, brother——.' I said: 'Cut out the brother stuff. Let's get down to facts.' He said: 'Before you get this truck load of peas unloaded we have got to have so and so and so on for swampers.' It had to be paid, so much for unloading, see. * * * It wasn't indicated (how much) over the phone, but whatever the regular rate was for that particular work, that had to be paid. * * * I said: 'Before I pay any tribute for unloading those peas I will bring the sheriff's office over or the police over to the market. That merchandise is for the soldiers that need that food and it was guaranteed to be delivered to this organization at Los Angeles for the purpose of getting it to the Army Quartermaster's Department.'"

"'Well,' he said, 'you try and get it unloaded.' He said: 'Who are you, anyway?' I said: 'I just happen to be the representative of the producer of these peas. I am not going to argue with you and I am going to act in good faith, but I don't think that it warrants any objection on your part to get that merchandise unloaded until I find out the reason for paying this tribute.' He said: 'You try and get it off.' I said: 'All right, if you give me the line for just about five minutes, if you don't mind, and you stay and I will call you back.'"

"I called the sheriff's office in Los Angeles and apparently they weren't in a position to do anything. I then called the police."

Questioned who he called at the sheriff's office, he replied: "I asked for Biscailuz, but I didn't get him, but I got some department officer there. I probably could trace the call if I referred back to my records. Then I phoned the police and the police did send some representatives over there and in the meantime this man who had been picketing deserted the place over there and beat it away. The final result was that we unloaded our peas and that was the last we heard of anything for sometime. Several of our growers then wrote reports to me that they didn't like hauling the merchandise into Los Angeles because they finally had to get swampers to unload, and we couldn't understand it. We had no notification that the unions were making these demands. We had no letters or submission of contracts that they wanted these men to unload our trucks, and we finally hired a contract hauler at Los Angeles. He used to haul in 10 to 12 tons of peas a night, 10 to 12 tons of tomatoes, depending on the crop that were ready for market and it finally got to the point where this man came to us and said that he couldn't do any more hauling. He said that it was a question that he wasn't making any money. He wasn't satisfied to sit around and wait in the market at night * * * he was operating in '41 and '42 * * * his name was the Takeway Truck Company. He is entirely out of the trucking business, and he told us it was a matter of impossibility for him to do any more business for us because of the lost time that he suffered in these markets. Some nights he would get up there as early as 9 o'clock to unload peas and they wouldn't be unloaded until 3 o'clock in the morning due to the fact he had to hire these swampers and it was impossible to get the men to get the load off, not being enough of these swampers to hire, or not being on the job in the market yet. So he was forced to leave his load alone, he couldn't touch the load at all. We just took it on the nose and couldn't understand why the union was operating in this manner without notifying the producers or the farmers. This evidence was coming down to us by phone and brought to us by the growers and the straw broke last year when we received an account sales from one of the producing houses in Los Angeles making a deduction for union charges and we couldn't understand them at all, so we demanded a reason for taking it off. So this organization simply stated: 'Well, if you want us to handle your merchandise that is the only way the merchandise can get into this store, because if we don't pay the union's dues for unloading this truck, we are picketed, and it drives our trade away from the doors.' Well, we gave emphatic notice to this organization, and likewise the organization that was handling the peas, that under no consideration would we tolerate any deduction whatever for tribute or union activities until we were assured that it was law and that it was recognized by the State heads, or whatever department this came under. But nevertheless there is one sales slip on which it distinctly states 'Union dues to unload truck $2 for 200 units of tomatoes.' "

(The document referred to was marked as Exhibit No. 3)

The witness was asked what a unit was and replied: "A lug," and that it would be a cent a lug and that 200 lugs could probably be unloaded by his truck driver and himself in about three-quarters of an hour, also properly stacked ready to sell at the commission house door. He continued: "You will notice on that account sales there are several different sizes of tomatoes in those various lugs. The unfortunate part about this unloading is that after the merchandise is put on the ground by these swampers it then has to be resorted into the various sizes, because you can only sell them together. It is very annoying when you have to double handle them and it doesn't do the tomatoes or the lugs any good."

Asked who did the sorting, the witness continued: "It is either done by the commission houses or we have to get off the trucks afterwards and do the sorting ourselves. Now, I submit as evidence again, on November 18, 1943, a charge for unloading, 103 units, of $4 by the same house, a union charge (for tomatoes)."

(The document referred to was marked as Exhibit No. 4)

Chairman Hatfield asked: "How long would it take to unload 100 lugs?"

The witness replied: "20 minutes," and continued, "The money was deducted from our account sales, and we have permitted that to stand because at that time we were taking this matter under advisement and under consideration in Orange County with the idea to see if eventually this might come to a head. We wanted to have sufficient evidence in hand to prove that these deductions had been made."

Asked if these were the only two deductions made, he said: "I don't know just how many deductions there are until I would go through the records, but if it is necessary for you I will do so."

Asked if he still permitted deductions, he stated: "No, we are not," and continued: "For the simple reason that we are staying out of the market, and we have just simply said we are growers, 'If you want this merchandise in you will have to get it in the best way you can.' * * * We are not going to ship into the market under these conditions at all and any merchandise that moves today during the season, if we are to move any tomatoes this season, they will be moved on our trucks with our own drivers and we are not going to tolerate any interference in the unloading of those trucks. We are going to unload our merchandise at the very door of the commission house where that merchandise is going to be received, and we are going to put it there at any risk."

Asked when the last time he delivered to the market, he replied: " * * * by a contract hauler, June the 9th * * * I would have to verify this, around February, 1944, February, March, April and May, up to June, 1944 * * * and the contract hauler informed me that inasmuch as I prevented him from making an assessment against us for any tribute paid for unloading the merchandise, he said that he was caused to pay out of his own pocket, which I believe, because I have checked him and followed him through, but that would be his own evidence, that he has had to pay the swampers out of his own pocket for unloading this merchandise. But there have been occasions when he has come to me and stated that due to the fact he had to wait three to four hours up here and two to three hours, and delayed sometimes longer than that, he said, 'I think I should be reimbursed for the delay caused by waiting for the fellows to come along and unload my trucks.' We fought it bitterly for two reasons: because there had been no notice served on us that this was the law, and we didn't know who were the parties creating these laws and making these demands or the unloading fees against us."

Asked if he had actually stopped making deliveries, he stated: "The Irvine Company has absolutely stopped making deliveries, yes," and added: "We are still growing produce * * * we allow our rentals to come up on the tenant's trucks."

Asked if they had to pay the swampers, he replied: "I can't speak for those tenants."

Asked if any of his produce was hauled by contract haulers or by other haulers, he said: "The contract hauler and tenants, yes," and added: "* * * (hauled) from the Irvine Ranch at Tustin, Orange County, California, up to Los Angeles. Of course, our haul is so diversified down there that we have hay, grain, sheep, cattle contract hauling right now. We are switching right over to contract hauling for the simple reason that we don't want to get into any of these arguments until it is demonstrated to us that it is the law, and it is a fair and reasonable charge, and we do want to go on record at this meeting that we prefer to go back to the old style of delivering our merchandise and unloading it with the assistance of the commission houses, which was a satisfactory way of handling the merchandise for years and years until this racket started."

Asked what the rates of contract haulers were, he replied: "For hauling tomatoes from the ranch into the City of Los Angeles it is 10¢ per lug. * * * That is about 38 miles and the tenants must have those tomatoes at roadside ready to put on the truck."

Chairman Hatfield: "Can you tell me what the contract price was prior to Pearl Harbor?" The witness stated: "We have had tomatoes hauled into Los Angeles for as low as 6¢ a lug."

Assemblyman Lowrey inquired: "Do you know what union is involved in this * * * even by intimation? Do you in your own personal mind have any idea what union it is?" The witness replied: "Only what I have heard as evidence in this meeting this morning and, of course, I have never followed the union activities at all only along the line of my testimony here."

Chairman Hatfield inquired if he had extensive holdings and kind and amount of shipping in 1943, and the witness stated: "Yes. * * * Well, last year, '43, I would say we shipped 17 to 20 thousand lugs of tomatoes into the Los Angeles markets, * * * depending entirely upon the crop and the demand here for the tomatoes. It was a particularly good year last year for tomatoes in Los Angeles. * * * We are very large shippers and very important factors in so far as the delivering of produce into the City of Los Angeles is concerned. Just to give one instance, we put in 100 railroad cars of celery into Los Angeles in one season, * * * and we ship a lot of cabbage into Los Angeles. I have just delivered into the City of Los Angeles 400,000 pounds of avocados."

Asked if he got into any trouble with the swampers, he replied: "No, because we deliver the avocados to La Habra, then it is the handler at La Habra, that is his difficulty then from La Habra into Los Angeles. We stay out of the Los Angeles market. We deliver our merchandise to the La Habra people rather than send our employees through into the markets."

Senator Crittenden asked him if he knew anything about the proposed contract mentioned in the testimony, supposed to be put out by the labor unions, and the witness replied: "I didn't know anything about it, sir. I have never seen it."

Asked if he received an invitation from the labor unions to confer with them concerning necessity of having swampers to unload, price, and if it was reasonable, he replied: "No."

Asked if he had ever had any violence result from refusal to use swampers, he stated: "No. We have never had any violence. I have heard of it."

If the director finds that a stabilization and marketing plan is necessary to accomplish the purposes of this chapter, he shall formulate a stabilization and marketing plan for fluid milk or fluid cream or both for such area and issue a notice of public hearing upon the plan formulated to all producers and distributors of record with the Department of Agriculture who may be subject [ed] to the provisions of such plan. The notice of hearing may be effected by mail, or by publication for five successive days in a newspaper of general circulation in the area designated and shall specify the time and place of such hearing, which shall not be held prior to 10 days from the mailing, or from the final publication of such notice; provided, however, that if no daily newspaper of general circulation is published in the area designated, publication of notice for two successive weeks in a weekly newspaper of general circulation in the area will be considered proper publication of notice. At the hearing, interested parties shall be heard and records kept of the proceedings of such hearing for determination by the director whether the plan proposed will accomplish the purposes of this chapter. If, after public hearing the director determines that the proposed plan will tend to accomplish the purposes of this chapter within the standards herein prescribed, he shall issue an order to all producers and distributors of record with the director, and subject to the provisions of such plan, declaring such plan in effect within 30 days from the date of such hearing.

The board shall not incur any expenses other than those for per diem and mileage, unless approved by the director.

SEC. 4. Section 736.11 of the Agricultural Code is amended to read:

736.11. The director shall, as soon as possible after the effective date hereof, in all marketing areas wherein a stabilization and marketing plan for fluid milk or fluid cream is in effect under the provisions of this chapter, designate and prescribe or provide methods for designating and prescribing, minimum wholesale and minimum retail prices for fluid milk or fluid cream.

(a) Minimum wholesale prices [which], as used herein, shall mean prices at which fluid milk or fluid cream, or both, shall be sold by distributors to retail stores including the prices at which fluid milk or fluid cream shall be sold by distributors to retail stores, restaurants, confectioneries and other places for consumption on the premises but excluding, however, the prices at which fluid milk or fluid cream, or both, shall be sold by distributors to retail stores owned or operated by such distributor [;] . [and]

(b) Minimum retail prices [which] , herein, shall mean prices at which fluid milk or fluid cream, or both, shall be sold by distributors and retail stores to consumers.

Such assessed fees received by the director shall be used in the administration and enforcement of this chapter.

At the close of each fiscal year any amounts which have been collected and which the director finds are in excess of those which may reasonably be required for the administration and enforcement of this chapter shall be refunded pro rata to all distributors from whom such sums were due and collected pursuant to the provisions of this section.

SEC. 6. Section 736.15 of the Agricultural Code is amended to read:

736.15. The terms of office of each member shall be two years, unless the plan is terminated before said term expires. Said local board [shall] may meet in regular session each month, and each member shall be allowed ten dollars ($10) per diem and mileage at the rate of five cents ($0.05) per mile for attending such regular meetings. The board, or any member thereof, may be allowed actual and necessary expenses incurred in attending any meeting or conference called or authorized by the director within or outside of the boundaries of the State of California. Said board with the previous approval of the director may employ such personnel as may be necessary in the performance of its duties and shall adopt rules and regulations for its conduct. The board shall submit a budget of its expenses to the director for his approval. The funds to be used for the maintenance of the board shall be paid from the proceeds of fees and licenses paid to the director under the plan upon verified claims presented by the board to the director. The board shall not incur any expenses other those for per diem and mileage, unless approved by the director.

SEC. 7. Section 737.5 of the Agricultural Code is amended to read:

737.5. (a) [After thirty (30) days after the effective date of this chapter no] No distributor shall deal in fluid milk or fluid cream without first having obtained a license from the director. The special licenses provided in this section are in addition to any and all licenses required by any other section of Division 4, Agricultural Code, or any law or ordinance of any county or municipality of this State.

Applications for the licenses herein provided shall be made on forms prescribed by the director and shall state the name and address of the applicant and such details as to the nature of the applicant's business as the director may require. Such applicant shall further satisfy the director of his or its character, responsibility and good faith in seeking to carry on the business stated in the application. Licenses shall be issued for a period of twelve (12) months from the first day of each year or for the remainder of the calendar year from the date of issuance. Application for [a new] renewal of a license for the following year by a licensee, together with the application fee, shall be made [at least thirty (30) days prior to the commencement of such year,] prior to the expiration date of the license held, and if not so made the applicant shall pay an additional sum equal to [50] 100 per cent of the [license] application fee before such license shall be issued.

(b) Every distributor before purchasing any fluid milk or fluid cream from a producer must execute and deliver to the director a surety bond in the minimum sum of one thousand dollars ($1,000), executed by the applicant as principal and by a surety company qualified and authorized to do business in this State as surety. Said bond shall be upon a form approved by the director, and shall be conditioned upon the payment in the manner required by this chapter, of all amounts due to producers for fluid milk and fluid cream purchased by such licensee or applicant during the license year. Said bond shall be to the State in favor of every producer of fluid milk and fluid cream. In case of failure by a distributor to pay any producer or producers for fluid milk or fluid cream in the manner required by this chapter, the director shall proceed forthwith to ascertain the names and addresses of all producer-creditors of such distributor, together with the amounts due and owing to them and each of them by such distributor, and shall request all such producer-creditors to file a verified statement of their respective claims with the director. Thereupon the director shall bring an action on the bond on behalf of said producer-creditors. Upon any action being commenced upon said bond, the director may require the filing of a new bond and immediately upon a recovery in any action upon such bond, such distributor shall file a new bond, and upon failure to file same within ten (10) days in either case, such failure shall constitute grounds for the revocation or suspension of the license of such distributor. In the event that recovery upon the bond is not sufficient to pay all of the claims as finally determined and adjudged by the court, any such amount recovered shall be divided pro rata among said producer-creditors.

The minimum bond of one thousand dollars ($1,000) shall be required of distributors purchasing an average daily quantity of fluid milk of less than 100 gallons; distributors purchasing an average daily quantity of 100 gallons and less than 200 gallons during any calendar month during a license year must post a bond in the amount of two thousand dollars ($2,000); distributors purchasing an average daily quantity of 200 gallons and less than 300 gallons during any calendar month during a license year must post a bond in the amount of three thousand dollars ($3,000); distributors purchasing an average daily quantity of 300 gallons or more during any calendar month during a license year shall post a bond in the sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000).

The same bond requirements shall apply to purchases of fluid cream, except that for the purposes of computation of the required bond, 10 gallons of fluid cream shall be deemed the equivalent of 100 gallons of fluid milk.

In the event that any distributor so increases his purchases of fluid milk or fluid cream during the license year that said purchases exceed the amount for which said distributor is bonded, said distributor shall forthwith post such additional bond or bonds as may be required to comply with the provisions of this section.

The licenses and bonds provided for in this section shall be required for each distributor, and for the purposes of this section each subsidiary milk plant or branch milk plant whether under one ownership or not shall be considered as an individual distributor.

Failure of any distributor who purchases fluid milk or fluid cream from producers to execute and deliver the bond as herein provided and required shall constitute a violation of this chapter; failure of any such distributor to post such additional bond or bonds as may be required to comply with the provisions of this chapter shall likewise constitute a violation of this chapter.

SEC. 8. Section 737.6 of the Agricultural Code is amended to read:

737.6. [The fees for all licenses shall be as follows, based on the volume of fluid milk and fluid cream handled for the previous year, provided that any distributor who has not previously engaged in such business during such prior year shall pay such minimum license fee as provided by this chapter.

(a) Distributors purchasing or handling an average daily quantity of fluid milk of less than 50 gallons shall pay a license fee of three dollars ($3); distributors purchasing or handling an average daily quantity of 50 gallons and less than 100 gallons shall pay a license fee of five dollars ($5); distributors purchasing or handling an average daily quantity of 100 gallons, and less than 200 gallons, shall pay a license fee of ten dollars ($10); distributors purchasing or handling an average daily quantity of 200 gallons, and less than 300 gallons, shall pay a license fee of fifteen dollars ($15); distributors purchasing or handling an average daily quantity of 300 gallons, and less than 500 gallons, shall pay a license fee of twenty-five dollars ($25); distributors handling an average daily quantity of 500 gallons or more shall pay a license fee of fifty dollars ($50).

The same license requirements shall apply to purchases of fluid cream, except, for the purpose of computation of the required license fee, 10 gallons of fluid cream shall be deemed the equivalent of 100 gallons of fluid milk.] (a) For filing the application herein described, each applicant shall pay a fee of three dollars ($3).

(b) Distributors who are subject to the provisions of any stabilization and marketing plan made effective by this chapter, shall deduct from payments due producers for fluid milk, fluid cream, or both, including each distributor's own production, the sum of two mills ($0.002) per pound milk fat on all milk fat contained in fluid milk, fluid cream, or both, or in the case of distributors who do not purchase or receive fluid milk, [fluid cream, or both,] in milk fat pounds, the sum of seven mills ($0.007) for each 10 gallons of fluid milk sold. The amount of the assessments so deducted shall be paid to the director on or before the fifteenth of the month following the month during which such fluid milk or fluid cream was received. The amounts of all such assessments so received by the director shall be used in the administration and enforcement of this chapter, or any stabilization and marketing plan established by this chapter.

At the close of each fiscal year any amounts which have been collected and which the director finds are in excess of those which may reasonably be required for the administration and enforcement of this chapter shall be refunded pro rata to all producers and/or distributors from whom such sums were due and collected pursuant to the provisions of paragraph (b) of this section."

Prayer

O Lord, God of our Fathers, Eternal Ruler of the universe, who dost from Thy throne in the heavens behold Thy children here on earth, pour out, we beseech Thee, comfort and constancy to our Nation stunned in bereavement.

Grant comfort to those who bear the burden of personal loss through the intimate ties of family life, broken by the death of our President.

Grant direction for our Allied Forces and renewed confidence to those who have been bereft of their Commander-in-Chief.

Though his body be buried in peace, his name and the principles of liberty and justice for which he stood shall live long after him.

In the words of his favorite Scripture, we now see through a glass darkly but we long for the day when we see face to face.

May there abide faith, hope, love—these three—but the greatest of these is love.

May the memory of our President be enshrined with those who have conspicuously served Thee and our beloved Nation.

He has fought a good fight, he has finished the course, he has kept the faith—now there is laid up a crown of righteousness. In Jesus' Name.—AMEN.

The following resolution was offered:

By Senators Shelley, Biggar, Breed, Brown, Burns, Carter, Collier, Crittenden, Cunningham, DeLap, Desmond, Deuel, Dillinger, Dilworth, Donnelly, Dorsey, Fletcher, Gordon, Hatfield, Hulse, Jespersen, Judah, Keating, Kuchel, Mayo, McBride, McCormack, Mixter, Parkman, Powers, Quinn, Rich, Salsman, Seawell, Slater, Sutton, Swing, Tenney, Ward, and Weybret:

Senate Resolution No. 90

Relative to adjournment in respect to the memory of Franklin Delano Roosevelt

One solemn thought pervades America today; throughout the world one name is on the lips of all. For Franklin Delano Roosevelt is dead.

It is difficult, indeed, to grasp this fact so suddenly thrust upon us and to realize at once its fateful portent. Nor can we question the wisdom of Providence in calling him at the height of his unprecedented career, in the full tide of his activity, and at a time when all freedom-loving men did look toward him to guide them in the path of liberty and lasting peace.

We do know, though, and the world will long remember, that if at this hour Democracy can still be acclaimed as the great political ideal of humanity, it is due in large part to Franklin Delano Roosevelt, who illuminated this ancient word with his vitality, who nurtured it through bitter years by realistic measures, and who gave to it the last full measure of his strength and devotion; now, therefore, in profound sorrow yet with infinite pride, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, That when the Senate does this day adjourn, it shall do so in respect to the memory of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, Thirty-first President of the United States, four times chosen by the people as their beloved leader; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate of the State of California is hereby requested to convey to the bereaved family of Franklin Delano Roosevelt this expression of tribute from the Senate of the State of California.

Resolution read, and adopted by a rising vote of the following Senators:

Biggar, Breed, Brown, Burns, Carter, Collier, Crittenden, Cunningham, DeLap, Desmond, Deuel, Dillinger, Dilworth, Donnelly, Dorsey, Fletcher, Gordon, Hatfield, Hulse, Judah, Keating, Kuchel, Mayo, McBride, McCormack, Mixter, Parkman, Powers, Quinn, Rich, Salsman, Seawell, Shelley, Slater, Sutton, Swing, Tenney, Ward, and Weybret.

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolutions were offered:

By Senator Hatfield:

Senate Resolution No. 91

WHEREAS, Milk and dairy products are essential foods; and

WHEREAS, Their continued production are necessary to the feeding of our armed forces, the carrying out of our lend lease commitments to our Allies and the liberated countries, and the well-being of the people of this Country; and

WHEREAS, The continued production of milk and milk products is absolutely dependent upon maintaining and increasing California's herds of milking dairy cattle, which if not so maintained but must be sold and slaughtered for beef, will take years to replace; and

WHEREAS, The proper milking of such milk producing cows by experienced, trained milkers, the majority of whom have been raised on dairies, is essential, not only to maintain maximum production but to preserve the cows' ability to produce; and

WHEREAS, California dairymen have wherever possible conserved labor by installation of mechanical milking equipment, thus greatly increasing available manpower; and

WHEREAS, Prior to the war approximately 25 per cent only of California dairies were equipped with such milking machinery, which is now between 85 per cent and 90 per cent, which change has been the dairy farmers' contribution to the conservation of manpower; and

WHEREAS, Even with these efforts the shortage of dairy labor is acute and further drains on the remaining trained dairy workers will be disastrous, and will inevitably result in discontinuance of some dairy operations with the consequent reduction of necessary milk production; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, by the Senate of the State of California, That the Congress and the Director of Selective Service are hereby urgently requested to take cognizance of these facts and of the pressing need for conserving the existing supply of dairy labor in this State and of the disastrous results that will accrue in the event this shortage is further aggravated by continued drafting of dairy labor, to the end that all possible deferment of trained bona fide milkers in this essential line of work will be granted; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate is hereby directed to send copies of this resolution to the Governor and to each of the California Members of the Senate and House of Representatives and to the Director of Selective Service for the United States and for California.

Resolution read, and on motion of Senator Hatfield, adopted.
